Prohibition's Death Knell.
What Mothers Get.
Gold, Yellow and Cold.
Mr. Woodin Likes Music.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PROHIBITION is doomed, apparently, and "the saloon is back already," as far as beer is concerned. Long bars with brass rails are numerous.

The country will have two problems; first, how to control the army of criminals that prohibition and bootlegging have created; second, how to deal with the whisky problem, which will come back in the open. Education must do the latter. Compulsion has failed.

NEW YORK state voted repeal of prohibition, 150 to 0. Now West Virginia votes wet, and Mr. Farley, postmaster-general, who understands politics, says this makes repeal of prohibition certain during 1933.

Those that still believe in prohibition, in spite of bootlegging, racketeering, kidnaping and general deviltry, have hitherto felt sure that thirteen states, enough to prevent repeal, would remain solidly dry. But Mr. Elihu Root, in spite of his great age, presiding over New York convention, says:

"Two-thirds of the Senate, two-thirds of the House of Representatives, fourteen states having a population of over 45,000,000 inhabitants, have all condemned the Eighteenth Amendment.

"There are those who say, 'never mind, we will have thirteen states to prevent the repeal of that amendment.' They are mistaken."

They probably are.

DR. L. S. COTTRELL, Jr., of the University of Chicago, presents statistics proving that when the bride and bridegroom's parents are dead, the marriage is more successful, because young people are happier when they do not have to bother about the wife's mother. That is probably sound in cases where the husband is satisfied with that kind of a wife.

It should have been mentioned, but was not, that the father and mother might have had an easier life if the girl baby, now the bride, hadn't arrived, keeping the mother up at night, with everything from teething to mumps.

ONE THING is certain, and Dr. Cottrell might mention it in his next marriage statement: The mother gets from her children exactly what she gives to her own mother, no more and no less.

If the young wife schemes to keep her mother out of the way, she will find her daughter doing exactly the same thing later, and she will deserve it.

LITTLE ESTHONIA went off the gold basis yesterday, and France, last big "gold standard" country, begins to worry about gold. It would be embarassing to have a lot of gold accumulated with much trouble and suddenly discover that the rest of the world did not particularly care about it.

If you were on a desert island with a pile of gold and passing ships signalled that they were not interested in gold and couldn't take it for passage money, that would be annoying.

IT IS NOT probable that the world will lose its love of gold now or for many a year. Habits, including the habit of being controlled by organized finance, are not so easily dropped.

But with this country off the gold basis, wheat has gone above a dollar a bushel, and everything else has gone up like a captive balloon, cut loose.

And news that the dollar dropped again yesterday delights everybody, except perhaps a few that have their fortunes in governments bonds and other bonds marked "gold."

They don't realize that the only value in a bond or a dollar is the name of the government on it, and if they don't realize that the name of this government is the world's best, so far as values are concerned, they probably will worry.

MR. WOODIN, secretary of the treasury, not only plays the violin, but actually composes music, and will hear some of it played next Sunday by the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra.

This causes some "civilized Americans" to smile sarcastically. They see queerness in a Secretary of the Treasury interested in music.

If Mr. Woodin went to Africa and killed a "rhino" or a gorilla, or took on the champion middleweight with the gloves, having first arranged for the champion middleweight not to hit him, many Americans would say:

"Ha, that's a great he-man, our Secretary of the Treasury."

LEAVING the earth, taking off from Chicago's great "Century of Progress" Exposition, Prof. Jean Piccard will trust his life to a balloon and the wind's caprices, and sail up into the stratosphere.

He will go up ten miles or more, taking his compact physical laboratory, studying stratosphere conditions, cosmic rays, etc., and landing, he expects, in about twenty hours.

It is hard for us to realize that we live at the bottom of an ocean of atmosphere some five hundred miles deep, as deep-sea fish live at the bottom of another ocean made of water a different mixtures of hydrogen and oxygen.

If one of those deep-sea fish could rise above his ocean stratum about a thousand yards he would be the deep-sea Piccard.

While man goes up ten miles physically, taking his body with him, scientists in Chicago learn that the government Bureau of Standards has devised an "electrical ladder," an arrangement

'Not Infatuated'

BETTE DAVIS

BETTE EXPLAINS MODERN TROTH

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 29.—(INS.)—"Of course, we're terribly in love. But we're not infatuated."

Thus Bette Davis, blonde motion picture star, today explained her "modern marriage" with Harmon O. Nelson, Jr.

Nelson at present is in New York finishing a radio contract. Miss Davis is here at work in pictures. And the prospects of an immediate reunion for the bride and groom of four months are not very good.

Lecturing on marriage, Miss Davis cited the case of Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., recently divorced.

"They fell in love. That's where they made their mistake. I don't think anyone who falls in love should marry."

"Of course, we're terribly in love. But we're not infatuated if you know what I mean."

Miss Davis flatly denied reports that her marriage was nearing the rocks.

Two Sleeping Boys Trapped by Fire

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 29.—When a gasoline torch ignited burlap sacks on which they slept under a porch, Joseph Giffin, 10, and Clarence Gilmore, 12, Youngwood, were burned seriously early today.

Other boys escaped and notified firemen, who rescued the trapped lads. The boys were sleeping out to escape the heat.

Crash Injuries Kill Greensburg Agent

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 29.—(INS.)—Fred Bierer, 46, Greensburg salesman for a Pittsburgh meat firm, died in a hospital here today from a fractured skull.

The injury was received when his car somersaulted three times near here yesterday. The cause of the crash has not been determined.

Justice Department 'Fires' W. Va. Lawyer

WASHINGTON, June 29. —(AP.)—David D. Ashworth, United States attorney for the Southern District of West Virginia, has been informed his resignation will be "agreeable" to the Department of Justice, the department said today.

GOLD BLOC REBUFFED AT PARLEY

Conference at London Feared on Verge Of Collapse

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

LONDON, June 29.—The European gold bloc met with defeat tonight in an important skirmish in thier battle to force the United States to agree to immediate currency stabilization.

Representatives of the gold powers—France, Switzerland, Holland and Belgium—called upon Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, presiding over the world economic conference, and demanded that the conference immediately declare in favor of stabilization and that de facto stabilization of the dollar be made effective by the end of next week.

REJECTS DEMAND

MacDonald rejected this demand on the ground that violent fluctuations of the dollar, made such a declaration impossible.

Though various rumors circulated that the currency crisis was about to wreck the conference—that delegates of some of the gold countries were preparing to go home—an official British spokesman expressed optimism tonight.

Announcing an adjournment until tomorrow of the various discussions in which the gold bloc powers had participated throughout a hectic day, he declared:

"Progress was made towards a declaration respecting the countries still on the gold standard."

MacDonald previously had conferred with Prof. Moley, American Assistant Secretary of State, and President Roosevelt's special emissary to the conference.

Asked if stabilization had been discussed at this meeting, Moley replied:

"Our discussion was general and not on that subject."

It was reported that an appeal may be sent to President Roosevelt in order to reach an agreement with the gold bloc.

AGE PENSION DECISION UP TO MARTIN

Pinchot Ready to Call Legislature If G. O. P. Will Pledge Votes

HARRISBURG, June 29.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today placed on Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, the burden of deciding whether a special session of the Legislature should be called this summer to consider old age pensions and minimum wages.

Pinchot said that if a sufficient number of Legislators will vote for the old age pension amendment to the constitution he will call a special session this summer.

Pinchot, in a telegram sent to Martin at the Republican rally at Rolling Green Park, said:

"If you still consider this sort of legislation 'dangerous,' as indicated in your recent speeches, it would be useless to spend the people's money on an extra session at this time. My action awaits your decision."

VARE'S AID SOUGHT

At the same time the Governor wired William S. Vare at the park urging him to use "the new influence and power vested" in him as National Committeeman by securing "from Martin the necessary pledges" from legislators to legalize old age pensions.

In his telegram to Martin at the Republican rally, which unofficially opens the Republican 1934 election campaign, Pinchot said he is being urged from many quarters to call a special session of the Legislature "to better the condition of Pennsylvania workers." He said:

"We need to banish the sweatshop from Pennsylvania through minimum wage and maximum hour laws, and provide old age pensions. Thus a lasting barrier would be built against industrial depressions, in step with the national pro-

'Fatty' Arbuckle Dies In Sleep After Party on Wedding Anniversary

ROSCOE (FATTY) ARBUCKLE . . . DIED ON AN ANNIVERSARY

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, bulky comedian of the films, died early today of a heart attack that followed a celebration of his first wedding anniversary of his third marriage. He was 45 years old.

The actor, who had been attempting a "comeback" from the blight that fell on his career as the result of the mysterious death of an actress during a gay party in 1921, died in his sleep in his suite in a midtown hotel.

His third wife, the former Addie McPhail, screen actress, discovered his death. After summoning the house physician, she became hysterical from grief. Physicians said Arbuckle died of angina pectoris.

Arbuckle completed a picture "Tamalio" yesterday at a Long Island studio. It was one of six he had recently done for Warner Brothers. After dinner last night, he went with his wife to the apartment of William Lahiff, restaurant proprietor, where a party was given in honor of the Arbuckles' anniversary.

After the party Arbuckle retired, apparently in fairly good health, despite recent attacks of a heart ailment. A few moments

JEERS AT CHARGES

Oakland Boss Says He's Innocent, and Not Dumb

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, June 29. — Senator James J. Coyne today foregathered with members of the Republican State Committee and the young Republicans at their Selinsgrove picnic, then shoved off for tonight's heavyweight championship fight in New York with two predictions:

First, that Primo Carnera would whip Jack Sharkey.

Second, that the Senator himself would beat the indictment handed down against him yesterday by the federal grand jury, charging vote frauds in the last election in the Thirty-second Congressional District.

VERONA NO WORRY

The Senator was asked whether his prediction for Carnera was a play for the Italian vote of the Hill district, controlled by John Verona, chairman of the Third Ward, who questioned the Senator's qualities of leadership in a statement a couple of days ago He replied:

"Sure not. Why should I be worried what Verona says?

VOTERS QUESTIONED

Ballots Cast in Congress Fight Being Checked

The Government today continued its big task of checking on voters to substantiate its charges that State Senator James J. Coyne and eight others, indicted yesterday, had falsified ballots at the November election.

Two hundred and twenty-five Fourth Ward voters, the largest number summoned on one day thus far, jammed the corridors of the Federal Building and were called, one by one, before the grand jury.

They were expected to tell how they voted for Congressman in the Thirty-second Congressional District and for United States Senator, as a means of determining to what extent alleged ballot cheating was carried on.

Among the crowd of witnesses was Tom Coyne, brother of Senator Coyne, and one of the "Three Tonis" indicted in connection with operation of the Monaca Club.

'NIGHT RIDING'

Senator Coyne and his aides were charged in the indictment with "night riding" tactics in visiting polling places and directing the alteration and substitution of ballots.

Five of the nine indicted posted $3,500 bond each today.

They were Alderman John J. Verona, chairman of the Third Ward; John A. Fugassi, a member of the Board of Mercantile Appraisers; George W. Savage, a city assessor, Ninth Ward; Louis J. Conley, deputy fire chief and chairman of the Ninth Ward, and Frank J. O'Halloran, chairman of the Ninth District, Ninth Ward.

BAKER BOWL, PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—The Pittsburgh Pirates' slate for the present Eastern invasion showed six victories and as many defeats as they took on the Phillies this afternoon in the first contest of their last series along the Atlantic Seaboard.

Heinie Meine was all set to do Buccaneer slab duty in the initial contest here. Big Jim Elliott, veteran lefthander, was one of the hurlers Manager Shotton had ready to face the Corsairs. A single game will be played tomorrow, the series to be concluded Saturday with a dual bill.

JUDGE TO VISIT COUNTY WARDS

Judge Benjamin Lencher will interview every ward of Juvenile Court and every caretaker beginning July 10, he announced today.

This action, he said, was to find out for himself as nearly as possible the conditions existing in the foster homes. He will take seven weeks for the interviews.

He said:

"I am going to see them all, or as many as I can."

This announcement followed the closing of another home because of possibilities of malnutrition. Judge Lencher complimented Investigators Leo A. Riordan and William Windhorst for their work in showing conditions in the homes.

3 Beer-Guzzling Goats Presented To N. Y. Zoo

NEW YORK, June 29.—(INS.)—Central Park Zoo today has a perfect advertisement for bock beer.

It comprises three Angora mohair goats—each of them a lusty beer drinker.

The trio was presented to the zoo by the American Angora Mohair Breeders' Association of Texas. In a telegram from F. T. Earwood, president of the association, zoo officials were informed the goats are natives of Vice President Garner's home town—Uvalde; that they are named "Cactus Jack," "Alfalfa Bill" and "The Kingfish."

Zoo officials proved the propensity of the animals for beer when they gulped down a case of light 3.2 with evident gusto.

Film Comic Victim Of Heart Attack; Made Comeback

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, bulky comedian of the films, died early today of a heart attack that followed a celebration of his first wedding anniversary of his third marriage. He was 45 years old.

Earthquakes Rock Aleutian Islands

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, June 29.—(INS.)—A series of sharp earthquakes starting at 4:40 a. m. today rocked the Southern Aleutian Islands but caused no damage.

The quakes were still being recorded several hours after the first disturbance.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 29.—(INS.)—Kingston was shaken by an earthquake at 8:45 a. m. today. No damage was reported.

4 DIE IN STATE FROM HEAT

The death toll of the record-breaking heat wave today reached 25 in six states, four in Pennsylvania. The weatherman said there was no hope for relief soon. Thundershowers, forecast, were expected to have little effect on the temperature.

The humidity increased discomfort. In mid-afternoon the temperature here was 89, and likely to be near the June 29 record of 94, made in 1901, before night, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

Eastern and mid-western states were bearing the brunt of the wave. All deaths reported were east of the Mississippi River.

Lloyd Citro, 26, of Mt. Pleasant, was killed when he dived into a swimming pool. Thomas Easton, 65, Mt. Pleasant, died after being overcome while working in his garden.

Hugh Durin, 56, no home, was in South Side Hospital, after being found unconscious last night at Warrington avenue and Sawmill Run boulevard. Patrolman James O'Connor, 1300 Beaver avenue, was overcome while on duty at the North Side jubilee day in West Park last night.

Balbo Mass Flight Meets Delay Again

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 29.—(AP.)—Adverse weather conditions over the Alps and in Germany again prevented the departure today of 25 Italian seaplanes on a cruise to Chicago.

Are you in danger of losing your home? The government has made a total credit of $2,300,000,000 available to protect your interest in your property. But you must meet certain conditions and go through a fixed procedure to obtain this assistance. The new act and the provisions of its operation are being explained in a series of articles by George H. Snyder. Today's article appears on page 4.

CHAMP WEIGHS 201 FOR BOUT

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey, the heavyweight champion, preceded his rival, Primo Carnera, on the official scales of the State Athletic Commission today and weighed 201 pounds for his 15-round title match tonight in the Madison Square Garden bowl, Long Island City.

Sharkey's weight was four pounds under what he scaled for the match in which he won the title from Max Schmeling a year ago.

The champion was found to be in exceptionally good condition. In contrast with his usual talkativeness before a big fight, he appeared repressed and had little to say.

Carnera, who came to New York in the morning from his New Jersey camp, had not put in an appearance at the commission before the examiners finished with Sharkey.

It was steaming hot weather this afternoon, with some cloudiness, but the forecaster predicted the fistic show would not be interrupted by showers. The temperature was 85 at 2 p. m., and likely to be in the high seventies this evening.

Carnera scaled 260½ pounds, giving him an advantage of 59½ pounds, and marking the biggest difference in the weights of heavyweight title contenders since Jack Dempsey spotted Jess Willard more than 50 pounds and beat him at Toledo in 1919.

Taylor, Home, Finds Steel Outlook Good

NEW YORK, June 29.—(INS.)—Outlook for the steel industry today is optimistic, according to Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, returning from Europe. He said he had been abroad on "routine business."

Taylor added increase in construction of small houses was "a good sign in respect to industry."

Ocean Cable, Broken By Sub, Repaired

ORLEANS, Mass., June 29.—(AP.)—Operation of the New York-Brest, France, cable was resumed today after it had remained idle since a submarine disturbance disabled it last November. Repairs were completed yesterday by cable ships which had been at work on the breaks several hundred miles east of the grand banks.

State Cuts Interest As Aid to Banks

HARRISBURG, June 29.—(AP.)—The state took a hand today as relief for banks by cutting half the interest rate for state deposits.

Ex-Chambermaid Wife Of Heir Visits Here

The attractive young Norwegian who has been sitting, quiet and inconspicuous, under the shaded parasols of the campus at Allegheny Country Club for the past week is none other than Mrs. William W. Willock, Jr., the former chambermaid who married into the Jones and Laughlin steel millions.

The young lady whose secret marriage more than three years ago to the Willock heir caused a furore, was in Pittsburgh with her shy, mild-mannered husband and her mother-in-law, who is the former Miss Alice Jones, of the steel family.

Except for two events the couple spent a quiet week. Last Saturday they, with the elder Mrs. Willock attended the society wedding of Madelaine Alexander and William A. Gordon III. Tuesday they were guests at the debut of Althea Robinson at the W. C. Robinson estate, Sewickley Heights.

The young Mrs. Willock was Adelaide Ingebretsen, a chambermaid in the Willock mansion at Syossett, N. Y., when she and Willock were married. Later Willock's mother forgave them.

Willock owns a $7,000,000 trust fund set up for him by his grandmother. He is also potential heir to many millions.

U. S. MISINFORMED ABOUT STOCK LOSS, KAHN ADMITS

HINTS FEDERAL AGENT MADE ERROR

Committee Considers 'Bull Market' Inquiry

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Internal Revenue Bureau was "misinformed" about a stock loss of $117,584, claimed by Otto H. Kahn, millionaire head of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York private bankers, to escape income taxes in 1930, he admitted today at the Senate banking inquiry.

The government was informed that Kahn sold the stocks directly on the market. He admitted this was an "error" because he actually sold the stocks direct to his daughter, Mrs. Maud E. Marriot.

The "error" may have saved Kahn payment of $16,000 in taxes, although such sales were held "legal" in the recent trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank of New York, who was acquitted on charges of income tax evasion.

PAID BRITISH TAX

Kahn, while paying no American income taxes at all in the last three years, paid $4,480.26 in income taxes to Great Britain in 1930.

He explained that the British tax had been paid, in all probability, on the income from the British securities he owns. He said he paid no British taxes in 1931 or 1932.

Ferdinand Pecora, Senate counsel, produced a report filed by N. C. Shelds, the field agent who examined Kahn's 1930 income tax return.

The agent, who sought to collect $16,000 from Kahn, said the stock had been sold on the market. Under these circumstances, the deputy commissioner of Internal Revenue overruled the agent and held Kahn did not need to pay the tax.

The agent reported:

"There were no direct dealings between the taxpayer and his daughter, with the exception of a gift of stocks to the father by the daughter."

Pecora asked:

"Don't you know now it was an erroneous statement by the agent?"

Kahn said:

"So I am informed. It was an erroneous statement by the agent or an error on the part of my counsel and I am inclined to give my counsel the benefit of the doubt."

Kahn diverted the hearing to to defend the incomes of wealthy men. He read a statement from one Wall Street statistician that 87 per cent of the total income of the nation in 1926 went to people with incomes of less than $5,000 and 13 per cent to persons with incomes in excess of $5,000.

Regarding the stock market, Kahn said that government regulation would be a good thing. He defended speculation but asasiled gambling.

Roosevelt 'Bull Market' Probe Threatened

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(INS.)—An inquiry into the Roosevelt bull market, which rocketed stock prices and sent wheat over the dollar mark, was considered today by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Some members of the committee urged an immediate market inquiry to determine whether speculative interests were inflating stock and commodity prices to unload their holdings on a "sucker" public.

They feared a rising tide of values might be followed by a crash, which would wipe out all recent advances toward economic recovery. A decision was postponed for the present, pending further developments in the market trends.

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, committee chairman, said:

"The present bull market may be investigated. The committee has discussed it and our decision will depend entirely on how the market acts in the future. We don't want to see another October, 1929."

DISABLED VETS ATTACK HINES

CINCINNATI, June 29.—(AP.)—Aroused at reduction of disability allowances, Disabled American Veterans of the World War today demanded "immediate removal" of Gen. Frank T. Hines as director general of the Veterans' Bureau.

The resolution, adopted at the organization's annual convention, also demanded the removal of J. C. O'Roberts, Hines' assistant in the bureau.

Hines appeared before the convention yesterday. Hostility to his appearance was expressed before he reached the meeting hall, but a motion that he be denied permission to speak was ruled out of order, and he was heard quietly.

Congressman Byron Harlan of Dayton, O., was booed lustily today when the attempted to explain to the convention the provisions of the economy act.

At the conclusion of the address, the convention passed a resolution of thanks to the "brave souls" in Congress who opposed passage of the economy measure.

Black Turned Pink Will Attend Fair

NEW YORK.—(INS.)—Jean J. Dauphin, 57, who claims that "voodoo pills" changed his color from black to pinkish white and took the kink out of his hair has been released from Ellis Island by order of the Department of Labor. He will be allowed to proceed to Chicago, where he will be exhibited at the World's Fair.

Woman, 102, Vet Of Five Slumps, Optimistic

ATLANTA, Ga., June 29.—(AP.)—Experiences of five depressions over a lifetime of 102 years leave Mrs. Sarah L. Mincey, of Sparta, Ga., cold to worry over today's economic problems. She says:

TURK ON STAND DENIES ARSON

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(AP.)—Denial that he conspired with a Pennsylvania arson gang to start the Ellington apartment fire that claimed 12 lives was made on the witness stand today by Ray I. Turk, proprietor of a barber supply company.

Turk, charged with first degree murder, calmly asserted he had nothing to do with the fire.

BOYCOTT STAMP BAN PROTESTED

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Samuel Untermyer, noted lawyer, has protested in a letter to Postmaster General Farley, he said today, against a Postoffice Department order forbidding the pasting on envelopes of stamps urging boycott of German goods.

The stamps, inscribed "For humanity's sake don't buy German goods," were circulated by the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, which recently launched a nationwide campaign against the Hitler regime.

The Jewish organization, which is protesting against the alleged abuse of the rights of minorities in Germany by Chancellor Hitler, enclosed upwards of 5,000,000 blue-colored stickers in letters sent to 100,000 Jews in this country.

C. B. Eilenberger, third assistant postmaster general, several days ago ruled that the use of the stamps was not permissible in the United States mail.

HITLER VISIONS GROWTH OF DICTATORS

Other Countries Must Confer Authority, He Says

BERLIN, June 29. — (AP.) — Chancellor Hitler believes that to succeed other governments must have powers as wide as his.

"The problems with which Germany is now busy are the same the world over.

"In the final analysis, those who would solve these problems will have to have the same authority as we in Germany.

"I think many countries criticizing us must take the same steps before many years."

Unemployment measures already have put 1,700,000 persons back to work, he said—700,000 more than the summer seasonal figures.

A hint of the Nazis' relations with the Catholic Center party was given last night by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, in a speech at Stuttgart.

He attacked the party, which is the only one outside the Nazi fold since the dissolution of Dr. Hugenberg's Nationalists. Goebbels said:

Apparently hastened by Dr. Goebbels' attack, the Centrist faction in the Berlin city council dissolved itself today on its own initiative, thus forestalling Nazi interference.

The faction, 11 strong, intends joining the Nazis as associate members. Three Centrists resigned from their party. Similar action by individual members was reported in Cologne, where 15 Centrists joined the Nazis.

HITLER AT NEUDECK

NEUDECK, Germany, June 29. —(INS.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler arrived from Berlin by airplane today to confer with President Von Hindenburg on the resignation of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, as minister of economics and agriculture.

Formal announcement that Hugenberg's resignation had been accepted by the aged president was expected to be made immediately after their conference. There were reports, however, that Hugenberg might be won over to some important job outside the government.

FOUR ARRESTED IN HITLER PLOT

BERLIN, June 29.—(AP.)—A conspiracy against Chancellor Adolf Hitler's authority was revealed today by the arrest of four former army captains, all of whom were in the Nazi economic section.

A Hitlerite communique said they were excluded from the party and taken to a concentration camp, on the Chancellor's orders, for attempting to interfere with Hitler's decisions in economic matters by "trying to influence chambers of commerce and business and industrial undertakings, as well as district Nazi leaders, through telegrams and telephone calls."

HITLER REGIME ATTACKED BY LUDENDORFF

Ex-War Lord Warns Nazi of Former Kaiser's Fate

International News Service.

MUNICH, Germany, June 29.—Breaking through the confines of a muzzled press, Gen. Erich von Ludendorff, German World War hero and co-author with Chancellor Hitler of a revolutionary attempt in 1923, launched a devastating attack upon the Nazi regime today.

In his weekly newspaper Volkswarte, Ludendorff characterized himself as a "better Nazi" than the present leaders of the party, violently assailed Germany's imitation of Italian Fascism and pointedly warned Hitler of the fate that befell Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Ludendorff reminded Hitler he fought shoulder to shoulder with him and faced rifle volleys from Bavarian soldiers in the streets of Munich 10 years ago. Warning the Nazi chancellor of Wilhelm's fate, Ludendorff wrote:

"He tried to establish a Reich without Socialist support, but the Socialists took power from him. The Nazis want to establish a third Reich with the help of the Catholic Church, but they'll live to see what course things will take."

Ludendorff protested vehemently against Nazi interference with his own "struggle for the liberation of all Germans from Judah and Rome," which was a reference to the recent suppression of his own staunch Protestant organization, Tannenbergbund.

The general denounced the Fascism "with which the Nazis are now fraternizing" as un-German, declaring that "the Italian people are theatrical people, inclined to hand-clapping and stool-pigeoning, but the Germans are truthful and honest."

2 BOYS KILLED BY TRUCK

Two Carrick boys were dead and a third was confined to his home today with injuries when they were struck as a truck careened from Library road, near Mollenauer, late yesterday.

Russell Engel, 14, of 1600 Dellrose avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital. His chum, Charles Linz, 12, of 1534 Brownsville road, died in the hospital five hours later. The third victim, James B. Hannegan, 13, of 1640 Oakhurst street, is under the care of a physician at his home.

The boys, homeward bound from a hike to South Park, were walking in a ditch at the side of the road when struck by the truck, driven by Richard Mihn, of 317 North Dallas avenue, according to a coroner's report.

The driver was arrested by Constable F. K. Simmons, of Bethel Township, and released on bail. Morgue attaches said Mihn told them the steering apparatus failed to function properly on a curve.

of receiving and sending radio, that will take the intellect of man, with his body, 550 miles up into the air.

This scientific ladder will enable scientists to study conditions in the ionosphere, the outer layer of our "air ocean," where the process of ionization is supposed to be carried on by the energy of the sun, 93,000,000 miles farther out in space.

MAN IS a queer little creature, who insists on fighting, cheating, oppressing the poor and accumulating what he doesn't need. But he is also an able little creature ceaselessly working to extend dominion over the earth and reaching out for knowledge into the outside universe.

THE JAPANESE navy, exploring and charting islands in the Pacific, reports that one island called "Ganges Island," named for the "sacred river" in India, has entirely disappeared.

This island, on the route from Southern Japan to Hawaii, has sunk beneath the waves, whence it rose sometime in the past. Its vanishing makes little difference to the big world on which it was a tiny spot.

Some day this island we call the earth will freeze up, lose the sun's light perhaps, and be marked off the chart of active interstellar islands by scientists of some higher planet in another solar system, and that won't make much difference to the universe.

ARMS PARLEY ADJOURNS

GENEVA, June 29.—(AP.)—The world disarmament conference was adjourned until October 10 today, despite a protest by Rudolph Nadolny, Chancellor Hitler's representative, that the long recess amounted to a first-class funeral for disarmament.

The German representative declared the public would be disillusioned by the adjournment and asserted the plan to hold private conversations between now and October was useless. He was supported by the Hungarian representative.

Rene Massigli for France repudiated the charge that adjournment meant the death of disarmament, saying everything depended on whether the governments participated in private conversations in a spirit of collaboration and peace.

Gold Flood Pours Over French Borders

PARIS, June 29.—(INS.)—With France battling to remain on the gold standard, consignments of the precious yellow metal today continued to pour over the French borders and into the vaults of French banks, where it remains ear-marked and guarded by one of the strongest armies in the world.

Bankers now admit a movement of capital, which financial leaders had long foreseen, is at last under way at full pressure. It is even feared the flight of gold from neighboring countries may reach panic proportions.

France Proposes World Ship Combine

LONDON, June 29.—(AP.)—A world steamship combine, especially on the North Atlantic, designed to lift the shipping business from its present chaos, was proposed by France today at the World Economic Conference.

The French suggested an agreement which would limit the tonnage of future construction as well as the speed, which would regulate prices, and serve as a "Washington" limitation treaty in the field of commercial shipping.

ROOSEVELT OFF ON LAST LEG OF CRUISE

President at Wheel As Schooner Heads For Campobello

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

LAKEMAN'S BAY, Roque Island, Me., June 29.—Despite the persistent fog which still limited visibility to approximately a hundred yards, the Amberjack II, with President Roosevelt at the wheel, weighed anchor today and started on the final leg of the cruise to Campobello, N. B.

The presidential party lunched aboard the schooner while it anchored off Lubec, Me.

Norman H. Davis, roving ambassador, who arrived from Boston aboard a Navy destroyer, was closeted with his chief for several hours yesterday aboard the Amberjack and went over the ground covered at the Geneva parleys, outlining to the President the accomplishments of the disarmament gathering.

Davis, it was announced, will return to Geneva next week.

Speaking on disarmament, he said:

"I do not mean to say that completing a disarmament convention will be easy. But I am very hopeful, because Europe has made up its mind that its choice is between peace and chaos."

France, Davis said, has not given up hope for security guaranties from the United States or Great Britain and still has for her objective a pact of mutual assistance for continental Europe alone to secure European peace.

WENDEL 'HEIR' GETS JAIL

NEW YORK, June 29.—(INS.)—Thomas Patrick Morris, the Scotch house painter who sought to talk himself into the Wendel fortune, today was senfenced to an indeterminate term up to three years because Surrogate Foley and a jury found his story too fantastic for belief.

Morris insisted that he is the legitimate son of John G. Wendel and he refused to ask any mercy from the court.

Surrogate Foley today signed an order settling the estate of Ella V. von E. Wendel, multi-millionaire spinster. He approved an agreement between the executors and nine persons not mentioned in her will. The nine were recognized as fifth degree relatives.

The nine recognized heirs, it was said, received more than $2,000,000 from the estate to drop their claims.

Paris Garbles Notes To Shun War Blame

PARIS, June 29.—(Universal)—A twisted version of the Washington documents relating to the suit of the central powers for peace early in 1918 was published here.

Whereas the Washington publication of exchanges tended to show that France and Italy were responsible for holding up the armistice the Paris version places the blame on the United States.

French War Greed Indictment Upheld

BERLIN, June 29.—(INS.)—Countless lives could have been spared in the World War but for Franco-Italian territorial aspirations, former Hungarian Foreign Affairs Minister Gustav Gratz said, confirming the peace bids made to the United States by the central powers long before the World War armistice of November 11, 1918.

Farley Ax Now Falling On Hoover Postmasters

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Postmasters appointed under the Hoover administration in widely separated sections of the country are being asked to resign under penalty of dismissal, it was disclosed today.

The movement to clean up the postal service, which appears to be carried on with unusual vigor, is expected to clear the way for the appointment of many Democratic postmasters in the near future.

While Postmaster General Farley has consistently maintained no Republican postmaster will be removed before his term expires except for cause, the threatened postmasters are deluging senators and representatives with complaint that the motive is political.

A member of Congress from a small northwestern state asserted that at least 100 had written him that they are threatened with dismissal before their terms of office expire.

Similar complaints are being received by Republican members of Congress from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and other states. The Republicans meet most of the appeals with the declaration that, "we'd do the same thing if we came into power."

Reed Scores Use of U. S. As Catspaw by Allies

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(Universal.)—While European nations are trying to make the United States shoulder the cost of the final year of the World War, State Department secret documents show the conflict was dragged on throughout that period against the will of the United States while the Allies squabbled over spoils.

This statement was made by Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, following publication of State Department correspondence for 1918. He said:

"These letters show definitely that our European allies were fighting no war for the United States during that last year. They could have made an advantageous peace at any time.

"They were fighting a war for their own aggrandizement, arguing among themselves as to a division of the booty.

"There is not much question left that the United States was a cat's-paw during that last year of the war.

"And yet, now, they try to make us stand the entire cost of that year. Most of them have refused to repay us the money we foolishly loaned them to carry it on, the rest want to pay virtually nothing."

HARD-TO-MISS PREY WAITING FOR ARREST

Theft Plot Suspect 'Hiding' All Over Courthouse

City detectives today carried their search for Samuel Adler, 251 McKee Place, into the third consecutive day.

And Adler, candidate for jury commissioner, continued his normal life, waiting for them to show up.

He spent most of yesterday in the City-County Building and in the Courthouse—the Treasurer's, City Supplies, Sheriff's and Controller's office.

HE'LL BE AROUND

A sizable person — 386 pounds—he would, by his own admission, be hard to miss in any crowd.

Today he expected to be around town some more. He might be at home or downtown, but he wouldn' be dodging around corners at sight of detectives, although he couldn't stop detectives from doing a little dodging themselves, if need be.

In City Detective John J. Crouse's pocket was a warrant charging Adler with conspiracy and receiving stolen goods.

Adler is alleged to have sold white lead, electric bulbs and chamois skins stolen from the South Side city supplies storehouse.

Adler's strange immunity from arrest compares with the failure of Maurice Winters' political friends to secure soft treatment for him when he was arrested, Tuesday, charged with theft of the supplies Adler sold. Winters' friends didn't get to first base with Mayor John S. Herron or Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

DEFIES ARREST

Maybe it's all that Crouse couldn't find Adler, who answered the telephone in his home last night and said:

"No, sir, they haven't served me. What's more, they're afraid to—they better not.

"It's all a frame-up because I'm running for jury commissioner. Those goods were delivered to me properly and legitimately and I sold them. There's nothing wrong in that.

"I've got a $1,000 bond all ready if they serve me but I don't think they will. I might have some interesting things to tell and they know it. There's more to this than you may think.

"I'm still a candidate for that job and I'm not going to quit."

WANTS TO MEET SLEUTH

If Crouse wants a definite appointment with Adler, Adler and his wife will be guests of the federal grand jury in the Postoffice Building July 7, he announced.

Crouse said today that, rather than go off half-cocked, the bureau was making an intensive probe of the storehouse to see what's missing. He said:

"We are still investigating this case. There is quite a lot of things to attend to and just as soon as we complete our investigation action will be taken."

Winters was to have been arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today, but at the request of detectives, the hearing was postponed until July 6. The detectives said they want to take up with the city law department whether informations should be made against purchasers of the supplies.

GUARD FIRES ON PROWLER

A private watchman surprised and fired two shots at a prowler on the estate of H. Fred Mercer, attorney, 1025 North Negley avenue, early today, according to a police report.

The suspect escaped. Otto Kuttler, of 5215 Stanton avenue, the watchman, told East Liberty police he saw the prowler on the front lawn, and ordered him to stop.

His flight to the rear of the estate was followed by two bullets from the watchman's gun, police said, and the man leaped over a fence, ran down over a hill into Negley Run and escaped.

Kuttler told police he believed one of his bullets wounded the fleeing man.

FLORENCE WALTON

DANCER WEDS FILM MAN

LARDY, France, June 29.—(AP.)—Florence Walton, American dancer and war-time Broadway star, and Pierre Colombier, French motion picture director, were married at the City Hall yesterday, with the Mayor officiating.

The bride's witnesses were Prince and Princess Louis Ferdinand d'Orleans Bourbon, cousin of former King Alfonso of Spain.

A religious ceremony was to be held today in a local church.

Miss Walton was the former wife and dancing partner of Maurice (Maurice Mouvet), noted dancer who died in Lausanne, Switzerland, in 1927. She later married Leon Leitrim.

So acute will the wheat shortage become, it will be doled out in handfuls, Voliva declared.

WALES, NANCY CLASH AS HE WINS AT GOLF

Prince and Lady Swap Verbal Punches in Round on Links

By LAURENCE MEIER

WALTON HEATH, England, June 29.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales defeated Lady Astor, American-born peeress, in their spectacular golf match today.

Allowing his lady opponent a seven-stroke handicap, the Prince was able to win, two and one.

The match, one of the most unusual contests in the history of the grand old game, was played amidst a rain of quips and quirks and repartee today during the semi-finals of the parliamentary golf handicap.

The few privileged spectators allowed to witness the encounter wondered whether it was to be a battle of clubs or a contest of wits.

For the American-born woman member of Parliament kept up a running fire of conversation despite the fact the Prince showed some slight irritation that even a scant dozen souls had found their way onto the course to watch the proceedings.

CALLS CADDY DARLING

Conceded seven strokes by the prince in the 18-hole match, Lady Astor advanced to the first tee accompanied by Lady Alexander Metcalf. She said:

"Darling caddy, I must try a few practice shots."

The Prince of Wales looked at his watch and noted it was not quite 3 o'clock, the time the match was scheduled to begin.

"I think I must have a cup of tea."

The viscountess said:

"What's a cup of tea when there's a history-making game awaiting."

The prince made some teasing remark about Lady Astor's game. She assumed a pedantic attitude. She said:

"I shall keep my chin behind the ball. I shall keep on the fairway. I shall miss the bunkers. Isn't that what I have to do?"

The prince nodded and then inquired about handicap conditions. Informed he had to concede his opponent seven strokes, he exclaimed:

"Oh! Do I have to give all that?"

Lady Astor said:

"Yes, and I fear my game is going to be swell."

BOTH TEMPERAMENTAL

Both players manifested temperament at the start. Lady Astor drove from the first tee and then turned to a group of women behind her, saying:

"Don't follow us, please. Don't spoil our game. Watch us driving off from the tees if you must, but don't follow us in the fairways."

At the second tee, the prince turned angrily toward a few spectators who were trying to photograph his swing. He said:

"Please don't spoil my shot. If you must take photographs, don't take them now."

The first hole had been halved. The prince had missed the cup by three inches with his third putt. As he walked away, Lady Astor took him by the arm and said:

"Now wasn't that really bad putting? Say it was."

The prince made no reply.

Lady Astor knows the Walton Heath course well. The prince is a stranger to it, but despite his handicap, the caddies were betting 3 to 1 on Wales.

FATHER SLAYS 2 'STARVING' CHILDREN

'Not Sure, I'm Sorry,' He Says; Finds Them Dirty, Ragged

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 29.—(AP.)—Jap Ingram, 35-year-old father who says he "don't know whether I'm sorry or not," was in jail here today, accused of executing his two tiny children.

Frightened relatives and neighbors told officers that Ingram, estranged from his wife, came to a little cotton farm near Coweta at the dinner hour yesterday, wounded two of his wife's relatives and then, batting his little son and daughter on the head, led them to the farmhouse wall and shot them down.

The 2-year-old boy, Donald, died instantly, shot through the heart. His sister, Mary Lou, 4, lingered a few hours.

Brought to the Muskogee jail when feeling ran high in Coweta, Ingram, an unemployed barber, told newspapermen he couldn't be sure he was sorry. He said:

"They were dirty and ragged. I knew they had nothing to eat but corn bread."

Constable R. L. Jones, who arrested the father, said:

Jones arrested the father an hour after the shootings as he was hitch-hiking toward Sand Springs, where his estranged wife was employed. Jones took a small pistol away from his prisoner.

Sam Sewell, Ingram's father-in-law and John Voss, Sewell's stepson, who were shot on Ingram's arrival at the farm, were in a Muskogee hospital today. Sewell's condition was regarded as dangerous, but Voss likely will recover.

SISTER'S DEATH QUIZ RENEWED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 29.—(Universal.)—Joseph Humphries, wealthy hotel man of Miami and Andover; his mother-in-law and her daughter were questioned here by State's Attorney Vernon Hawthorne, of Dade County, Fla., and District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, in connection with the mysterious murder of two sisters near Miami, Fla., last month.

State's Attorney Hawthorne rushed here yesterday in a surprise reopening of the investigation into the mystery murder of Mrs. Meyer Shapiro, 42, wealthy widow, of Orbisonia, Pa., and her sister, Miss Lillian Howard, of Woodstock, Va., whose unclad bodies, their skulls crushed, were discovered wrapped in oilcloth in Dumfounding Bay, near Miami.

The two women had last been seen alive on the night of May 14, when they departed by auto from a Miami Beach hotel, ostensibly for their homes.

Questioned here, he declared he could throw no light on the crime, and said he had sold his interest in the Miami Hotel.

Humphreys' mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Glover, of Revere, appeared at the courthouse for questioning.

When her daughter, Madeline Glover, refused to answer questions of a state detective, a summons was served on her and she also was taken to the courthouse.

Parted by Sudden Death in the Night

MR. AND MRS. ROSCOE ARBUCKLE . . . . . DEATH CAME TO HIM IN A NEW YORK HOTEL

"Fatty" Arbuckle, 300-pound veteran of the screen, with his third wife, Actress Addie McPhail, whom he married in an elopement to Wesleyville, Pa., just a year ago this month.

ARBUCKLE DIES AFTER PARTY

later, however, his wife called to him, received no answer and then discovered that he was dead.

Arbuckle became known to millions the world over in the palmy days of pie-tossing comedy. He was reaping a fortune when in 1921 the death of Virginia Rappe, screen actress, followed a party in Arbuckle's suite in a San Francisco hotel. He was thrice tried and finally acquitted in connection with the case.

CAREER CUT SHORT

The scandal cut short his career as a movie headliner.

With his fortune depleted by the fight for acquittal, he remained in obscurity 10 years. In the last two years he made a few short comedies, but the screen fame that he once enjoyed did not return in its old-time manner.

At the age of 17 he was singing illustrated songs in a theater in San Jose, Cal. Later Leon Errol, then manager of the Orpheum Theater in Portland, Ore., put Arbuckle in the show business.

After entering vaudeville in 1913 and making a success of it, he was given a tryout by Mack Sennett of bathing beauty fame. This proved to be the opening wedge into the movies that led to his success.

He was married three times. His first wife, Minta Durfee, aided him during the dark days that followed the disclosures in the Rappe case. Later they were divorced and he married Doris Deane. A divorce ended that union. Last June he married Addie McPhail.

BLAST PERILS LOCAL WOMAN

SCRANTON, Pa., June 29.—(INS.)—A dynamite bomb, believed the work of disgruntled employes, rocked the home of Louis Sanner today, hurled occupants from their beds, and damaged a half dozen nearby buildings, including the Myrtle Street M. E. Church. No one was injured.

Sanner is division superintendent of the Pittston Company, a large mining firm. Mr. and Mrs. Sanner, two of their children, and Mrs. E. J. Cullen, of Wilkinsburg, were asleep on the second floor when the blast let go. They were hurled from their beds.

Mrs. Cullen is a sister of Mrs. Sanner and came here several days ago for a visit.

Mrs. E. J. Cullen, of 396 Center street, Wilkinsburg, who escaped in the Scranton explosion, is the wife of E. J. Cullen, Pennsylvania Railroad telegrapher. Her husband received a telegram this morning assuring him of her safety.

RALLY FOR BANK DEPOSITORS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 29.—Depositors in Johnstown's closed banks today prepared for a mass meeting tomorrow night at which attempts will be made to organize a branch of the Depositors' Protective Association.

Led by Mayor Eddie McCloskey, the depositors will hear Frank H. Schrenk, of Philadelphia, outline his plan for reopening banks.

The Schrenk scheme calls for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend banks 80 per cent on the 1926 value of their assets. The R. F. C. would hold the assets until they had regained their 1926 values. The Comptroller of the Currency would be restrained from ordering banks to sell out collateral on loans.

OPENING OF 12 CLOSED BANKS SEEN HERE

Release of Millions Of Frozen Deposits Expected Soon

As bankers struggled in Washington, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh to free part, at least, of the $141,000,000 in deposits tied up in unlicensed banks in Western Pennsylvania, the status of a few became known today.

Reorganization or reopening plans were learned to be under way in at least 12 of 21 that failed to open following the bank holiday.

Of the other nine, some may never reopen, it was learned.

REOPENING SCHEMES

A check of official and unofficial sources showed the following institutions working on reopening schemes in one way or another:

The First National Bank of Braddock, the Braddock Trust Company, the Union National Bank of Carnegie, the State Bank of Elizabeth, the Union National Bank at McKeesport, the Ohio Valley Bank, the St. Clair Savings and Trust Company, the West End Savings Bank and Trust Company, the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Sharpsburg, the Turtle Creek Savings and Trust Company, and the First National banks of Wilkinsburg and Crafton.

In the score of banks closed in Allegheny County are some $45,703,000 in deposits.

Surest of all is the Union National Bank of Carnegie, slated to open in July and pay depositors in full.

The First National Bank at Wilkinsburg is being organized to take the place of the First National Bank of Wilkinsburg, paying half of $5,439,000 in deposits. Much stock already has been subscribed by the public there.

A plan for reopening the State Bank of Elizabeth was to be discussed today with a banker acting as unofficial representative of the banking department.

LIQUIDATION UNDER WAY

The Ohio Valley bank was working to liquidate sufficiently to open sometime in September.

Plans for the Turtle Creek Savings and Trust Company to reopen are being formulated with good hopes of success it was learned.

Severe criticism is being leveled at both the Comptroller of the Currency and the secretary of banking. Both are charged with delay and harshness.

But one banker, who probably has been subjected to more rigorous requirements than any other in the county, came to the defense of the State Department today when he said:

"We paid out around 80 per cent of our deposits in the two years before the holiday. What we have left isn't as liquid as we might want, but is as liquid, I'm sure, as some banks now open.

"The difference is that we're in a hard-pressed community, where people are living on their savings. I think it is right that we should be required to be more liquid that many other banks.

"Also, having been unlicensed for some time, we'll be subject to suspicion when we open, and must be ready for anything."

FEDERAL AID

National and Federal Reserve member banks could look to sale of preferred stock to the public or to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for succor.

Efforts also were under way to extend aid to banks through exchange of Home Loan Bank bonds to the extent of 80 per cent of the face of bank mortgages; the banks then would be permitted to turn these into the Federal Reserve Bank as security for notes or post them as security for postal savings deposits, according to one plan afoot.

The state banks, however, cannot issue preferred stock. They look hopefully, however, to the Home Loan Bank. Many are expected to apply for Federal Reserve memberships soon.

Attempts to license institutions to pay in full when they are but 30 to 50 per cent liquid are not expected to meet with success in the district.

Police Balk Suicide, Crash Door in Home

Robert Williams, 35, of 828 McKean avenue, Donora, laborer, was in the McKeesport Hosiptal today suffering from gas inhaled in what police declared a suicide attempt at his home last night.

Police said they battered in a bathroom door to find Williams unconscious on the floor, after his wife became suspicious of an odor of gas in the home.

Bishops Score Divorce By Mutual Consent

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP.)—Bishops of two Protestant churches arose in unison today to voice objections to a plan of "mutual consent" for divorce proposed by Prof. Charles R. Metzger, of Indiana University, before the Association for the Advancement of Science.

Bishop George Craig Stewart, of the Episcopal Church, said:

"This is the year of the Century of Progress, and surely we are not going to revert to primitive customs upon the threats of those who have no religion."

Bishop E. L. Waldorf, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, declared:

"Marriage should be looked upon as a permanent state, rather than a mere convenience."

Both prelates were emphatic in their complete denunciation of Prof. Metzger's idea that divorce upon a plea of mutual consent—with a six months' interim before granting of the decree—would end perjury and subterfuge in divorce courts and make for happier lives afterward.

Bishop Stewart said:

"Under such a plan marriage would degenerate into an agreement between two parties to keep house together. The fundamental idea that when two persons are bound in wedlock they become one, would be destroyed."

He said that from one point of view—the sociological—that divorce by mutual consent had its points, but said the religious significance in marriage was deeper than the social.

As for Bishop Waldorf, he said he favored strengthening rather than weakening divorce laws despite Prof. Metzger's assertion that divorces were mounting in the face of more stringent laws to preserve marriage.

Aimee Gets Homesick In Paris Hospital

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

PARIS, June 29.—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton wants to go home. She wants to recuperate from her recent operation in the sunshine of California.

The noted evangelist, International News Service learned, expressed this wish today to attendants at the American Hospital. She said:

"I think it would be better for me to recuperate in California instead of remaining in Europe. I would be more comfortable there."

Mrs. Hutton first intended to go to Switzerland to recuperate, and there were reports her husband, David Hutton, Jr., planned to come to Europe to be with her.

But as her strength revived, her thoughts turned toward California.

Dr. Charles Bove, noted plastic surgeon who performed the operation, confirmed the news that Mrs. Hutton was thinking of home, adding:

"But with a woman of her impulsive, nervous temperament, anything is possible."

Mrs. Hutton is expected to be able to sit up and possibly walk around in her room next week, Bove said.

U. S. AID DENIED HOMES VALUED OVER $20,000

This is the third of a series of articles discussing the home owners' loan act of 1933 and explaining the procedure necessary for individuals to take advantage of federal assistance to protect the ownership of their homes.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor.

To make its owner eligible for assistance from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, a property must not exceed $20,000 in value. The value is to be determined through an official appraisal to be made by the corporation.

The corporation will not lend over $14,000 on any one home or more than 80 per cent of the appraised value of any.

MUST BE RESIDENCE

The owner must live on the property or hold it as his homestead. The definition of a homestead requires more complete explanation and the corporation, which still is only partially organized, has not yet made definite rulings on this point.

In order to come under the provisions of the act, mortgages must have been on record before the effective date of the law. This was June 13, 1933.

The act draws no clear line between farm homes and city homes, but typical farm loans should be handled by the Federal Land Banks.

The assistance of the Federal Home Owners' Loan Association is not to be given unless it can be shown that there is danger of foreclosure or that actual foreclosure has taken place. The aid cannot be given unless the home owner is unable to obtain money to pay his mortgage in any other way.

LIMIT ON OCCUPANCY

Homes will be eligible even though incidentally the premises may be employed for some other use such as a small business, but no home built for more than four families will be eligible.

In addition to providing for protection of mortgages where foreclosure is about to take place, the act provides for the redemption of homes lost within two years providing the present holder will accept terms similar to those to be offered to mortgage holders previous to foreclosure.

Further details on the operation of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation will be given tomorrow.

POPE BLESSES ROOSEVELT

VATICAN CITY, June 29.—(Universal.) — Pope Pius XI granting an audience yesterday to Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, extended the papal blessing to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in whose efforts to restore the world's economic tranquility he is keenly interested.

The Pope disclosed an accurate knowledge of the progress of events in the United States, Mayor Curley said afterward, evincing especial interest in President Roosevelt's economic plans.

The Mayor said he had planned to ask a blessing for the President before he began his Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome, explaining:

"The week before I sailed I visited President Roosevelt and told him I intended to ask His Holiness to extend his blessing to the President and the great work he is doing. I am delighted to say now that the Pope did so."

'NUMBERS' RAID HOLDS 11

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 29.—Eleven were held for court as "numbers" men, two paid fines and two were discharged for lack of evidence by Alderman J. A. Walton following State Police raids on a cigar store and three poolrooms yesterday.

Sergt. Vincent F. Bunch, heading 10 troopers for the second time within two months, simultaneously swooped down on the places and confiscated number books, cash and other equipment.

At the A. & C. Cigar Store, West Otterman and Pennsylvania avenues, they arrested Jack Manos, Gregory Kusulis, Patsy Colucci, Sandol Napolias and Thomas Palangic.

Those arrested at the Palace poolroom, Pennsylvania avenue, were Albert Rodgers, George Slavik, George Manula, Frank Paulos, John Spiro and J. E. Brown, Negro. James Paulos, the proprietor, was released when he paid a fine and cost on a charge of gaming.

FOREIGN AIDES HOME, JOBLESS

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Summoned home from their posts in foreign capitals as an economy measure, 32 officials of the Department of Commerce foreign service arrived with their families on the United States liner Washington today.

The rush back to this country started after the trade commissioners, commercial attaches and their assistants received notice from Washington on June 14 that their resignations would be effective on July 31.

All declined to discuss the order or offer any criticism, preferring, as one of the officials said, to "take it on the chin without a squawk."

CUBAN REBELS NOT CRUSHED BY POVERTY

Karl Decker, veteran newspaperman, who has taken an active part in former Cuban revolts, has just toured insurrecto territory of the island on horseback and by motor and airplane. In this article he tells of the insurrecto bands still "out."

By KARL DECKER
Newspaperman and Soldier of Fortune.

In all Cuba today there are probably not more than 400 insurgents, but from these the Machado administration can expect a vast amount of trouble.

The train service from one end of the island to the other can be blocked at any time and telephone and telegraph communications can be cut and sections of the island isolated for days. This will be the extent of the activities of the rebels until they can get a new supply of ammunition.

UNABLE TO FIGHT

For more than a month men have been trickling in from "the Manigua," taking up their lives in the towns and cities and in many cases without disturbance from the military authorities. These insurgents who have "presented" themselves have realized the uselessness of staying in the field without military supplies of any sort.

One of these "presentados" to whom I talked said:

"There were eight men in my group. Three had Springfields and plenty of ammunition. Two had old Remingtons, 43-caliber. Two had Krags and one a Winchester. There was no Remington, Krag or Winchester ammunition and no way of getting any.

"In another group we worked with there were three old Mausers, relics of the days when Spain's soldiers were in the island but there was no way of getting shells for the Mausers. A rifle without ammunition is about as much use as a bunch of violets to a soldier.

"The men in our group with Springfields are still out and will stay out because they can get filled clips from their contact men in the cities from time to time when Machado's full-bellied soldados want to buy presents for their women and are willing to sell their cartridges. It's impossible to get other kinds of ammunition."

30 BANDS IN FIELD

In a survey from Sangua la Grande to Trinidad and from Santa Clara to Holguin I learned that there are today about 30 bands still holding out and these will in all likelihood remain in "The woods" until Machado leaves Cuba, worrying and harassing the government by a constant guerrilla warefare.

In Oriente a number of small bands remain hidden in the Sierra Maestra and in the hilly sections of the extreme east and north but they have done nothing of importance since the aborted attempt to steal a Curtis airplane in Santiago, load it with dynamite under controlof two civilian pilots working with the young revolutionists, and drop bombs on the garrisons in all the nearby towns.

One of Machado's spies blocked this effort and spoiled what would have been the most effective attempt to gain control of a large section of eastern Cuba.

SHORTER WORK WEEK HINTED BY 'CZAR'

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP.)—A chasm of difference between employers and labor over wages and working hours in cotton textile mills today provided the national recovery administration with a keystone problem in its job of regulating industry.

Ten hours separated the 30-hour week of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and the 40-hour week proposed by manufacturers. Over $3 a week was demanded by Green above the operators' minimum wage level.

Organized consumer groups in their turn before the industrial administration leaned toward Green's views as Hugh S. Johnson volunteered a vehement assertion to workers and future seekers of industrial trade codes that a textile work week would set "no precedent for any other industry in different circumstances." He added:

"The textile mills are at nearly full capacity and there is some question as to whether they can find sufficient skilled employes on a full 40-hour week. It ought to be obvious to anybody that an industry at a low rate would have to have a shorter week to absorb its own unemployed workmen.

HINTS SHORT WEEK

"A 40-hour week in industry generally would not scratch the surface of our job of putting large numbers of unemployed back to work. Indeed, I know of no other industry in which we could even receive for consideration a code proposing a 40-hour week."

It was this work week that received the emphatic denouncement of Green, who said "a week much longer than 30 hours will not answer the purpose of getting the unemployed back to work." A 30-hour week of five six-hour days was his recommendation.

Along with it went Green's demand for a minimum wage in the industry of between $14 and $16, coupled with the recommendation that if prices found their 1926 level, wages should be $17.48 a week.

The textile operators' code—first submitted under the new law by one of the "big-ten" industries—proposed a weekly minimum of $11 in the North and $10 in the South, with a 40-hour week and a maximum of two shifts.

STUDY CONTRACTS

The conference today grappled with problems of contract adjustments to meet costs increased by the proposed trade code, leaving behind differences between wages and working hours.

W. L. Allen, deputy administrator, said the hearings at the Commerce Department may close tomorrow. All who want to will be heard.

Of considerable importance to operators is clause five of the code which constitutes the Cotton Textile Industry Committee, the drafters to assist in adjusting contracts for textiles should costs of production increase by reason of minimum wages and a maximum work week.

Miss Lucy R. Mason of the National Consumers' League, and Miss Margaret Wieseman of the Consumers' League of aMssachusetts, today discussed social and labor problems in the code.

Some officials expressed surprise that possible price increases to the consumer have not figured in the testimony. So far in the hearing no spokesman has discussed possibilities of price fixing under the code or what that price fixing might mean to the consuming public.

INQUIRY HERE ON SWEATSHOPS

The legislative committee investigating sweatshop conditions in the state will meet in the Court House here July 12 and 13, the County Commissioners providing a meeting room. The Commissioners yesterday received the committee's request for space.

Chairman C. C. McGovern directed the Property and Supplies Department to make one of the large court rooms ready for the investigators or some other large room if no court room was available.

The letter said the committee would hold afternoon and evening sessions.

500 Workers Join Textile Strikers

READING, June 29.—(AP.)—Ranks of the 3,500 hosiery workers striking for union recognition were increased today by the walkout of 500 knitters from the Noide & Horst Company, third largest mill in this key city of the industry.

Charges that 70 per cent of the workers were kept away by intimidation were made by John H. Vogt, president of the company, as he sought police action against persons he said visited homes of workers after midnight with threats of bodily harm.

Swimmin' Hole May Go to Keep Plants Open

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 29.—(AP.)—It was a case of choosing between halting a threatened water shortage at the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company's plant and draining off the "ol' swimmin' hole."

Mayor Charles B. Mayne, regardless of soaring temperatures, decided to keep the wheels of industry turning.

He ordered the dams in Big Run Creek, which form bathing pools, opened up, and the water of Cascade Park Lake let out if necessary, to keep the plant in operation.

U. S. WORK PLAN SETUP CHANGED

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Government officials charged with planning administration of the $3,500,000,000 federal works program have tentatively decided to abandon the proposal for naming a public works administrator in Pennsylvania and each of the other 47 states, it was learned here today.

Instead, it is now proposed to set up in each state an advistory board of three members, augmented by a technical expert, which would give preliminary approval to individual state projects before they are forwarded to Washington for final action.

Under this program, Democratic congressmen from Pennsylvania will nominate board members to represent the state.

In addition, the plan calls for the establishment of a service of regional districts to supervise public works operations in the field. Pittsburgh or Philadelphia probably would be regional headquarters for the Keystone State.

COAL MEN NEAR PACT ON CODE

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(INS.)—A unified code for the bituminous coal industry probably will be presented to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chairman of the Industrial Board, Benjamin J. Gray, executive director of Central Coal Associations, said today.

Gray said his organization had been rapidly bringing the important northern operators into line during the past two years. He said the associates, when they present their code, will represent operators producing 150,000,000 tons of coal, or about 50 per cent of the country's entire bituminous output.

The Appalachian and Smokeless groups have already expressed approval of the associates' plans, Gray said.

"The code, as drawn up at present, calls for a week of between 32 and 36 hours of work and a minimum wage of between 40 and 45 cents per hour."

Gray said he expected the Pittsburgh Coal Company to join with the associates.

CHAMBER BACKS WHARF PLAN

The Chamber of Commerce today was on record as favoring the city's wharf project as designed by the Planning Commission, providing the city can obtain federal funds for construction costs.

The Chamber's highways and bridges committee voiced its approval to Council yesterday afternoon at a public hearing. Representing the chamber were J. W. Bamford, Henry Tranter, Edward Snodgrass, Jr., James M. Young, W. E. Randolph, R. L. Thompson, Sr., and Thomas Liggett.

The present cost estimate of the wharf is $4,500,000.

Bids on Hospital Work to Be Taken

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Acting Supervising Architect Wetmore today announced that sealed bids for the construction of nurse, attendants and junior officers' quarters at the United States Marine Hospital, Pittsburgh, would be opened at the Treasury Department, July 19.

Specifications provide that the prevailing rate of wage must be paid and domestic materials used in construction work.

Mine Union Men Vote Pay Parley

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 29.—Two hundred members of District 4, United Mine Workers of America, voted at a convention yesterday to confer with district operators in Fayette and Greene counties relative to a new wage scale. District President William Feeney, West Brownsville, declared the conference will be called shortly.

P.R.R. CURTAILS FURLOUGHS FOR 500

Five hundred Pittsburgh employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be given two additional days of work a month beginning next Saturday, it was announced at the general offices of the Central Region here today.

The increase in work will affect supervisory officers whose salaries are not fixed by the board of directors, supervisory employes and certain groups of clerical workers not belonging to an employe representation organization. The pickup was ascribed to a marked gain in freight carloadings during the past two months.

Since the low point of the depression was reached last March, these employes have taken six furlough days a month. Under the new schedule, they will be off only four days a month.

SHOPMEN RETURN

This is in line with the return of 2,000 mechanics and workmen to the repair shops at Altoona yesterday. The railroad also announced it will place an augmented program of maintenance and repairs both on track and equipment during July.

More than 500 men will be given employment on Baltimore and Ohio lines, due to increased passenger traffic, it was learned here. The Pittsburgh district will share in the work schedule.

Unemployment along a 25-mile branch of the Pennsylvania into the Marianna coal fields had been wiped out today by orders recalling 3,500 miners back to work, according to the International News Service. Six-day-a-week operations are in effect at the Gibson mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company. Marianna mines of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation are on a five-day-a-week schedule, and the Ontario mine at Cokeburg is to operate a full day and night shift.

RUNNING FULL

This is the first time since 1927 that full production programs have been in effect. The miners have been on one and two-day weeks for the last three years.

Improvement in the mining region affects 11 Pennsylvania Railroad crews working along the branch line.

Sharing in recovery plans of the Pennsylvania is the McClintic-Marshall Company, subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which has received a contract for 4,600 tons of steel to be used on the Pennsylvania Railroad piers at Baltimore, Md.

All employes of the Armstrong Cork Company will receive a wage increase of approximately 5 per cent, effective Saturday, it was announced today by President John J. Evans.

Milady's Bonnets Soon To Bow to Uncle Sam

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Coat and suit manufacturers from Baltimore, Kansas City, Boston, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles and New York decided at a meeting here to form a national council with power to draft a code of business ethics for the industry.

Twelve leading retail milliners of New York laid plans for the organization of the master group of Retail Milliners, Inc., which eventually is planned to extend to millinery stores throughout the country.

One of the first acts of the proposed organization was announced as the adoption of style regulations in women's hats on a seasonal basis, comparable to that in men's headwear.

A code of working hours and fair competition was discussed at a meeting of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers.

Large manufacturers were said to favor two 40-hour a week shifts, but smaller producers objected, contending it would result in overproduction.

Members of the Federal Wholesale Druggists' Association in Cleveland completed a code of fair practices for the independent retail drug business. The association represents 32 wholesale houses wholly owned by 12,000 independent retail druggists.

BUTTER

keeps this hot weather

Customers tell us they can keep McCanns butter two and three weeks during the warm weather. While we do not advise buying butter in large quantities at one time, isn't it nice to know that McCanns butter is so fresh it will keep, with ordinary care for long periods?

MAX BAER DISCUSSES FIGHT -:- McNamee and Husing To Review Bout -:- ON RADIO TONIGHT

Ray Perkins And 'Snoonie' With Rudy

While tonight's broadcasting of the Sharkey-Carnera fight will be confined to a brief summary at its close, dialing fight fans, it is anticipated, will not be deprived wholly of the evening's spice.

Max Baer

With Max Baer, heavyweight contender, billed to discuss the bout on Rudy Vallee's weekly WCAE show at 8, expectations are that he'll issue a challenge to tonight's winner.

As to the summaries — Ted Husing is to do the job for CBS; Graham McNamee for NBC, CBS, with WJAS carrying locally, has set the 10:15 spot aside for Husing. Tony Wakeman also plans to resume on KDKA at 11.

Doctor Rockwell

Sharing the Vallee spotlight with Baer are to be Doctor Rockwell, comic monologist; James Kirkwood, of the stage and screen, in "A Common Man," playlet by the late Tom Barry; the jesting Ray Perkins and Barbara "Snoonie" Blair teamed, and Al Segal, song-writing discoverer of Ethel Merman, presenting his latest protege, Lillian Miles.

Appearing as guest speaker with H. V. Kaltenborn, CBS political analyst, Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese minister to the United States, airs his views on the World Economic Conference from London over WJAS at 7 p. m. The broadcast is one of Kaltenborn's parley report series.

A collegiate male chorus and Frank Westphal's orchestra is the musical set-up for a new two-a-week series, "World's Fair Invitation," opening on WJAS at 9:45 p. m.

A second premiere, listed for KDKA at 8:30, brings Aldo Ricci's Phantom Strings—an ensemble of violins, viola, bass viol, guitar and piano or celeste—to the air.

'Sweethearts'

The operetta, "Sweethearts," in its entirety, features the weekly "Show Boat" voyage down the Mississippi . . . WCAE at 9. Annette Hanshaw and Lanny Ross have the leads.

Miss Hanshaw

Beethoven's famed 'Choral' Symphony is KDKA's 10 p. m. offering, played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, assisted by a chorus of 250.

A special 30-minute concert for Brazilian dialers by the United States Marine Band is scheduled on CBS-WJAS at 8:30.

Ten o'clock on WCAE brings the last of Jack Pearl's "Munchausen" broadcasts . . . "Pittsburgh Spotlight" focuses on Lee Greenwood, blues singer, and Ted Yearsley, tenor, via KDKA at 6:30.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Any information that may be printed about acquiring sunburn will come too late for Marjorie Jackson, who already has acquired. She wants something to relieve the agony—a sure relief. They say time cures all ills, but who wants to watch a clock.

Jerry Sadler says that any kind of grease is good. One time when he was coming home from a river swim he obtained relief by smearing his affected face, shoulders and arms with automobile engine grease. Some of the girls would rather endure the burn. Do you remember the old fashioned linseed oil and lime water?

An experienced "Sunner" like Irving Newman says the trick is not to try to get it all at once, but to wait two or three days from the date of the first exposure to the blistering rays before the next treatment.

C. J. Denden, Monessen, Pa. In a parade where the colors of more than one nation are exhibited side by side, the American flag should always have the place of honor—the right side, according to Col. Franklin Blackstone. If the flags are flown from a mast then Old Glory should be flying at the top.

Mrs. B. J. McHugh, Crafton, writes me about the poisoning of her pet dog. Dog poisoning isn't intentional all the time. A little care in the disposition of waste matter sometimes could prevent the death of a dog. Poisons used for extermination of rodents and insects often claim the lives of pets.

Dave Meeker, the Dormont aviator, postcards me from San Diego, about his "jitney" airplane trip across the continent. He flies a 2-cylinder, 28-horsepower, 400-pound plane. His tanks hold but eight gallons of gasoline, his crankcase, three quarts of oil. The transcontinental trip took him 70 hours and cost him $50 for fuel.

Ickes to Sub For Howe On Air

By AIRCASTER

Sweet nothings from radio row: Could something be afoot about those Louis McHenry Howe broadcasts o'Sundays?

A sudden notice arrives from the sponsor announcing that the President's secretary will have a substitute for July 2, the sub being Secretary Ickes, of the Interior.

"Rosey Rowswell, Pittsburgh's philosophizing master of ceremonies featured on the Eskimos net broadcasts, is to head a new weekly Gimbels show opening on WCAE tomorrow night.

Supporting Rowswell will be the Whiteman audition-winning So-and-So Trio and a marimba ensemble.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

A quartet new to local air waves—The Travelers — make their bow to WJAS listeners tonight at 9:15. They will feature popular numbers.

The Weston Sisters have included several old favorites in their 7:30 harmony program.

Dr. Springer continues his evening broadcasts, one at 5:45 and the second at 7:15.

They're talking about adding Tom Howard to the show in which Taylor Holmes will monitor during Ed Wynn's vacation . . . Orchestras returning to air schedules this week include the bands of Isham Jones and Ted Lewis from Chicago by way of CBS . . . "Showboat" and the American Album of Music have renewed with NBC.

Jack Benny is Hollywood bound . . . "It's news, isn't it," he asked, "that I'm going to the Coast—not to make a picture?" . . . He did the actual signing for his comeback for the auto-sponsors, yesterday, and will resume with the same set-up, including Mary Livingstone, and Jimmy Melton.

Socialite-Servant Comedy on Air

With Katharine Renwick portraying the principal role, "A Lesson in Life," this week's American Weekly playlet, is presented today over Station WFBG, Altoona, at 3 p. m.

Five stations in the Pittsburgh area will carry the program tomorrow on the following schedule: WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKBN, Youngstown, O., 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, O., 5 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

Revealing in comedy vein the experiences of a society woman who "hired out" as a servant, the play is based on an article published in the next issue of the big feature magazine distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

U. S. CALLS 225 VOTERS IN PROBE

and a clerk of the Board of Mercantile Appraisers.

Savage said:

"I am greatly surprised. I can't understand why I was indicted. I have lived in one district of the Ninth Ward all my life."

TO POST BOND

Attorney John Dugan, Jr., notified United States Attorney Louis E. Graham that Coyne and Patrick J. O'Malley, Second Ward Republican chairman, would give bond Saturday. Both were out of town today and were planning to attend the Carnera-Sharkey fight in New York tonight.

Attorney Duggan said:

"Senator Coyne and Mr. O'Malley have been out of the city for the past two or three days and in all probability will not return until the latter part of the week. Neither of these gentlemen knew anything about a contemplated indictment before leaving the city.

"I do not know whether I represent them, but at the suggestion of some friends, have simply arranged to take care of any bench warrants that might be issued, and arrange for the posting of suitable bond. This bond will be given immediately upon their return to the city.

"Indictments are easily obtained. Convictions, however, are entirely different. We are satisfied that the public, as usual, will wait until the defendants have had their day in court before passing judgment."

OTHERS INDICTED

The two others indicted were Assembleyman Patrick J. Maloney and Martin Mullen, chairman of the Fourth District, Tenth Ward.

The charges upon which the nine men were indicted grew out of the election last fall in the Thirty-second Congressional District in which Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democrat, is contesting the election of Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, Republican, supported by Senator Coyne and his lieutenants.

The indictment asserts the defendants through members of election boards changed and falsified records cast in numerous districts, among them the First, Second, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth of the Third Ward, and Eighth and Tenth districts of the Fourth Ward. It also alleges they feloniously conspired to "injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" citizens to prevent exercise of their right of suffrage.

ANNOUNCEMENT SHOCK

The grand jury was in the midst of examining more than 100 witnesses from the Third and Fourth wards when it stopped long enough to present the indictment before Judge Nelson McVicar.

The sudden action came as a surprise. It made a total of 50 indicted since the probe began June 13. Most of the defendants named in the other indictments were members of election boards in the Third and Fourth wards.

The probe will turn tomorrow to the Thirtieth Congressional District, where Congressman Edmund F. Erk, Republican, was defeated by Twing Brooks, Democrat. A large number of witnesses has been subpenaed from North Side wards. Later the grand jury will delve into the election in the Thirty-fourth Congressional District.

After the indictment was returned yesterday Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed informed the court that the petition to compel Alderman Verona to answer certain questions before the grand jury would be withdrawn. Verona had refused to answer on grounds of constitutional rights.

INDICTED CLERK GETS LEAVE

Saying he had been indicted by the federal grand jury investigating election irregularities without known reason, Samuel Mattes, real estate clerk for the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, has been granted a leave of absence pending disposition of his case.

Mattes, in a letter to the County Commissioners, said he had no knowledge of any reason for the indictment and asked the leave because he did not wish to embarrass the Commissioners. The request was granted.

Deer Put Bull Moose Sign on G.O.P. Rally

SELINSGROVE, Pa., June 29.—(INS.)—Earliest arrivals today at Rolling Green Park, where Republican party leaders were gathered, were deer from the Allegheny foothills, uninivited guests which brought suggestions of a Bull Moose invasion.

Two deer and six fawns, they were. After browsing in the park grove for a while, the animals meandered across the fairways of the Susquehanna Country Club to the shores of the Susquehanna River. All eight then swam the stream to the Northumberland County side and disappeared.

Moro Leader Sought After Slaying of 8

MANILA, P. I., June 29.—(INS.)—The Philippines constabulary today started an intensive search for Butu Duad, Moro leader on the Island of Papiam, south of Jolo, in the southernmost part of the islands, following a dispute over fishing rights, during which eight Moros were killed.

Boulder River Forms Own Bridge

LIVINGSTON, Mont.—(INS.)—Boulder Falls, 150-foot drop of the Boulder River over a ledge of stone near Contact, Mont., recently disappeared, leaving in its place a new natural bridge. Investigation revealed that the stream had worked a new course from the point where it formerly under the ledge 300 feet upstream cast its spray over the precipice.

Age Pension Vote Fate Put in Martin's Hands

gram for permanent prosperity."

"I am, however, unwilling at this time to burden the taxpayers with the expense of an extra session unless I have reasonable assurance that the proposed legislation will pass.

"Today in Selinsgrove I understand that you are honoring William S. Vare with a position on the National Republican Committee. Mr. Vare has long been on record as favoring old age pensions and the minimum wage.

"The fact that you are honoring a man who supports these measures raises the question whether the State Republican Committee, of which you are chairman, may recently have adopted a broader and more progressive attitude toward them. Hence this telegram."

Pinchot asserted that old age pensions and minimum wages are sound legislation and that "the overwhelming majority of the people of Pennsylvania" are for them. He reminded Martin that the old age pension amendment to the Constitution must be adopted by the Legislature by August 15 if it is to be submitted to the voters for ratification in November. If it is not submitted to the voters this year, it cannot be voted on until 1938.

He told Martin that if Martin will pledge his active support for old age pensions and a minimum wage bill and will give him the names of Senators "pledged to you to support these measures in sufficient number to give reasonable assurance of passage, he will call a special session next month."

During the recent Legislature the House adopted the old age pension constitutional amendment, but the Senate killed it in committee. In the controversy over this amendment, the Philadelphia organization supported the amendment, but most of the Republican organization was opposed to it.

Pinchot Wire Received Coolly at G. O. P. Rally

SELINSGROVE, June 29.—(AP.)—The high command and the rank and file of the state Republican organization laid the foundation for the 1933-34 campaigns today in a rally in an amusement park near Selinsgrove.

Nationally known leaders, state chieftains, city and county chairmen, the Young Republican State Committee and hundreds of visitors streamed in for the series of meetings and the speeches out of which the party is to go into the next election and the gubernatorial race a year hence.

Gov. Pinchot's telegrams to Edward Martin, state chairman, and William S. Vare, who today was elected a member of the national committee, were coolly received. The Governor told Martin it is up to him whether a special session of the Legislature is called to consider old age pensions and minimum wages.

Vare, during a brief address, said:

"I intende to stand firmly as a Progressive Republican, and by Progressive Republican I do not mean radicalism, Communism and Socialism."

Grover C. Talbot, speaker of the House of Representatives, said he did not care to comment immediately. Other leaders soid statements will be made "later."

63 EDUCATORS GOING TO MEET

HARRISBURG, June 29.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Educational Association announced today it will send a delegation of 63 to the National Educational Association in Chicago July 1.

The Pennsylvanians will urge the election of Miss Jessie Gray, Philadelphia school teacher, as national president. Miss Gray is a former president of the state association.

The state organization expects more than two score friends and relatives of members to accompany the delegation.

COLLEGES SOLD FOR $1 EACH

SALT LAKE CITY.—(INS.)—For a consideration of $2, the state of Utah recently came into possession of two colleges, Weber and Ogden, and Dixie at St. George. The colleges were formerly the property of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church, and represent investments of thousands of dollars.

Under the agreement covering the sale of Dixie College, the church will continue to pay $7,500 toward its maintenance, and Washington County, in which it is located, will contribute toward its support.

INNOCENCE CLAIMED BY COYNE

mary. He was for Sullivan. And even in the general election he didn't do so much for Muldowney."

"What have you got to say about the indictment, Senator?"

"I'm not worried, except that it's hard on my wife and my five girls."

"And how about your boys?"

"Oh, me and the boys can take care of ourselves. But the girls are worrying back there in Pittsburgh. They are the ones this is hard on."

ONLY URGED SPEED

"What about the things the grand jury charges you with?"

"Am I dumb enough to try anything like they say I did? If I wanted to try anything in an election, would I stand on a street corner at 5 o'clock in the morning of a Wednesday? All I did was tell them they had better get their returns in, and they'll find that out when I get into court."

"Well, you wanted Muldowney to win, didn't you?"

"Sure, I wanted Muldowney to win after he became a candidate. But I didn't want him to become a candidate. I'd have been better off if he had stayed in City Council. And so would Muldowney."

This was no new observation from the Senator, many of his followers having declared last year that Muldowney wanted too much, and to travel too fast, an attitude which was responsible for the virulence of the feud between the Muldowney and the McKnight clans in the Fourth Ward, culminating in a battle between Muldowney and the late Paddy McKnight before election.

RECALLS CONVERSATION

"What about the conversation between you and some of the boys at daylight on the Wednesday morning after election in front of a downtown restaurant?"

"Sure, we were talking there. We came out of the restaurant and I says to some of the boys, 'It looks like everything is lost.'

"And Frank Harris says he wouldn't be sure that Steedle was licked for the Legislature, that Dormont and Mt. Lebanon were to come in on that fight, and they were voting the straight Republican ticket. After Harris said that I told the fellows to see that the returns got in."

Coyne said he would return to Pittsburgh Friday, and would post bond Saturday on the charges for which he is indicted.

The Senator mingled with the state committee members and other Republican leaders at today's gathering, attempting to appear unworried, but it was plain that he was perturbed. Particularly in view of the mayoralty campaign now looming in which he is admittedly the chief practical politician, backing Mayor John S. Herron for nomination and election.

Coyne insisted his troubles should have no effect on the Mayor in his campaign, but it was palpable that the Republican leaders, eager that the city government be held in its present organization hands, were worried.

They were shaking hands with Coyne and saying whatever one says to a politician who has just been indicted, which isn't so much, little more than a constantly reiterated assurance that Old Lady Justice will eventually do her stuff.

Last night Coyne conferred with State Chairman Edward Martin and others, but it was not revealed that they talked about the indictment. There wasn't much else for them to discuss.

Representative Joseph G. Steedle, who was a witness before the grand jury, was with Coyne last night and today. Steedle followed the Coyne leadership in the last legislative session.

ALIMONY PUT ON PAYING BASIS

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP.)—Something new in alimony. Judge Walter J. La Buy approved of a sliding scale in the case of Mrs. Lucy G. Schroll versus her husband, William, president of the American Dental Company, under which she will receive not less than $25 weekly nor more than $100, depending upon the profits of Schroll's concern.

Each $5,000 monthly profit is to bring her a $5 weekly alimony raise.

PARK BUS LINES AWAIT P. S. C. RULING

Losing no time in making application to provide "adequate and cheap" transportation to and from the county parks, County Commissioners already have filed their application with the Public Service Commission for the right to operate buses in competition with the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company. Assistant County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher last night mailed the application to Harrisburg.

At a conference in Harrisburg Tuesday with members of the commission, county officials were promised a hearing on or before July 10.

In addition to asking for a permit for service between the parks and the courthouse, the county is asking the right to operate three lines into North Park and two into South Park. If the park-to-downtown service is blocked they will seek to establish lines starting at the ends of car lines.

In Commissioners' petition says the present lines are giving inadequate and costly service. It names the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, the Brentwood Motor Coach Company and the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company as the present operators.

Independent operators of 94 buses, who, during the winter months transport school children, have indicated their willingness to work for the Commissioners.

U. S. TO REDUCE AIR MAIL COST

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP.)—Air mail operators were notified today that service rates would be reduced 25 per cent on July 1, pending determination of new rates and route readjustments. Postage rates for air mail remain the same.

To date, the Postoffice Department announced, there has been no curtailment in mileage of air mail routes.

The order was necessitated by the reduced appropriation for the service, a cut from $19,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Operators were requested to submit not later than July 9 their suggestions for the order of preference in which the curtailment on the routes be made.

TEXAS BEAUTY WINS CONTEST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 29.—(AP.)—Miss Alice Mae Ayres, of Tyler, Tex., was unanimously acclaimed winner of the beauty contest staged on the beach by the National Association of Retail Grocers yesterday. Nearly 10,000 people viewed the proceedings, in which 27 beauties from the various states throughout the country vied for honors.

Second place in the contest fell to "Miss Walt Whitman," of Camden, while "Miss Maryland" was judged third most beautiful.

Miss Ayres is 5 feet 2 inches, with blue eyes, black curly hair and an olive complexion. She is a student of Tyler Commercial College and the daughter of Mrs. Winnie L. Ayres.

MINISTERS LAUD JOB CAMPS

Having visited more than half of the 70 C. C. C. camps in Western Pennsylvania, Chaplains Ira Freeman and Francis J. Bailey declare the boys are receiving good food, medical supervision and spiritual ministrations.

They say the environment in which the men work and play is neither sloppy nor effeminate. Rather than breeding "gigolos", they develope manly qualities which are often suppressed in more civilized surroundings.

While improving our national and state forests, they report, the boys are working out their financial salvation and providing their families with the means to carry on.

CHIEF DENIES RAID SLAYING

OSKALOOSA, Ia. June 29.—(AP.)—Howard Allgood, Oskaloosa police chief, was arraigned today on second degree murder charges growing out of the fatal wounding of Gerald Blackwood, 23, in a liquor raid June 16.

Allgood pleaded not guilty before Justice of the Peace K. E. Bartley and was released under $3,000 bonds pending preliminary hearing July 7.

The charges were filed last night by Mrs. Mary Blackwood of Eddyville, mother of the youth, who died last Friday of peritonitis developing from the wound.

County Attorney A. W. Palmer said the case would be submitted to the Mahaska County Grand jury which meets in October.

J. D., Jr.'s, Home In Two Towns, Taxes Double

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 29.—(INS.)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today discovered he has to pay taxes on his house to two towns—not one.

The line dividing Mt. Pleasant and North Tarrytown, it was discovered, runs through the house, with most of the building in the former. Rockefeller said North Tarrytown has assessed the entire building as within its limits and he has paid about $8,000 taxes on it since 1927.

He instructed attorneys to attempt to recover the taxes paid to North Tarrytown.

CHURCHILL BORO PLEA HEARD

Testimony on the petition to set up the new Borough of Churchill in the residential section near the Edgewood Country Club has been taken and will be placed in the hands of Judge Samuel H. Gardner for a decision.

The area affected amounts to approximately 51 per cent of Wilkins Township and pays approximately 28 per cent of the township taxes.

Residents within the limits of the proposed borough declare that if a borough is formed they will be able to spend the tax money to better local advantage. Citizens living in other parts of the township declare that forming the new borough would throw the remainder of the township into bankruptcy, besides creating a higher cost of government for the residents of the new borough.

Youth Builds Plane With Tiny Motor

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 29.—(AP.)—Is Maxwell B. Bassett, 18, a proud lad. His model airplane astonished spectators at a championship meet by ascending 5,000 feet and flying 22 minutes. It made a happy landing on a milk truck.

The engine has one-tenth of one horse-power and the gas tank holds four ounces.

Showers of Money For Forest Army

SPOKANE, Wash., June 29.—(AP.)—Money will rain from the skies to civilian conservation corps workers in Idaho, Washington and Montana.

Maj. George S. Clarke, executive officer for this region, said an Army plane will fly over each of the 45 isolated camps in the district, dropping the money in stout canvas bags.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sound Sleep Is a Habit Acquired in Childhood

"Hold on to health" is a motto of the Camp Fire Girls. These girls are taught to respect and follow simple rules of health. Among these are regular hours of sleep, sleeping with the windows open, fresh air, sunshine, proper food and personal hygiene.

Dr. Copeland

No one will deny the value and importance of sleep. It is essential to proper growth and development. The ability to sleep well is a habit acquired in early childhood. Once acquired, it provides a foundation for good general health, steady nerves and the ability to combat future mental and physical strain.

"But how can I teach my child to sleep?" This is a question I am often asked.

Most mothers know that every growing child should have 12 hours of sleep during the night and one hour during the day. Yet it is often difficult to convince the child of this necessity.

Bear in mind that sleep is more or less of a habit. Like other habits, it is best established at an early age. It can only be acquired by persistent training. Neglect may lead to faulty sleeping habits.

I would advise first that you put your child to bed at the same time every day. Irregular hours lead to restless and fretful sleeping. Too frequently the child pleads and coaxes mother for permission to stay up late. This is a bad practice and should not be permitted.

Many children have difficulty in falling asleep. Often this can be traced to exciting play and over-stimulation in the late afternoon. If the child is restless and uneasy, a warm bath taken before bedtime will soothe and relax tired nerves.

Sleep is attained quicker when the home is quiet and free from outside disturbances. By this I do not mean that it is necessary for members of the household to walk around on tiptoe when the children are put to bed. But I do mean that excessive radio noise, phonographic and other distracting sounds should be avoided when the youngsters are ready for bed.

Afternoon naps for the child should be encouraged and continued until the age of 6. Draw the shades, but keep the windows wide open. Even though the child may not sleep, he will derive benefit from the rest and relaxation obtained during this rest period. Do not make the mistake of placing the child in bed with his clothes on. For the afternoon nap, he should be undressed as if he were going to bed for the night.

You will agree with me, I am sure, that prevention is easier than cure. Most cases of chronic insomnia can be traced to improper training in childhood. You can protect your child from this annoying disturbance by early training.

Answers to Health Queries

S. P. F. Q.—I cough so much at night I can't sleep, what do you advise?

A.—Consult your doctor for examination and advice. The throat or tonsils may be abnormal.

Mrs. R. L. S. Q.—Is there any way to cure bow-legs?

R. E. T. Q.—What causes a child of 9 years to continually clear her throat?

BURGESS BANS NIGHT BATHING

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 28.—(INS.)—Irritated by complaints of residents, Burgess J. C. Province, of Speers, near here, issued orders regulating conduct of bathers at three Monongahela River beaches. The order read:

"Stay on beach. No wandering off here or there in bathing suits. No auto cruising in suits. This is not Atlantic City."

In commenting on his order, the Burgess said::

"Midnight bathing must stop, too."

CHILD BUREAU SEEKS AID

The future of 2,000 children depends on final action on the request for $11,000 made of the Welfare Fund by the Children's Service Bureau of Allegheny County, according to Susan Boyd, executive secretary.

The agency, already $3,000 overdrawn on its budget, will be unable to carry its load for the rest of the year without the extension, she said, adding:

"All of the children are potential wards of the Juvenile Court and potential delinquents. The fact is that the majority of them, through careful supervision by the Service Bureau, may be readjusted without recourse to the Juvenile Court."

To my brothers...I owe the pleasure of smoking Luckies

When I first had a desire to smoke, I knew exactly where to start. You see, for years I had heard all the men in the family saying "Luckies Please". They said it was "Toasting" that made Luckies so good. I've never questioned the reason—because I have always found Luckies so fragrant, so mild—and (perhaps a man will smile at this) so pure to my lips! I can smoke lots and lots of them and still find them refreshing to the taste. Now I'm telling my brothers "Luckies Please", and each of them says, "You're telling me?"

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

It's Foolish to Be Dominated By Rude Friends

Are you and your husband "easy pickings" for your friends?

Do they pile in, uninvited and unannounced, and eat your food, smoke your cigarets, use and abuse your radio and, generally, treat you like a wayside inn?

And when they're leaving, do they cry "come and see us sometime"—but never set a date; or are they always "just going out" when you phone?

If you are, and they do, you'll sympathize with Jean. And maybe you can tell her what to do about it.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I certainly need some advice. I have just been married a little while, and my husband and I are both young. We like good times, dance a little, play cards a bit, and every Sunday or so we make a lunch and go to the river, or some beach, for an outing.

The big trouble seems to be our friends. We have a nice, small apartment, so they come there for parties. We try to give them a good time, furnish refreshments, and cigarets—they complain because we don't smoke their favorite brand!

And when they leave they just say "come and see us sometime," but they never set a definite date for us to come. They take everything we offer, and then complain. Is everybody like that?

Now, we are to have them again tonight. I do like friends, and I like to entertain. But I also like to be appreciated, and it certainly is no fun trying to amuse people who are rude.

How can I meet other young married folks who are congenial, and who do something besides give you "dirty digs."

NOT APPRECIATED

I just don't know what to think of people who act like that. Why do people take everything and give nothing? I don't like to be always on the giving end. I would like to be entertained myself now and then, or at least have people act as if they liked what you try to do for them.

Is it the style, nowadays, to be rude and a little vulgar? Should I try to change myself to be like them? Or are there other folks who really believe in the "Dutch Treat" idea, and entertain you if you entertain them?

Please help me if you can. What can I do? JEAN.

What can you do, Jean?

You can refuse to keep on "being the goat" for these people.

You say you don't like to be always on the giving end. Then stop being. Stand up for yourself, sister. That's something that you have to learn to do. Wherever you may be, whoever it is that you play with.

AN EASY MARK

It isn't meanness that makes people take everything and give nothing. It is just human nature to be like that—so long as they can get away with it. You've been letting them and, frankly, they neither like you nor respect you for doing it. Secretly, if not openly, they think of you as an Easy Mark.

So stop being one. If they "don't appreciate" your efforts to please them, stop making any. Stop letting them think they can run over you. Be too busy to have them in. Go to a show. Go visiting.

If they make snooty remarks about your entertaining, hand them a few frank facts. Tell them sweetly that they don't need to come if they don't like your parties. You can do it, gayly, tactfully and effectively, if you will—and if you want to keep on seeing them.

And if, in spite of all your tact, they insist on being sore? Then that's just your good luck. You neither want nor need friendships like that.

Personally, I'd cut them out anyway and find new friends. For rudeness is not the fashion. There are just as many nice people in 1933 as they were in 1893. Look for them.

Fay King Passes on to You a Fisherman's Cure for Sunburn

By FAY KING

I have never been sunburned myself, but I observe that it is very painful. Yet it arouses more merriment than sympathy.

When I mentioned to a man that a friend was suffering so from sunburn I was a little surprised when he did not laugh.

Instead he said he knew what agony it can be; that once he suffered so from sunburn he could not work or rest.

A fisherman seeing his distress recommended a simple remedy which he said fishermen often use. This was to mix half a glass of vinegar with a half a glass of water, and then dab the sunburn gently with a bit of cotton dipped in this homely lotion.

It brought such relief that he had a fine night's sleep!

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald's Suggestion Brings Terrified Protest From Nick

A howl—it could be called nothing less—tore from Nick's throat, at Ronald's suggestion that he and Tony be tied up and left to Jerry's mercy. Then he broke into rapid, agonized speech, almost unintelligible, because the broken jaw which Dicky had given him precluded his speaking from but one side of his mouth.

"Don't!" he ejaculated. "Don't do that? That's murder!"

"If you want us killed," he whined, "shoot us yourselves. We'll be through with in a minute. But if you tie us up for Jerry to find—Gawd!"

There was no mistaking the terror that was shaking him. And once again there came to me the sense of something sinister, menacing, foreign to anything I had ever experienced.

I had heard and read of the horrible, unspeakable things done by gangsters when they were wreaking vengeance upon their enemies or those who had refused their demands; but I always had discounted these tales; had never fully realized that there was real basis for them. Therefore the abject terror in Nick's voice was a revelation to me. A violent, sudden death had no particular terror to this gangster who, I had observed, held human life as lightly as that of an animal or an insect. But it was plain that he feared something worse than death, and I shivered as there came to me horrible interpretations of the images so patently before his mind.

MEN TAKEN AWAY

"Take them with you. Don't leave them here!" I spoke almost without volition.

"It's what they richly deserve," Hugh said sternly, "to leave them to their enemies. And if there was nothing to consider but their fate, I should vote to leave them here."

His tone was implacable, and Nick gave another howl of terror, quickly silenced by a savage, whispered command from Wynne.

"But unfortunately," Hugh added, "as long as Owen's condition is so precarious we cannot have them anywhere save under our own eyes. I vote to get them into the cars as soon as possible."

"And I," Harry Underwood said. "Come on boys!"

There was efficient, concerted movement for the next few minutes. Nick, despite his broken jaw and his other injuries, was compelled to walk, and I guessed that the men of our party, remembering what he had tried to do, took keen satisfaction in his physical suffering.

Owen, an unconscious figure, was carried on an improvised stretcher, while Tony was carelessly flung across the shoulders of the men carrying him. It was only when the caravan had almost reached the fence that Hugh came over to me and lifted me tenderly into his arms again.

MADGE DISTRESSED

"Keep close beside her," he instructed Ronald and Marion, who had remained with me while the others went to the fence. "Put that coat over her, Ronald."

I started to protest, for it was his own flying coat that he had taken off and spread beneath me. But I saw that he was inexorable in his determination to make my comfort his prime consideration, and it was with a queer conflict of emotions that I settled back into the powerful yet tender clasp of his arms as he strode magnificently, effortless toward the fence, apparently making no more of my weight than if I had been a child.

It was as if there were two women concerned in that swift journey, one soothed by the sense of protection and tenderness that surrounded her, the other protesting with every nerve in being where she was, her soul crying out incessantly for the husband who had gone from her without a word of farewell.

It was the second woman who triumphed wholly when, after Hugh had put me into the Underwood car with Marion on one side of me and himself upon the other, I heard a familiar whirr and saw the twinkling light of the auto-gyro rising from the far end of the field.

"Oh!" I cried gaspingly, with a shameless lack of self-control. "I can't bear it. He's gone away angry!"

Contract Bridge
How to Play How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

Not Aces and Kings Alone

Some people who have not delved very deeply into the underlying theory of cards like to say that Contract is a game of Aces and Kings, and that if the fates will give them the Aces and Kings, they will let other things take care of themselves. It is, of course, true that Aces and Kings are valuable and necessary, except with the most freakish distribution, but when it comes to a question of making Grand Slam contracts, it will generally be found that Contract is not only a game of Aces and Kings, but one in which favorable distribution has something to say, as, for instance, in the hand below, in which North and South reached a Grand Slam contract only to have it defeated because of the duplication of values and the even length of the diamond suit in both hands.

West, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ J 10 ♡ K 10 9 5 ◇ A Q ♣ A 10 8 6 5
♠ Q 9 6 ♡ J 7 6 ◇ 10 9 5 4 3 2 ♣ J	North West East South	♠ K 8 5 4 ♡ Q 4 3 2 ◇ J 7 6 ♣ 7 4
	♠ A 7 3 2 ♡ A 8 ◇ K 8 ♣ K Q 9 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	6 N T	Pass
7 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

This is the bidding that actually occurred. Of course, South's bid of a spade is not so good, as the suit is ultra-shaded, but he knew that his partner was almost certain to respond to his suit response to the Opening bid and thus that he would be able later to disclose his magnificent support for the club suit. On the third round of bidding, still feeling safe in view of North's strength-showing response to his bid, he indulged in a little Ace-showing by bidding three hearts. This bid likewise was dangerous as it was in a higher ranking suit than clubs and it might require very expert drawing of inferences for North to be sure that the heart suit was not actually a playable one. In fact, I am inclined to think that the partnership would have been kept out of disaster had it not been for these two bids by South. The later bids require no special explanation.

When the Dummy was spread on the table, it was, of course, apparent to North at once that he had no play whatever for his contract. If the South hand contained another diamond, in lieu of the small heart or a small spade, then seven could be made laid down. But the doubleton Ace-Queen in the North hand and the doubleton King-8 in the South hand formed a fatal duplication of values, which prevented the making of the contract.

Deals in which the suit lengths are the same in both hands usually present a very difficult problem in playing for the maximum because of the obvious, although apparently not always understood, fact that such distributions cannot provide a place for discarding losers.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Use the Title

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have had a disagreement at the shop as to how a man must present himself to a group of strangers or in a business way. I maintain that it is proper to introduce oneself as Mr. Smith, or Miss Smith or Mrs. Smith, as the case may be.

The other men in the disagreement insist that the last name is sufficient and the Mr., Miss or Mrs. not necessary.

JOSEPH.

At College Exercises

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I have been invited to the Class Day exercises at a large college. These exercises will be held in the open. I would like to know just what the appropriate costume would be for that event?

2—I am to attend the Senior Prom and understand that it is to be informal. Would an ankle length organdy frock be appropriate?

3—For the commencement exercises to be held at 10 in the morning, I am planning to wear a dark blue sheer frock and white accessories. Is it suitable for the occasion? C.

1—A summery afternoon frock or a chiffon (plain or flowered) ensemble of dress and jacket, would be appropriate. And with it a large or small hat of a light weight material . . . leghorn or other kind of straw, horsehair, or linen.

2—Yes.

3—Yes, this would be thoroughly appropriate.

WIDE VARIETY IN DINNER MENUS

Dinner menus by the hundreds are pouring into the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny $100 weekly award contest and the housewives are in a keen race for the distinction of submitting the best possible dinner for four persons at a cost not to exceed $1.50.

The contest offers a wide scope for variety—there are no two entries alike—and the majority of them are not only practical and economical but appetizing.

Quite a few inquiries have been made as to what should be included in these menus as accessories. Incidental items such as salt and sugar are not figured in the cost unless, in the case of sugar, an unusual amount is used in the making of a dessert. The amount used for tea and coffee for four is of course negligible. Bread and butter really should be tabulated, although these items did not appear in the first prize winning menu. This winner, however, had a leeway of 7 cents to keep within the $1.50 figure which would have covered bread and butter.

LIMITED TO FOUR

A letter from Mrs. Harry King, 5 Clifton Park, asks if the contest editor will accept menus for more than four persons. She says it is easy to serve seven with an appetizing dinner at the $1.50 cost price. For the time being, at least, the contest will be based on serving four persons.

Contest No. 3 is in full swing while the judges are passing on the entries of Contest No. 2. And from the present outlook it would seem that the entries this week will surpass in number both the first and second week.

The many entries submitted indicate the women of Pittsburgh and vicinity are keenly alive to the proposition. Every woman in the reading area of the Sun-Telegraph is invited to send in her ideas in the form of a completed menu. In fact they can send in as many entries as they wish. The weekly cash prize list totals $100, with $25 as the first prize.

On another page of today's Sun-Telegraph there is an entry blank, complete list of prizes and set of rules governing the contest. If additional entry blanks are desired they may be obtained at any one of these stores: Donohoe's, McCann's, Triangle, Clover Farm, Butler's or Kroeger's. Entries for the third week's contest, now running, must be submitted before midnight next Monday night.

Routley and Benz were found guilty Saturday of conspiracy to cheat the county through the use of county-purchased gasoline in their private cars.

ROADS IN SHAPE FOR HOLIDAY

Main and secondary highways in Western Pennsylvania will be generally free from detours and fresh oil this week-end and July 4, the Touring Bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club reported today.

Motorists making trips over the holiday will find roads in this district in excellent condition. No oil is to be placed on either primary or secondary system roads from tomorrow until next Wednesday in order to accomodate motorists, and several detours are to be removed from main roads.

Detours will be removed from Route 8, between Etna and North Park; from Route 488, between Ellwood City and Pleasant Hill, and from U. S. Route 30, between Lancaster and Soudersburg.

New detours will be placed on U. S. Route 219, between Foster Brook and New York State line in McKean County; on Route 931, between Frankfort Springs and Hebron Church in Beaver County, and a short half-width detour on Route 51, between Coraopolis and Carnot in Allegheny County.

"This soap contains precious elements NATURE puts in skin itself——"

"It keeps my skin so soft... so young-looking!"

That's the reason millions of women couldn't be tempted away from this beauty soap... which Hollywood stars have used for years!

But WHY does it get such wonderful results?

The secret of youthful skin

Nature puts certain precious elements into all types of skin; young skin is rich in them. But as years go by, these elements are gradually lost... skin becomes unattractive, old-looking.

Now scientists have discovered Lux Toilet Soap actually contains precious elements skin itself has... and must have to stay youthful.

It checks the loss of such precious elements, these scientists now declare!

Lux Toilet Soap, they tell you, with its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility, and its content of such precious elements, is a wonderful aid in keeping skin soft, young-looking.

Is it any wonder that 9 out of 10 screen stars are so devoted to this fragrant, white soap... that it's the official soap in all the big film studios?

—BEGIN TODAY!

"No wonder screen stars have used it for years," says Miss Wilhelmina Wagner, of Chattanooga, Tenn. "I took their advice and changed to Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin so clear, so soft and really young-looking, that it's been a revelation to me. I wouldn't be without it."

HOSPITAL HEADS ORGANIZE TO MEET CRISIS

A committee to organize the directors and heads of Western Pennsylvania hospitals was to be named today by H. Lee Mason, Jr., following a meeting of the representatives yesterday.

Mason, chairman of the directors of Allegheny General Hospital, presided at a conference where heads of many institutions painted pictures of depressed conditions afflicting the institutions, with little hope of assistance held.

With bills piled up for months and the necessity for the reduction of charity work faced, the concensus among those attending was that the public and city and county governments must realize that hospitals have reached a crisis.

TALKS OF CLOSING

The Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, of Allegheny General Hospital, declared one alternative would be to close up the hospitals and see what the public and legislators would do. He spoke of the curtailment in a Philadelphia hospital which closed five floors of private rooms and wards because it could not afford to operate them.

Mr. Mason pointed out that of approximately 1,600 cases 966 were emergency patients brought by the police. He added:

CHARITY FUNDS CUT

A table of figures presented showed that with increased free work, the State Legislature had decreased the appropriations of hospitals by $428,910. The cut, the report said, meant that 10,138 fewer indigent persons can be given free treatment.

Speakers pointed out the futility of public appeal for funds, due to the coming welfare drive. Representatives of the Montefiore, Presbyterian, Children's and other hospitals said they had already cut down free work, not having the money to operate.

Dr. Thomas S. Arbuthnot, of the Children's Hospital, declared bills for food, supplies and other necessities had run as long as a year without being paid, while W. S. Arbuthnot, of the West Penn Hospital, said hospitals could only do as much as they had money to pay for, and leave it up to the city and county and public to care for the rest.

RAPS ROAD FUNDS

Leo G. Griffith, representing St. Francis Hospital, deplored the "millions spen. on lifting the farmers out of the mud while the state leaves the poor sick do as best they can."

Trinadad Tornado Wrecks Oil Fields

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, June 29.—(INS.)—South Trinidad was a scene of disastrous havoc today after a hurricane hit the region.

Communication lines were down and the oil fields were reduced to shambles. The hurricane tore the roofs from many homes.

'Autoist Fighting Car Blaze Burned

Sidney Maier, of 6423 Nicholson street, was burned on the hands when he attempted to extinguish a fire that damaged his automobile in the 2400 block Boulevard of the Allies early today, according to a police report. Firemen were summoned. Loss was estimated at $10.

Spanish Envoy Hurt In Paris Collision

PARIS, June 29.—(INS.)—Ambassador de Madariaga, of Spain, was seriously injured today, according to a report appearing in a Paris newspaper, when the car in which he was riding collided with another.

Stomach Torment Quickly Ended By Pittsburgh Man

If tormented by stomach acid and gassy indigestion brought on by chronic constipation, don't make the mistake of dosing with baking soda and physics. They only relieve for the moment, and then your anguish comes back—worse than ever. The trouble is that ordinary laxatives do not remove waste matter that clings to the bowel lining and poisons your system, and you can't get lasting relief unless this clinging waste is removed. "The Family Physician" Medicine usually makes short work of it, tones up the stomach and bowels, soothes the membranes and makes you feel like new. Just listen to what a Pittsburgh man has to say on the subject—D. M. Eaby, 1372 Illinois Ave., Dormont:

"Constipation and stomach trouble had me in such a bad way that I couldn't hold food on my stomach. But my appetite was so poor I didn't much care whether I ate or not. When I did force myself to eat, sour, acid liquid came up into my mouth and I'd soon be so bloated with gas, so headachy and depressed that I was sorry I took that meal. No medicine seemed to do the slightest good until I tried 'The Family Physician' Medicine recently. Soon I had a ravenous appetite. My food digested well and my bowels are regular. I notice that my nerves are more calm and that I sleep better, too. I wish I could tell everyone about this wonderful medicine."

It costs only 30c or 60c to prove what "The Family Physician" Medicine will do for you, and even this small price will be refunded if you're not delighted with the results. Get a bottle today at any Mayflower or Sun Cut Rate store.

Lightning Kills Golfer, Second In 4 Days

DETROIT, Mich., June 29.—(INS.)—Carl Heller, attorney, was dead today, victim of a bolt of lightning which struck him as he played golf late yesterday.

It was the second such death here in four days, Harry Jackson, 42, suffering a similar fate while golfing Sunday.

CRASH, WASHOUT PERIL WALLACE

HURDLAND, Mo., June 29.—(AP.)—A washout on the Santa Fe Railroad's main line near Kenwood, Mo., blocked all trains here today and delayed Train No. 6, on which Secretary Henry A. Wallace, of the Department of Agriculture, was en route to Chicago. A rainfall of unprecedented proportions had virtually isolated Hurdland and Brashear.

GOODLAND, Kan., June 29.—(AP.)—A passenger plane which carried Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, from Kansas City to Salina yesterday, was destroyed by an explosion and fire after it had made a forced landing near Goodland.

Explosion of a fuel tank wrecked the ship soon after Pilot Gordon Darnell, warned of danger by fumes from the motor, landed in a corn field and escorted his four passengers to safety.

Mail and express also was saved.

32nd Ward Outing Held at Kennywood

School children and residents of the Thirty-second Ward held their annual community outing in Kennywood Park yesterday. The Board of Trade and other community organizations sponsored the picnic. J. J. Demskie was general chairman.

Mt. Oliver public and parochial schools also held their annual picnic at Kennywood yesterday.

Senator's Daughter Loses $3,500 Gems

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 29.—(INS.)—Police today sought without success the family jewels of Mrs. John Knight, the former Barbara Vandenberg, daughter of United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

The jewels, valued at $3,500 were found to be missing last night when Mrs. Knight went to take them from a jewelcase where she had placed them upon her return from inauguration ceremonies at Washington in March.

EVEREST AGAIN BEATS SCALERS

LONDON, June 29.—(AP.)—The chairman of the Houston Mount Everest expedition, C. G. Bruce, announced today that as a consequence of continued bad weather the expedition will be withdrawn. He said:

"That does not mean that we have given up hope of finally getting there. The struggle still goes on, but for the moment the mountain has won against man and his machine."

Two expeditions were financed by Lady Robert Houston to conquer the world's loftiest peak, which towers 29,141 feet. One, the air expedition, flew over Mount Everest early in April.

The other, headed by Hugh Ruttledge, a retired officer in the Indian civil service, sought to conquer the peak by land. It had expected to reach the base camp north of Everest in April with two months to go before the monsoon.

PARKS MAY GET AMPLIFIERS

Taking a tip from a visitor to the World's Fair, the County Commissioners may install amplifying systems in the parks so band concerts may benefit the whole enclosure. Chief Clerk William T. Rees, just back from the fair, told the Commissioners there are few bands there, but their music is widely distributed by amplifiers.

McGovern remarked:

"We can have a band in the courthouse and send music to both parks."

Henry Chalfant Miller, representing the Chicago Automatic Electric Company, was given permission to survey the parks for a possible amplifier system. He also was directed to report on plans for installing a new telephone system in the parks.

BRITAIN FLOGS BANK BANDITS

NEWCASTLE, England, June 29.—(AP.)—British justice fell with what the court itself described as an iron hand here yesterday upon two brothers, who, it was stated, had been previously sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment in Sing Sing for armed bank robbery in 1927 and were pardoned and deported.

The men, Joseph Duffy, 30, and Thomas Duffy, 28, both of Edinburgh, were sentenced by the Newcastle court to 10 years' imprisonment and to 15 strokes with the cat-o-nine tails for armed bank robbery in Newcastle June 2.

Passing sentence, Justice Charles said:

"You have carried out a raid which is practically unknown in this country. When this is carried out it must and shall be punished with an iron hand."

Girl 'Miner' Killed By Rock Cave-In

REDDING, Cal., June 29.—(AP.)—Crushed beneath an avalanche of rocks and dirt, Pearl Parker Frambes, 21, died yesterday in the cave-in of a mine near here, where she was working with her sister, Barbara, 14.

The younger girl suffered severe internal injuries, but physicians said she would live.

Wool Thief in $400 As Prices Go Up

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 29.—(AP.)—A thief gone wool-gathering picked up 173 fleeces from the Jasper Williams farm, near Frosty Run, police report.

Recent market gains have boosted the value of the "haul" to more than $400, police say.

Woman in Hospital After Taking Poison

Mrs. Edna Wolford, 21, of Hamlin street, was in Presbyterian Hospital today suffering from the effects of poison swallowed in her home last night, according to a police report. Her conditions was reported fair.

JUVENILE JUDGE FIELD STUDIED

Candidates for Juvenile Court judge will be targets for unwholesome political entanglements, Curtis A. Williams, of the Pennsylvania Commission of Penal Affairs, told the Allied Board of Trade at a meeting in the Congress of Woman's Club, Penn avenue, last night.

The proper candidate, Williams said, should be fearless, have a thorough understanding of child psychology and welfare, and be independent and of strong character.

He said a civic committee was studying the qualifications of many prospective candidates with a view to supporting one. He asked allied boards to support the candidate picked by the committee.

CARNIVAL RIOT JAILS TWO

WHEELING, W. Va., June 29.—(AP.)—Police blame professional jealousy between a prize fighter and a minstrel performer for a free-for-all fight at a carnival which led to a riot call.

Jack McDonald, 35, of Covington, Ky., prize fighter, connected with the carnival, and Herman Dillon, of Clarksburg, W. Va., are under arrest on charges of assault and battery.

McDonald claims Dillon invaded his tent and hit him in the head with a brick. In the ensuing fight, other members of the troupe joined.

The officers said members of the troupe told them McDonald had been drawing larger crowds, and that this had led to a quarrel between the men. Both will be given hearings today.

Former Legislator Dies at Towanda

TOWANDA, Pa., June 29.—(AP.)—Winfield S. Kinney, member of the State Legislature in 1887 and '88, died at his home.

He had been in business for 59 years and had held numerous local offices.

Fire Chief Injured In Truck Dash Dies

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 29.—Fire Chief Harry Cundall, veteran head of the Washington fire department, died in the Washington Hospital, last night, from injuries suffered a year ago when a truck on which he was speeding to a fire collided with another machine.

Chief Cundall was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Judge Convicted By Jury as Drunk

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 29.—(AP.)—Convicted by a jury on a charge of intoxication, Municipal Judge Horace L. Small awaits sentence while his attorneys plan a motion for a new trial.

Several years ago, during a previous term as municipal judge, Small was charged with transporting liquor. He resigned from the bench and the charge was never pressed.

408 SMITHFIELD

BETWEEN FOURTH AVE. AND DIAMOND ST.

Under the Gulf banner are 4 great motor oils —each an amazing value!

Be prepared. Forestall annoyances that may mar your trip. Shop with Gulf.

These Gulf services are free: Clean windshield, fill radiator, inflate tires, check oil.

IF EVER there was a week-end to drive into a Gulf station —this is it!

For Gulf is offering motorists two new products that top everything in their field.

One is the new lubricated Good Gulf Gasoline—a brand-new motor fuel! It not only gives more power, but more miles! It lubricates hard-to-lubricate points. Makes valves work smoothly. Prevents sticking. And forms practically no carbon.

The other is Gulf's amazing new Gulf-lube motor oil. Gulf-lube was recently tested by the American Automobile Association at Indianapolis against other leading 25c oils —and gave 28½% more miles per quart than the average of its competitors. It beat every other oil tested!

So turn your wheels toward the sign of the orange disc! We'll give your car FREE services that will help make her run like a top. And tips are taboo!

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Decision

I think that we are too impatient, dear,
Too quick to use the bitter biting phrase,
For after all, in that discarded year
We had our share of peaceful, glamorous days;
I still remember certain frocks you wore,
And certain lures and graces all your own,
But we were not the types who learn to store
Their memories to build a golden throne.

We might have found the road to rainbow's end,
And shared the pot of gold they claim is there,
We might have learned that passing Summer's blend
To form enchantments tenuous and rare;
(But tho' it's really wrong to jeer and scoff—Between us two—I think we're better off!)

Gag

Take it from Robert Montgomery, one of the better screen pretenders, who offers the one that involves Russ Columbo, the boy beautiful. They were relating how Columbo had got himself into a jam by his indiscreet signing up with various managers.

"The way he's tied up," someone was explaining, "he has to pay off about four managers. As I understand it, he only gets about 30 per cent of his salary."

"Really?" queried Montgomery, "and he can still sing?"

Form of Criticism

Fred Allen tells of the legit actor, down to his last spat, who had been forced to move to the tenement district. It galled him to sink from Barrett to garret in one generation, and the surroundings grated on his nerves. Describing his squalid quarters to another ham, he said:

"It's one of those neighborhoods where—if you hear an intelligent conversation floating out through the windows, you know the radio is turned on."

The honeymoon is over, says Albert Alpern, when he starts leaving for work in the morning without stopping to wake her up.

Heheheh

Richy Craig, Jr., contribs the quip about the author (an exham) who went back stage to peddle some jokes to an act. The act's dressing room happened to be near an open door leading to the audience. After three or four gags, the manager dashed back and growled:

"You guys are talking so loud, they can hear every word out there!"

"Yeah?" teased the author, "Are we gettin' any laughs?"

Add Similes

The Strain of It!

Eddie Hillman (Marian Nixon's former groom), whose kin own department stores, doesn't have to work, but he took a job, his first in 33 years, recently. He was engaged as the third assistant at the Columbia studio's on "The Wrecker" movie. All Hillman was required to do was to say: "Quiet please!" when the camera was ready to shoot. He gave his $35 per to a Hollywood hospital every week.

But what we started out to say was that one day after a long lull someone asked the director:

"When do we resume?"

The honeymoon is over, says Mrs. Winchell, when he says: "Here's your ticket, I'll meet you at the theater."

Street Scene

Add candidates for an overflowing basket of orchids. At the northeast corner of 42nd street and 6th avenue in the shadow of the "L" an Italian merchant dealing in cups of fruit ices was approached by a derelict in the last stages.

Marbles in the Mouth

The spooky tones of the radio crime story tellers are hardly as effective as the cop who intones his moans to the Los Angeles police cars.

"Calling car 92," he droned the other midnight. "Calling car 92. See a horse regarding a man at 3772 Cahuenga boulevard."

"Correction. See a man regarding a horse."

And, adds W. R. McAllister, the honeymoon is also decidedly over when she starts reading aloud, and with sarcasm, the remarks in the column about how you can tell when the honeymoon is over.

Composer-Director Has Two Tasks

Victor Schertzinger, who is both composer and a motion picture director, has been engaged by Columbia to direct "Goin' to Town." This is Brian Marlow's story and deals with the rise and fall of a radio crooner and Schertzinger will compose the musical numbers to be sung in the production.

Musicians of Films Now on Tour

Phil Harris, popular West Coast baritone and orchestra leader, who plays the principal role in the RKO-Radio musical production "Melody Cruise," just recently completed an 18-month engagement at the Cocoanut Grove in Hollywood. He has been heard frequently over the "Hollywood on the Air" broadcast program, but he now has entered the ranks of a regular radio entertainer. Harris and his orchestra are now on tour. Harris made his screen debut as the star of a short film, "So This Is Harris," a musical novelty.

Myrt and Marge Get Story by Mack

"The New Deal" co-starring two radio stars, Myrt and Marge, which Bryan Foy is independently producing for Universal release, was adapted from Willard Mack's "My Lady's Legs," and is being directed by Al Boasberg, its adaptor.

Cortez Given Part With Raft

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—One of Paramount's announcements has given Hollywood a chance to indulge in its favorite sport of reading between the lines. The facts, as the studio reveals them, are soon told. Ricardo Cortez is to replace Jack La Rue in "The Trumpet Blows," a bull-fight story in which Jack and George Raft were to have played brothers.

Mr. Cortez

Why, asks gossip-loving Hollywood, was the change made? Was it due to the coolness that is reported to have developed between the star who walked out on "Story of Temple Drake" and the young actor who stepped in to take his place?

You couldn't get George or Jack to admit there even is a coolness. As for the studio, it points out that Helen Twelvetrees also is being substituted for Miriam Hopkins in the same story. It's all a matter of routine.

But that doesn't satisfy Hollywood. It prefers the more piquant interpretation.

An approaching wedding in the film colony will be that of Lenore Bushman and Dr. Karl Marxer. Close friends say they will take the vows either in the late summer or early fall. Lenore is one of the daughters of Francis X. Bushman. Her sister, Virginia, is married to Jack Conway, the director.

As for Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller, they can't take the romantic step to the altar even if they want to, until October 11, when the Weissmuller-Bobbe Arnst decree is final.

Here's style news straight from Travis Banton, who designs clothes for the Paramount stars. Travis entertained the press at his home, where Adrienne Ames, Lilyan Tashman, Helen Vinson, Carole Lombard and Claudette Colbert were manikins for his new creations. They showed a definite trend towards romantic and dramatic effects. Long sweeping capes and trains. Even wider shoulder lines instead of the predicted narrow ones. And a return to flowers and bows. Several of the models feature capes of ostrich feathers, with feather muffs to match. Sun-tanned shoulders were much in evidence, too. This is one style Hollywood refuses to give up.

Miss Ames

Walter Winchell says that the leading role in the story he sold to Twentieth Century Pictures just fits George Raft. This is not a columnist story, incidentally.

Jean Harlow still goes everywhere with Hal Rosson. Saw them at the Miramar Hotel. W. S. Van Dyke made it a threesome . . . Helene Rosson and Nick Stuart were another film pair dancing to Jay Whidden's music . . . Doris Warner and Mervyn Leroy and Marguerite Churchill and George O'Brien were together. There is no use rumoring a marriage between Merv and Doris, for he is not divorced . . . Jeanette Loff was with Ted Fiorito, who plans to spend a six-week vacation here. This dance spot is a new favorite.

Did you know: That Maurice Chevalier once worked in a French nail factory.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Romance

Dorothy Jordan supplies part of the youthful romance in "Strictly Personal," one feature of double bill to be seen Friday in Davis and Sheridan Square.

Anatoles to Dance At Pines Friday

The Anatoles will hold the first of their summer dances at the Pines, on the Perry Highway, near Keown Station, Friday evening. Ernie Palmquist's Orchestra will furnish the music. Dancing will be from 9 till 1. The succeeding dance on the summer schedule will be held July 21.

Roman Scene In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The most magnificent religious spectacle seen in Rome in 63 years is contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. It shows Pope Pius borne aloft in St. Peter's Square before a throng of hundreds of thousands of worshipers celebrating the Feast of Corpus Domini. Carrying a gold and gem encrusted receptacle holding the Host, the Pope is borne around the square. The Globe Trotter gives a graphic description of this great church spectacle.

Mrs. Roosevelt is seen joining the President on the Amberjack II in the pretty harbor of Mount Desert Island, Maine. The First Lady goes aboard the tiny schooner and gives the President a resounding kiss.

First pictures of the Prince of the Asturias and his bride, Senorita Sanpedro Ocejo, the pretty Cuban girl for whom he gave up his rights to the Spanish throne, come from Lausanne, Switzerland. Both tell of their great happiness and greet America through Hearst Metrotone News.

Czechoslovakia Day is celebrated at the World's Fair in Chicago by 3,500 men and women gymnasts who take part in the famous Sokol. Boys and girls give a separate drill that brings forth tremendous applause from a vast crowd.

Army amphibians engage in a thrilling experiment on the beach at San Diego, Cal. They are put down on the waves and sent full speed through the breakers to the beach without damage.

Harry L. Hopkins, Administrator of Federal Emergency Relief, tells how the huge sum of $500,000,000 is to be distributed.

Striking air views show the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., scene of the tragic kidnaping, which the famous flier and his wife are giving as a refuge for poor children.

A new crop of police "rookies" put on a lively sham riot in the Yankee Stadium in New York, as a feature of graduation day, to show how they would put down any kind of a disturbance.

Far East

Myrna Loy has the part of an English girl who goes to meet her fiance in Egypt and meets also an impudent Nile guide, in "Barbarian," Penn film Friday.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Odds and Ends

THE YACHT CLUB BOYS, greatest cafe entertainers in America today, offer a story that may amuse you at this moment. Incidentally, if I change the story here and there, I trust that this highly successful combination will not be offended. You'd be amazed at the anger of certain performers when you alter their stories in the slightest degree. They're almost as angry as they'd be if you didn't use the story at all. At any rate—

Killer Joe (and the yarn is true, with the exception of the fact that names and places have been changed) was sitting in his hotel in New York one morning when he received word that he was wanted in Cleveland, O. The word came by phone.

"Joe," said the man on the wire, "this is a soft job for you. It's a fellow named Tony B——, who has a vegetable racket in Cleveland, and I've recommended you as the best guy in the world for the job.

"He'll treat you like a king and he'll pay you plenty. I don't know just what he's got in mind, but I'm sure it'll be a soft touch for you. Can you make it?"

Killer Joe shifted his cigar.

"Sure," he returned. "Things is plenty tough now, and a soft touch is right up my alley. Tell the guy I'll be there."

Accordingly, almost as quickly as I can tell it to you, Killer Joe was sitting with Tony in Cl[illegible]nd. But this Tony turned out to be a strange sort of boss. He mentioned nothing about the type of killing he had in mind. Instead, all he wanted to do was to make Joe comfortable.

"You're sure," he insisted, "you gotta plent' brandy? You wanta more champagne? You likea your room at thisa hotel? Everything's okay, hey? That'sa good!"

So long as the boss said nothing about the job on hand, everything was jake with Killer Joe. The latter gentleman was being well paid, and good times were just as much enjoyed by him as they might be by you and your cousin Susie. He rested at his hotel, drank his liquor, entertained all the hostesses that would come to his parties, and, in general, did all the things that make a sucker think he's having a good time.

When seven or eight days went by, however, Killer Joe began to grow just a trifle nervous. What kind of a sap was this Tony anyhow? He had brought him all the way from New York to do a certain job, and he was saying nothing about it. What was the guy—goofy, or something?

Thus, on the following night, Killer Joe took the bully by the horns. Tony and Joe were riding around Cleveland in the former's car, when Joe suddenly turned to the man who had hired him.

"Tony," he muttered, "you're an okay guy. But I'm getting a little tired of hangin' around this town and doin' nothin'. If you got a job on your mind, what say we do it now?"

Tony slapped him on the back.

"That'sa okay wit' me, Joe," he chirped. "I'm glad to heara you talka that way. So long you feela good, we go right away."

He leaned forward to his chauffeur and the car shot forward. They traveled until they reached the toughest part of the city, and when they neared a crowded corner the car slowed down. There were easily 30 or 40 men standing near that corner in different groups.

Killer Joe drew the gun from his belt.

"Okay, Tony," he muttered. "Which one do you want me to kill?"

Tony drew back. He motioned to the different groups.

"Which one?" he repeated incredulously. "Don't talka like the fool. Which one? All of them!" . . .

ALL of which reminds me of Billy Moore's famous story of the professional killer in New Orleans who had been knocking off victims for years and years at so much per head. As a blind, the killer owed a little grocery store to which his customers came when they wanted to hire him for a killing.

To the store one afternoon came a man who had hired the killer on several previous occasions. This was a big job, it seemed; two men at the same time. The killer arranged the deal on his usual terms and told the other man not to worry. As usual, he was paid in advance.

That night he did the job. And the following morning, the man who had hired him raced into his store.

"Say, Jack," he cried anxiously, "you did a terrible thing last night. I paid you in advance for two guys. You killed two, all right—but one of those fellows was the wrong guy."

The killer waved a hand.

"Okay, boss," he murmured easily. "Don't worry about it. The next one is on me!" . . .

THE man was at least 70 years of age. And there was just a chance that he might be close to 80. He sat in a neighborhood speakeasy the other afternoon and drank brandy after brandy. The proprietor, worried about the old geezer, approached his table.

"Say, Mr. Jones," he asserted, "don't you think you should be a little more careful? You're hiting that brandy pretty heavy."

The old man swallowed another drink.

"I know it, Nick," he croaked, "but what's the difference? Life is so short!" . . .

John Steinberg, operator of the Pavillon Royal and one of the sweetest characters in the cafe business, was last week approached by an oldtime employe, who handed him the saddest type of hardluck story. The man had been married a short time, there was a little stranger on the way—and now he had lost his job.

So pitiful did the man make his story that John was deeply touched. The man said he needed work immediately, and John told him he would do his best. And, true to his word, as soon as the man had left him, John called up the people from whom he bought his beer.

He said that, although the work would be new to the man who wanted the job, his varied experience in other lines would enable him to tackle this work successfully. And so strong did John make his plea that the brewery agreed to see the man the very next day.

The following day, the man—accompanied by his wife—appeared for the interview. The outcome was a promise of a job at $25 a week, plus an expense account and commissions. This arrangement was to go into effect the following Monday, when he was to report for work.

Came 9 o'clock of the eventful Monday at the brewery, but with it no sign of the new employe. Finally, along about noon, he phoned the manager.

"I'm sorry," he explained. "I'd like to take the job, but I can't come to work after all. My mother-in-law won't allow me to work in a brewery!"

BEATEN IN FIGHT OVER SHINE

Struck on the head with a mixing bowl during an argument last night in a hat cleaning establishment at 831 East Ohio street, where he is employed, George Ragos, 42, was in Allegheny General Hospital today suffering a possible fracture of the skull.

The assailant, identified only as an ex-city fireman, was being sought by police. The man, intoxicated, entered the shop and became involved in an argument over a shoe shine, according to Homicide Detective Albert Grayber.

Pitt Registration To Start Tomorrow

Registration for the regular six-week summer school of the University of Pittsburgh will be held in the Cathedral of Learning tomorrow from 1 to 4 o'clock, and Saturday from 9 to 4 o'clock.

More than 50 courses will be conducted by the University during the six-week period, beginning July 3 and continuing until August 11. The regular session will be followed by a post-session of two weeks, August 14 to 25.

Ruby and Al At Warners

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—(AP.)—Now that both Jolsons—Al and Ruby—are working for the same company, Hollywood wonders whether they'll let down the bars.

Al never allowed Ruby Keeler to visit him on the set when he was a Warner star in the early talkie days. He said he was afraid he'd become self-conscious if his wife watched him.

For a like reason, presumably, Al never ventured onto the sound stages while Ruby was making scenes for "42nd Street" or "Gold Diggers."

No one in Hollywood expected Al would work again for the Warner brothers. One reason is Al's frequent statement that he believed Warners made a mistake in starring him in so many "Mammy" pictures. He has said the drop in his popularity was due to the similarity of each of his pictures to the first, "The Jazz Singer."

His first picture under his new contract, "Wundebar," the stage play he starred in recently, will include other stars besides Jolson.

Film Director Hurt In Crash of Autos

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—(INS.)—Sylvan Kamp, 27, film director at Universal Studios, probably was fatally injured today when the car he was driving collided with another said to have been driven by Hugh Loranger, 39, a laborer, according to police reports.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With the exception of J. Donald Gallagher, alternating players are appearing in the cast of "Springtime for Henry," presented for the first time here by the Summer Playhouse, Shadyside Academy, Fox Chapel, last Monday night. Last night Ida London replaced Helen Wayne in the role of Miss Smith. She will play the part again Saturday. Tonight and Friday Harriet Weiler, instead of Polly Rowles, will act Mrs. Jelliwell. Mr. Jelliwell was played last night by Fulton Tufts, instead of Gilbert Milton, the same arrangements to be in force again Saturday. The second production of the Summer Playhouse, S. N. Behrman's "Second Man," to be given the week of July 10, is now being rehearsed under the direction of Chester Wallace.

'Trick' Divorce Leads Wife to End Life

SEATTLE, June 29.—(AP.)—Clutching in her hand the divorce complaint her husband said was intended only to "teach her a lesson," Mrs. Paula Trowbridge, 47, ended her life yesterday, coroner's deputies said, by asphyxiating herself.

The husband, Samuel Trowbridge, near collapse from grief, said he had filed the suit June 19, because he thought it would "startle her out of a bad state of mind."

CHURCH LOSING LEADERSHIP, U. P. ASSEMBLY WARNED

COMMISSARY AID ENDS AT TARENTUM

Throng Hails Change In Relief System; Lists Fall

The end of the commissary system of relief has brought general rejoicing at Tarentum.

The knockout blow delivered at Harrisburg by the State Emergency Relief Board was announced last night by Judge M. A. Musmanno at a mass meeting in Riverview Park, Tarentum, and was greeted with cheers and applause.

For while the commissary system has been a success financially, feeding large numbers of people at low cost, it has been under fire because of its reputed effects on the morale of relief recipients.

DENOUNCES SYSTEM

Those in close touch believe that by July 15 the change can be made from the commissary to the store order system at Tarentum.

Judge Musmanno in denouncing the commissary system said:

"To place self-respecting people in line from day to day to receive hand-outs of food is bound to lower the morale and destroy their self-reliance."

Describing a visit to the commissary, Judge Musmanno said:

"I know why the people complained about monotony. If a carload of beans came in, they got beans for a week. I got enough beans in the army."

The meeting was sponsored by four Italian-American societies of the Tarentum district. Joseph Thomas presided and other speakers included Attorney Hale Hill, and William Brown who advocated the widening of the road between Tarentum and West New Kensington.

INDUSTRIAL GAINS

Improvement in industry has already made a startling change in the relief picture at Tarentum. The Allegheny Steel Company is putting a number of men to work and increased operations are seen at the plants of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the Leechburg Steel Company and the Penn Iron and Steel Company.

There are 1,800 families receiving relief at Tarentum compared with 2,600 at the peak last winter.

Walter C. Titus, superintendent of the commissary, said many of the workers, back at their jobs, are going off relief lists.

CITES LOW COSTS

Titus said the change could be made to the store order plan of relief, although last night he had not received official word from Harrisburg. He pointed to the fact that the Tarentum Commissary has operated for 19 months during an unusual depression and over a long time has fed large numbers with nourishing food at a cost of 72 cents per person per week.

The same type of service had not been duplicated at the cost anywhere in the state, he declared. He ascribed much of the outcry against the commissary system to social workers.

WELSH PASTOR DIES AT 72

The Rev. Thomas S. Evans, 72, for many years pastor of the Chatham street Welsh Baptist Church, died today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Williams, 45 Allen avenue.

Born in Wales, he was one of the last of the old Welsh Baptist ministers in this country. He held the Chatham Street pastorate until last October, when the church was disbanded.

He leaves three brothers, Lewis and John, of Vancouver, B. C., and James, of Wales, and a sister, Mrs. Angelina Evans Richards, of Vancouver.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 29.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

California went so wet Tuesday that they arrested a guy today for bathing in water instead of native wine. West Virginia, which by geography, breeding, dialect and stills, should be Southern, but politically has never been anything, well, it reached for a cocktail.

Will Rogers

It's not a question of sentiment any more, its just a question of "where can I get ahold of a ballot, and where is a box to put it in?

No wonder the Republicans appeared so dumb in there—anybody that couldn't judge ublic opinion any better than they did on this question. It's little wonder they are unemployed.

Yours, WILL.

ACTOR BARNETT: "MY DEAR FRED, WHY THE TOPCOAT?"

Film Comic Bemoans Fan Mail Shortage In Pittsburgh

Vince Barnett, a few years ago a familiar face to Pittsburgh housewives—he tried to sell them vacuum cleaners—is back home for a visit.

The son of Luke Barnett comes back as a star movie comic—rating around $1,000 a week. His friends aren't surprised — but Vince is.

He drove out to his father's home in Edgewood last night at the supper hour, and the traffic along the boulevard was jammed with heat-irritated drivers. He told of his career, and rise in the pictures, and illustrated, only too frequently with his hands, the parts he is to play in coming films. He said:

"For example, in one comedy I have a full beard, play the part of a Jewish salesman, and talk in a heavy Irish brogue. Like this . . "

He uttered strange sounds, began waving his hands, and the line of traffic at Kirkpatrick street piled up and his $7,000 limousine almost climbed over a flivver. Undisturbed, he continued:

"And the next part I have I wear the hat I used in 'Scarface.'

"I like to get stories in Pittsburgh papers. I get less fan mail from here than any other city. When my wife and I landed in Detroit 10 days ago, four photographers met us at the station. Did I swell up when Henry and Edsel Ford and a bodyguard of three passed us, and the photographers ignored them? Did I swell up?"

He put his thumbs to his chest and the big car almost piled up again. It reminded him:

"I used to sell automobiles and worked for every dealer in town. I guess I smashed two cars for each dealer. But I led the sales force. You see, I never let prospects keep me away from a party. I just took them to the party. My brothers, both doctors, can't understand me getting the money I do, because they had to push me out of eighth grade. But high hat? It's impossible. No movie stars could be high hat if they ever went home. But they don't go home. We pal around—Lee Tracy, Jimmie Dunn, Wally Ford, Pat O'Brien, Ben Lyons and that crowd. They're sane, swell people."

William H. Binns, Fayette Banker, Dies

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., June 29.—(AP.)—William H. Binns, 76, pioneer banker of Donora and California, Pa., died at his home near Fayette City early today.

He was the father of Ben G. Binns, president of the Union National Bank of Donora, W. C. Binns, assistant cashier of the National Bank of Charleroi, James D. Binns, Donora and Uniontown realtor, and David H. Binns, a director in the First National Bank of California.

POOR DIRECTOR MUST RUN

Mrs. Villia F. Henderson, appointed to fill the vacancy on the County Poor Board caused by the death of her husband, Dr. W. L. Henderson, must run for re-election this fall.

County Solicitor J. P. Fife today gave an opinion that Mrs. Henderson, who was appointed in February, 1932, must come out for election at the first municipal election following her appointment. Her husband had served one month of a four-year term to which he was elected when he died.

Bernard L. Flynn, of Crafton, today announced his candidacy for the Poor Board. He urged consolidation of city and county poor relief administration to eliminate overlapping. He was a candidate on the Square Deal ticket in 1931.

Self-Inflicted Gun Wound Kills Girl

CLEARFIELD, Pa., June 28.—(AP.)—A self-inflicted bullet wound, officers said, caused the death yesterday of Marie Bergman, 18, of near Grampion.

She shot herself Sunday because she was "tired of living," police reported.

VIENNESE WIFE OF M. D. DENIES JEALOUSY

Didn't Scratch Mate, She Says, Fighting Divorce Suit

Pretty Stefani Rose Lang, Viennese singer fighting the divorce suit here of Dr. Edward J. Lang, denies she scratched the Wilkinsburg and East End physician. She informed Judge Thomas M. Marshall, who late yesterday completed hearing the testimony:

"I love my husband too much to do a thing of that kind."

Mrs. Lang, who lives with friends at 1130 East street, Wilkinsburg, said her husband shipped her out of the country last June and the following October filed a libel in divorce.

DENIES JEALOUSY

The petite Austrian denied she was jealous of her husband or nagged him about other women. She said Dr. Lang's mother was jealous of her. They lived at the Lang home at 203 Biddle avenue, Wilkinsburg, following their marriage in Vienna, August 31, 1931, where Dr. Lang took a postgraduate course.

Mrs. Lang said she wanted a home of her own. She declared his endearing missives after he induced her to go back to Vienna until the depression ended, because it was cheaper, made no mention of divorce plans.

She denied using profanity, asserting she did not understand what the words meant, and therefore could not say what she was charged with saying.

TALKS OF NURSE

Mrs. Lang testified her husband had shown her a picture of Miss Bernadine Walsh, a nurse, of Hastings, Pa., and had said he had been in love with her.

Miss Walsh, it was testified, was in the Lang home for some time, caring for his sister.

Mrs. Lang, relating that once she had nursed her husband through tonsilitis, referred to a time when she asked if there was anything she could do for him and he answered negatively, but a half hour later had Miss Walsh swab his throat. This angered her, Mrs. Lang said.

Miss Walsh testified regarding the incident. Mrs. Lang made no accusations against Miss Walsh. She denied Miss Walsh's statement that she had scratched her husband after the swabbing incident.

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD F. GAISER . . . . . THEIR ROLLING HOME KNOWS NO STOPPING

ROAD PROJECT UP AT PARLEY

The city and county may join in construction of Saw Mill Run boulevard extension from the foot of Nobles lane, Carrick, into Overbrook, it was learned following a conference yesterday. The State Highway Department is willing, it was said, to do the construction work if the city pays the property damage. The work would be all inside the city.

Councilmen have suggested that the county include this project on its program of road improvements under federal grants. This has already been done.

Attending the meeting were Commissioners C. C. McGovern, W. D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr, County Solicitors J. P. Fife and M. B. Lesher, Councilmen George S. Oliver, P. J. McArdle and W. Y. English, and C. M. Reppert and E. L. Schmidt, city and county engineers respectively.

Skinner, 75, Refuses 'Mouldy' Retirement

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—Otis Skinner observed his seventy-fifth birthday yesterday with a rehearsal of a new play. The noted actor reflected on his 56 years on the stage:

"Retire? I get moldy if I stop working. My life is the theater and I want to go down fighting. I don't like retiring. There's too much to do."

Visits 4 U. S. Borders In Auto With Home Conveniences

He is back in Pittsburgh today for a brief visit, pulling his house on wheels behind his rambling automobile in which he has toured from coast to coast and border to border, a trip of 25,000 miles.

Happy and contented, enjoying the best of health and looking in the prime of life the man who spent 20 years on the police force now winters in Florida, summers in the mountains or the seashore and rambles along at will enjoying to the full the remaining years of his life. He says he never wants to live in a house without wheels as long as he lives and Mrs. Gaiser joins with him in this carefree boast.

Let him tell it himself:

"We've toured this country from one end to another. We're moving out of here in a few days for the World's Fair at Chicago, and then . . . well, I guess we'll move along somewhere else.

"But we'll be back in Florida next winter."

Mrs. Gaiser explains the intricacies of housekeeping in a home on wheels.

She led the way to her kitchen, pointing to ice box, cooking utensils, dishes, etc. Then with a sweeping gesture that took in the combination living room, dining room and bedroom, she asked:

"Could you ask for anything better than this? Clothes lockers, soft spring mattresses, radio, lounge chairs and electric lights. Believe me, this is cheaper living than staying at home.

"We have no rent to pay and no landlords or taxes to worry about."

Gaiser keeps the family larder filled what with his pension and an occasional few dollars from fiction writing.

They plan to leave Pittsburgh next week. For the time being they are occupying a site in the tourists' camp at Schenley Oval.

Our New Fiscal Silence Can't Be Called Golden

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Looks like Moley's campaign of intelligent silence is finally winning a conference.

Like a kid with his nose pressed against a baker's window, we are admiring everything and saying nothing.

Nobody knows just where we stand, what we want or how to refuse it.

And it's a new kind of fiscal silence. It ain't golden.

So it just about washes up the conference. You can't play football if the boys refuse to come out of the huddle.

The home factory at Washington must feel pretty good now that our agents are doing better in the branch offices.

Religious Rebellions Cited as Challenge To Delegates

The church "is losing its coveted place of leadership," religious leaders warned today at the seventy-fifth anniversary General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church.

Religious rebellions of foreign lands was stressed as a challenge before the delegates gathered in the First United Presbyterian Church, Oakland, as the committee on the state of religion submitted its report.

The spiritual life of America already is at "low tide," with "moral convictions oozing," it was asserted, as the trend to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment was cited.

Fear for youth graduating from colleges and universities was expressed, as it was emphasized that they step into an abnormal world.

REVIVAL HELD NEED

Need of a genuine revival was stressed. Citing that the older generation has abandoned old standards without establishing new ones, the report said:

"Through genuine revival alone can the church hope to cope with a most difficult moral and spiritual situation. At this very hour, the church is losing its coveted place of leadership."

Pointing out religious rebellions of Germany, Spain, Russia and Mexico, it was held that none is "so blind that he cannot discern that the anti-religious movements in other lands have a direct bearing upon religion in our own land."

DRY REVERSAL CITED

Questioning movements that reflect the state of religion, it was asked:

"How shall we interpret the reversal of sentiment regarding the Eighteenth Amendment? Is it not a reflection of our religious convictions?

"Hosts of church members have listened to the false arguments of the 'wets,' have lost their convictions on this question and joined the rank of the enemy.

"Seeing spiritual life at low tide and moral conviction oozing, these panderers of 'liberty' are challenging every moral law of our land."

The youth of today were seen as having become conscious of life during the World War and becoming at high school age "engulfed in moral anarchy."

The seventy-fifth anniversary was being observed with simultaneous meetings being held by the Women's General Missionary Society and the Young People's Christian Union.

2,000 ATTEND

Almost 2,000 ministers, laymen and missionary workers were in attendance at the three sessions. Representatives were present from foreign countries, including India, Egypt, the Sudan, and Ethiopia. While the assembly was in session in Oakland, the missionary society was meeting at the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side. The young people were gathered at the First Baptist Church, Oakland, and Syria Mosque.

Appointment of standing committees was the first official action today of the newly elected moderator, the Rev. Dr. W. B. Anderson, Philadelphia. Dr. Anderson, secretary of the Foreign Board of Missions, was elected at the opening session yesterday, succeeding the Rev. Dr. C. S. Cleland, Philadelphia.

The women's society was being devoted to business, adoption of program, report of the credential committee, roll call and appointment of committees.

GIVING REPORTS

Reports were to be heard from the recording, statistical and efficiency and literature secretaries, from the treasurer, financial secretary, tertamentary and annuity and thank offering secretaries.

A playlet, "The Responsible Missionary Party," presented by the Cleveland Presbyterial, was to be a morning feature as well as messages brought by workers from India, the Sudan and Ethiopia. Mrs. S. R. Jamieson will give the closing prayer.

Yesterday was given to registration, presentation of officers, and a talk on the theme of the convention, "Strengthen, O Lord, That Which Thou Hast Wrought for Us," by Mrs. E. D. McKune, of Canton, O., president of the convention. She said:

"It is not enough to accept Christ. Our one business as a missionary organization is to 'Go into all the world and preach the Gospel,' with the assurance, 'Lo, I am with you alway.' Mohammedanism, th

C. G. Grove, division engineer of the Panhandle Division, will be promoted to superintendent of the Wilkes-Barre Division and be succeeded here by C. J. Code, of Erie.

BACK SEMINARY MERGERS

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—(AP.)—Favorable sentiment on the policy of merging existing seminaries is expressed by presidents, deans and theological professors who attended the annual conference of seminaries of the United Lutheran Church in America.

The delegates last night discussed a report presented by Arthur B. Black, of Washington, executive secretary of the laymen's movement, that his inquiries among laymen revealed approval of the policy.

In the discussion it was stated that the constituencies of the seminaries in Philadelphia, Gettysburg, Selinsgrove and Brooklyn favor consolidation of the four institutions in Philadelphia.

Realization of the plan would require expenditure of about $1,500,000 in increased lecture hall, dormitory and other facilities.

Lad Lost Visiting Father Is Night Court Guest

The guest of Magistrate Leo Rothenberg at the night court hearings in Central Police Station last night was Joseph Kibel, 7, of Washington street, Carnegie, who had been taken to the station by police who found him wandering at Sixth street and Penn avenue.

However, Magistrate Rothenberg scouted the lad's story of how six men brought him to Pittsburgh from Carnegie in an automobile and left him there. Police learned later he had visited his father, who works in a downtown restaurant, and had wandered away. A scout car took him home

There are 12,000 Moslems in Detroit and 8,000 in Chicago. Fifteen million Jews are turning sadly from Judaism. Let us give them Christ."

MAKES DRY PLEA

A call was sent forth to fight wet forces. Mrs. McKune said:

"As Christian women we know that the propaganda of the wet forces represents gross lies. We rub our eyes to make sure we are not seeing in a dream the blatant beer signs that have sprung up everywhere.

"Only yesterday it seemed impossible that our American flag would ever again wave over a booze nation. Gone today is that surety. We are living in an America that seems to be trying to balance its budget by forfeiting its own soul. Can this craze of the states for voting wet signify the real voice of the people? We must do something to stop this insidious advance of propaganda before it engulfs us."

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET

The young people's session was being held in the form of simultaneous conferences for members according to ages. Following these conferences, the national oratorical contest was held in Syria Mosque. While mushball and tennis tournaments occupied the delegates this afternoon, the national council will meet at the mosque.

Miss Miriam Peters, of Crafton Heights, was elected president of the session and Miss Ruby Evans, Columbus, secretary.

All groups will join in devotional services tonight at the mosque. Speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Lytle Rodgers Free, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Anderson.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

BILL TILDEN says: "Tournament play in tennis imposes a terrific strain upon the nervous system. Healthy nerves are essential if a player is going to be successful in maintaining his speed, endurance, and the psychology of victory. As a steady smoker, I find that cigarettes vary a lot in their effect upon the nerves. I have tried all the other popular brands, but for years I have smoked Camels. Because of their extraordinary mildness I know that I can smoke Camels as freely as I wish and still have healthy nerves."

BOOST IN AID DEMANDED BY COMMITTEE

The joint committee on the social crisis today demanded that the rate of relief per family be increased.

Increases, according to statements by the Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut, chairman of the committee and pastor of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, should take care of the rising cost of food, to permit the family to keep up its morale, to pay some bills besides food and pay something on rent.

The joint committee includes clergymen and laymen representing Catholic, Jewish and the leading Protestant creeds.

The statement commends the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board for its progress in fighting the plan to reduce the grant, and asserted the committee was in agreement with the $38 per month per family rate in Ohio, beliving it little enough.

The statment concludes:

"So long as there is no contribution toward the cost of shelter we must expect increasing squalor, decreasing property values, increasing taxes on solvent properties. So the undersigned ask that the Allegheny County Relief Board and the Allegheny County Emergency Association request the State Emergency Relief Board to adopt and present to the special session of the Legislature the policy of including cost of shelter in the budget of a family receiving unemployment relief, and that they definitely undertake to work out a program that will contain at least two items: The removal of client families from unfit to fit dwellings; the payment of such amounts for the shelter of client families that dwellings may be kept habitable, and that current taxes and water rents may be met."

OFFICE HOLDERS DROP AID PLAN

Failing to obtain unanimity among county officials, the County Commissioners have dropped their attempt to contribute to the Helping Hand organizations of Pittsburgh and McKeesport from salary refunds.

An effort by Chairman C. C. McGovern to make a direct contribution of $7,500 to the Pittsburgh organization and $750 to the McKeesport group was blocked by Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield when Solicitor J. P. Fife and his assistant, Mortimer B. Lesher, declared the appropriation would be illegal.

Lesher, however, pointed out that the county code provides for such appropriations in the event of necessity to maintain health and safety of the county's people. Mansfield said this would mean that only residents of the county could receive shelter at the two relief agencies.

McGovern believed this point was a matter of discretion for the Commissioners. Barr said he would consent to the appropriation if all the county solicitors could agree that the Commissioners' discretion would cover all the disputed points.

But McGovern replied:

"That would be impossible. I never saw six lawyers agree on anything."

The proposal was held up for further study.

Reach for Beer Dislocates Shoulder

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP.)—In Chicago's record of accidents this one appeared today:

Thomas T. Lloyd, of Petersburg, Ill., reached backward for a stein of beer at a Century of Progress concession and dislocated his right shoulder.

Incidentally he said it was the thirty-sixth time he had done that, but never before while reaching for a beer.

CAR FIRM QUITS TO MAKE ALE

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(AP.)—S. T. Creighton, secretary of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation, had announced today that the Peerless Company, a subsidiary, was making plans for the installation of machinery in its Cleveland plant for the manufacture of ale.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—The Peerless Motor Car Corporation, which has not manufactured automobiles since the latter part of 1931, has notified the Stock Exchange that it proposes to go into the business of brewing ale.

The company said it was negotiating with a "prominent Canadian brewing corporation" for the use of its brands and trade names and for the co-operation of its technical-chemical staff.

HASSEL PROBE 'LEAKS' BARED

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—(AP.)—A leak of important prosecution data from the Philadelphia prohibition office is the subject of a federal investigation.

Maj. Randolph Shaw, government counsel, complained yesterday that secret federal evidence against the string of breweries said to have been owned by Max Hassel, slain beer baron, has been turned over to defense attorneys with "alarming regularity."

The charge prompted Commander John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator, to disclose that "I have known for some time there are traitors in the department."

He said a special undercover man from Washington now is working to expose them. From other sources, it was disclosed that the United States Department of Justice would also take a hand in the inquiry.

VOLSTEAD QUITS PUBLIC LIFE

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 29.—(INS.)—Andrew J. Volstead, "father of the American Prohibition Act," today was preparing to retire from public life.

Notified that as legal advisor to the northwest prohibition administrator, he would be furloughed July 1, Volstead commented:

"It was no surprise. When the appropriation was cut I expected that I would be asked to quit."

Volstead said he would return to his home at Granite Falls for a rest. He explained that he does not expect to run for public office again.

"My health won't permit. I have heart trouble, you know."

SUES TO OBTAIN BEER LICENSE

First of its kind in Allegheny County, Emelis Zakrenski, 4410 Liberty avenue, has filed a petition in Quarter Sessions Court asking that Treasurer Robert S. Cain be compelled to grant her a license to sell beer.

She declared her application, filed June 23, was refused by the Treasurer June 26. He had ruled that all applications for license should be filed before June 1. Judge Samuel H. Gardner fixed July 20 for a hearing.

A similar suit, filed in Centre County, resulted in Judge W. Ward Fleming ordering the treasurer to grant the belated license.

Widow Sues Firm Because of Autopsy

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 29.—Because an autopsy was performed on the body of her husband without her permission, Mrs. Josephine DuJardin, of Monessen, has filed suit for $25,000 damages against the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

Mrs. DuJardin alleges her husband was killed while at work and the post mortem examination was made by company physicians for the purpose of enabling the company to defeat her claim for compensation.

DRYS GET WRIT IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—(AP.)—California, with a vote of approximately 3 to 1 in favor of outlawing the Eighteenth Amendment from the Constitution, today faced the possibility that drys may hold up certification of results in Los Angeles on a technicality.

Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Frank G. H. Stevens, late yesterday obtained a temporary injunction from canvassing the votes or certifying the result.

Cannon and Stevens as taxpayers questioned the Hornblower legislative act calling the election, principally upon the grounds that Congress, under the Constitution, has sole power to prescribe the manner in which a repeal convention shall be constituted.

With 8,951 of the state's 9,347 precints reporting, the vote was: For repeal, 965,256; against, 305,568.

Wears Lovely Dresses Now Since Losing 49 Pounds of Fat

Get That Youthful Feeling of Spirited Activity—That Glorious Kruschen Feeling

A roly-poly, overweight woman can't possibly wear the new flattering styles—besides the best bargains and most charming dresses come in the smaller sizes.

So get busy, girls, with Kruschen Salts—get rid of double chins, chunky legs and ugly bulging rolls of fat above the corset line—without starving and without loss of strength or pep.

As a matter of fact when you faithfully take your "little daily dose" of Kruschen first thing every morning in a glass of hot water—you gain in energy and vitality—you increase physical charm (skin clears, eyes grow bright) all while you're achieving your goal—a youthful, slender figure. Attention to diet will help—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter and cream.

Mrs. Di Salvo, of Woodhaven, L. I., writes: "Only a few months ago I weighed 187 and never could get a nice dress to fit. Now from a 44 dress to a size 20—weight, 138. Many thanks to Kruschen. I've recommended it to all my friends."

A jar of Kruschen that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drug store the world over. Money back if not joyfully satisfied with results. But for your health's sake—make sure you get Kruschen—it's the SAFE way to reduce—prescribed by physicians.

NO BRASS BANDS...

NO CIRCUS STUNTS

But some facts that every one who drives a car should know

The Atlantic Refining Company is deeply interested in what the public thinks about this company and its products.

It is not interested in participating in any "battle of ballyhoo" within the refining industry.

For 68 years, Atlantic has been giving the public the finest products it knew how to make . . . at the lowest prices it could achieve. And the public has responded to this policy. Today, for instance, the motorists of Pennsylvania buy more than twice as much ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH as any other gasoline . . . proof, we believe, that they find high quality and unusual value in this motor fuel.

Atlantic holds no brief for or against any factor in the refining industry. There are good companies with good products and poor companies with poor products. But nothing is more destructive to American business than to have the factors in an industry tear at each other's throats in unfair and malicious competition. This results in workmen losing jobs and pay. It brings a flood of cheap, shoddy products . . . often decked out in trick packages or colors to make them seem novel and attractive. It means the loss of public faith, because the public soon grows weary of unwarranted claims and bombastic challenges.

The Atlantic Refining Company has been in the forefront of every important gasoline improvement. Yet you will find no circus stunts in the promotion of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. No wild statements to insult your intelligence.

Atlantic is satisfied to continue making a motor fuel of outstanding merit, and let that fuel do its own selling job . . . in the engine of your automobile. Day in and day out, year in and year out, it is held and will be held to the highest quality we know.

It is because of this fundamental policy, we believe, that ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH not only continues to hold the loyalty of its old customers, but is constantly attracting the patronage of other discriminating motorists.

Even though large June weddings are over, we have more weddings to anticipate—those in the fall. Sallie Gibson, pretty daughter of the junior John Gibsons, of Bennington avenue, has decided on Saturday, September 9, as her wedidng day.

Her engagement to Franklin Farrel III son of the junior Franklin Farrels, of New Haven, Conn., was announced no longer ago than Saturday. Sallie and her mother are now in Nova Scotia for the summer.

Wed in Church

At the simplest of weddings, Sarah Haddock, daughter of the William S. Haddocks, of Dormont, will become the bride of George Pearson Rhodes, Jr., this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten will be the officiant, and Harvey Gaul will play the organ.

The bride, who will have no attendants, will wear a white boucle traveling suit with a small hat to match. Serving as best man will be the bridegroom's brother, John Bower Rhodes, of Short Hills, N. J.

After a wedding trip Mr. Rhodes and his bride will be at home in the Rhodes home, Wilkins avenue. Later they will visit Mr. Rhodes' parents at their summer home in Beaumaris, Canada.

To Bow In Fall

Anne Hamilton's parents, the Donald C. Hamiltons, of Murray Hill place, have decided after all to bring their daughter out in the fall. I'm sure Anne must be pleased for all her friends will be making their debuts this fall.

Mrs. Carl L. Pierce and Mrs. W. Eugene Gary will be co-chairmen for the second out-door concert on the lawn of the Hotel Schenley tomorrow night.

Betty Laufman, Gretchen Lappe, Evelyn Freeman, Dorothy Clark and Barbara Pierce will be aides.

Another blow to that bogy, depression—Mrs. B. F. Jones III, of Sewickley, tells me that more dogs have been entered in the Dog Show, the event of Saturday in the Allegheny Country Club show ring than ever before.

Record Dog Show

By this morning a total of 469 dogs, many from out-of-town, have been entered, and will be shown in all their glory Saturday. And all the proceeds go to the Allegheny General Hospital social service committee.

And there's to be a tea, with a group of debs and post-debs as charming waitresses. And the cakes and sandwiches are all coming from the Woman's Exchange, donated by Exchange board members.

It's just about impossible to begin to enumerate all the smart folks wearing smart summer ensembles who thronged the Fox Chapel Golf Club yesterday afternoon and evening.

Hospital Benefit

The affair there yesterday, a bridge, tea, dinner dance, a beer garden and goodness knows what all, was one of the largest and gayest and most successful benefits ever given in Pittsburgh.

It was all for the benefit of West Penn Hospital with the woman's committee of the hospital in charge. Just to give you an idea of the popularity of the affair, 500 dinner reservations were taken before the day of the benefit dawned.

Many were there for the afternoon, playing bridge, having tea on the cool terraces, and walking about chatting with frineds.

Afternoon Of Bridge

Among the many who arrived for the afternoon beginning of the affair was Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon. She wore a cool dark brown and white broken-striped chiffon dress with a jacket and a brown and white straw hat.

Frances Johnston chose a striking black and white costume. Her frock was of black handkerchief linen with frills of white organdie in fichu fashion for accent. And she wore a wide-brimmed matching hat.

Summer Costumes

Mrs. William C. White, one of the committee leaders, chose a turquoise blue crepe suit with a shading hat; Patricia Witherow wore a white pique dress, with a sun-tan back and a wide-brimmed white pique hat.

Others I noted were Peggy Berger, who was beneath a shady umbrella at the entrance to the club grounds. She was busy all afternoon taking tickets.

Mrs. H. H. McClintic was there, wearing primrose yellow handkerchief linen, and Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, in a blue and white cool print, and Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly. Mrs. T. M. Jones III looked stunning in a heavy white crepe dress having a Roman scarf sash.

Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson looked smart as usual. She chose a navy blue and white printed crepe dress with a large coarse red straw hat having intricate trimming on the crown of navy blue ribbon.

Serving as one of the many industrious young aids was Gretchen Rose in a white matellasse sports frock. Others I saw were Mrs. J. Crossan Hays, little Susie and Peggy McCague with their mother, Mrs. E. J. McCague, Nancy Doyle, Georgianna Collin, Althea Robinson in blue crepe, Laura Childs in a red and white checked suit.

Aides Galore

Mrs. George A. Kelly III wore blue and white crepe and Helen Leovy, yellow crepe. Also present were Louise Reed, Patsy Mllon, Mrs. J. Hanson Rose, and Mrs. R. M. Jennings, Jr., with her two little children, Sara and Richard.

Just about everyone in town—and all the younger set—were there last night for the dining and dancing. Informal gowns of cool summer fabrics predominated.

City Club Will Give Bridge-Garden Party

An affair that will break the monotony of mid-summer eventlessness is the bridge-garden party which the Woman's City Club will have at "Vosemary," Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock's country home, on Saturday afternoon, July 15.

Mrs. Carl L. Peirce, Jr., president of the club, is appointing her committees for the affair, which will be given by the board of governors.

Miss Underwood Is Married to J. F. Cutler

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Underwood, of Oneida street, Dormont, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Dorothy Underwood, to John Frederick Cutler, which was solemnized last night in the Bethany Lutheran Church, Dormont, at 8:45 o'clock. There was a reception in the Underwood home later.

The bride was attended by Miss Claire Wallace, and James R. Underwood, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Ralph M. Underwood and Lee Gratz.

After July 15, Mr. and Mrs. Cutler will be at home in Mississippi avenue, Dormont.

W. & J. Head Officiates At Sister's Nuptials

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 29.—In one of the most brilliant society weddings of the season, Miss Marian K. Hutchison and the Rev. Dr. Rex Sowers Clements were married here this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College, in the Second Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hutchison, a brother of the bride, was assisted in performing the marriage ceremony by the Rev. George P. Atwell, pastor of the church.

Miss Hutchison, daughter of Judge William Easton Hutchison, of the Supreme Court of Kansas, is a native of Topeka, Kan., and has been a missionary in Persia. Dr. Clements is pastor of the Church of the Covenant, Boston.

The bride's father gave her in marriage; Mrs. Ralph C. Hutchison was matron of honor, and the Rev. John Oliver Nelson, of Pittsburgh, was best man.

Mary Elizabeth Hutchison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hutchison, was flower girl, and the Rev. Joseph Kidd, of Mercersburg, and the Rev. R. Park Johnston, of Pittsburgh, wereu shers.

A reception followed.

Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. Philip McDowell, of Teheran, Persia, who are spending a furlough at Wooster, O.

Miss Hutchison is a graduate of the College of Emporia, Kansas, and received her Master's degree from Wellesley in 1930. For a time she taught in mission schools in Persia and for the past two years she has been traveling field representative for the Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

Dr. Clements is a graduate of Colgate University, class of 1926, and in 1929 was graduated from the Yale Divinity School. He received his Ph. D. degree in Theology from the University of Edinburgh in 1931. For two years he was assistant pastor at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. Last October he became minister of the Church of the Covenant in Boston, Mass.

The Political Education Society of Allegheny County gave a luncheon and card party at Spear's yesterday, and today the Lorena Orr Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, is having a card party at the same place. Members of Mizpah Chapter Bible Class of the Mt. Washington German Evangelical Protestant Church will meet there for bridge tomorrow.

Allentown Girl And Mt. Lebanon Man Marry

At a pretty wedding on Saturday in the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Marion Ethel Clause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clause, of Allentown, Pa., and Richard Bruce Cuthbert, Jr., son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce Cuthbert, of Mt. Lebanon, were married, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Officiating was the bridegroom's father, who is superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital Home for the Aged in Mt. Lebanon.

The church was decorated with ferns and palms.

The bride wore an effectively simple gown of white lace and a short veil of tulle caught with rosebuds. Her cap of lace embroidered with seed pearls was caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Alice Wilson, the maid of honor, wore crisp yellow organdie with a matching picture hat of maline, and carried Talisman roses and blue delphinium. Dr. Oscar Schumerman was the best man.

The reception and dinner were held in the St. George Hotel, and later Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert, Jr., left on a motor trip East. Before making their home in Canastota, N. Y., they will spend some time at the Cuthbert summer home in Ironstone County.

The Epworth Leaguers of the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal Church will present a program of music and a playlet tonight in the church to raise funds to finance a delegate to the annual institute at Newton Hamilton, Pa., July 10 to 17.

Dormont College Club To End Social Season

Dormont College Club will have its last social affair of the season tomorrow afternoon when a bridge-luncheon will be given at the Chartiers Heights Country Club.

As chairman, Miss Anne Gosset will be assisted by Mrs. Frederick Agnew, Mrs. W. T. Grimm, Miss Martine Crouse, Mrs. William Houston, Miss Virginia Kerr, Miss Judith McMullin, Mrs. H. W. Petty, Miss Sarah Shaffer and Miss Dorothy Spreen.

Scottdale Girl, Greensburg Man Wed

At a home ceremony on Tuesday Miss Helen Lucille Stoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Stoner, of Scottdale, became the bride of Ray E. Tracy, of Greensburg. Officiating was the Rev. C. W. Winey, pastor of the United Brethren Church of Scottdale.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of blue crepe with matching accessories and carried Talisman roses and forget-me-nots.

She was attended by Miss Virginia Wineman, who wore yellow crepe with white accessories and carried yellow gladioli and blue delphinium. Burt F. Heintzelman was the best man. Mrs. C. W. Winey played the wedding music.

After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy left on an eastern trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Locust street, Greensburg.

The Allegheny County Garden Club will be entertained tomorrow night by Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., at her home, "As You Like It," on Sewickley Heights.

Club Member's Lee Picture Rarity

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. James B. McFall, a former president of the Southern Club, is the proud possessor of a rare full-length photograph of Gen. Robert E. Lee. The photograph was made for Mrs. McFall when she was in Lexington, Va., recently and was printed from the original negative.

The negative is the property of the Lexington photographer, whose father made the picture in 1869, when Gen. Lee was president of Washington and Lee University.

Mrs. McFall also has a copied photograph of Stonewall Jackson which shows a button out of line on the general's coat. It seems that his attention was called to a missing button just before he posed for the picture. Asking for a needle and thread, he sewed the button on—but out of line.

It was understood that each member of his staff was to have one of the photographs, but that no others were ever to be made from the sitting, a wish that was complied with. Only in recent years, and after much persuasion on the part of a photographer, copies have been made. The photograph was taken in Winchester, Va., in 1862.

More than 500 guests were served supper at the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club garden party last night at "Wallingcrest," Mrs. Walter J. Fuller's home, Washington road. And to the young aides who trudged so bravely back and forth from house to garden must go a large measure of credit for the success of the affair. These aides included Betty Smoot, Martha Schreiner, Olive Robinett, Kay Hittner, Betty Hubbard, Helen Lush, Doris Wyman, Betty Peebles, Margaret Coullie, Helen Swartz, Ruth Mills and Jean Campbell.

The flower display was the principal attraction, although the various other exhibits were given their share of attention too. In the mixed bouquet display, the judges awarded prizes to Mrs. E. V. Hjort, Mrs. S. A. Schreiner and Mrs. William McCartney. Other prize winners were Mrs. F. A. Duerr, Mrs. G. N. Clark, Mrs. C. G. Platz, Mrs. F. M. Root, Mrs. G. M. Darby, Mrs. L. D. McCandless, Mrs. H. G. Sands, Mrs. A. E. Dixon, Mrs. C. F. McCready and Mrs. G. T. Sulzner.

Prizes in the baked goods display were won by Mrs. C. A. Floto, Mrs. C. F. F. McCready, Mrs. C. F. Goldthwait, Mrs. B. K. Elliott, Mrs. H. F. Ochsenhirt, Mrs. C. H. Paul, Mrs. W. F. Lusch and Mrs. Miles G. Bulger, Jr.

Mrs. John Reeble, Mrs. Philip McCain and Mrs. W. M. Phillips took the preserve prizes and for the pickles and relishes the one prize went to Mrs. Raymond Ross.

The national officers of the Women's Overseas Service League will arrive in Pittsburgh Saturday morning for the annual convention which opens Sunday.

A pre-convention meeting will be held at the Hotel Schenley Saturday morning and in the evening Miss Edythe Davidson, convention chairman, will be hostess to the national officers at dinner at the Pines. Miss Shirley Farr, of Chicago, is national president.

A drum and bugle corps will meet the delegates who arrive Sunday morning.

CHILDISH FLUFFY RUFFLES ADOPTED BY SOPHISTICATES

FLUFFY RUFFLES are smart again. The two evening gowns sketched—one worn by a youthful matron, the other by a worldly debutante—at a gala country club party, are typical of what all smart women are wearing this season for all but the most formal affairs. If you can wear young clothes and their young accessories, and manage to look like a dashing sophisticate and ingenue rolled into one—you're in high fashion now.

YOU SEE the younger girl, on the right, in a demure summer evening dress of all-white frosted organza. It closes high at the throat, there's a childish collar, and fluted ruffles everywhere, even covering the shoulders. The skirt is voluminous, marked by rows and rows of ruffles. Just like baby sister's best bib-and-tucker—a delightfully naive fantasy!

FRILLY ORGANDIE bags and gloves, ruffled all over, are the right accessories to carry with both these gowns. For further sophistication add a tiny contrasting pill-box organdy evening cap, or one of the new mysterious evening veils that spell heaps and heaps of allure.

FOOD BENEFIT AT WEST VIEW

Even though he is away, the work of Father Cox among the destitute will go on without interruption. What promises to be one of the biggest food benefits of the year is scheduled for West View Park on Monday, when every man, woman and child attending will be given a strip of eight tickets for rides and attractions in exchange for each 30 cents worth of food donated.

Canned goods and standard package groceries are particularly wanted for the hundreds of needy families that come to Old St. Patricks for aid. This big food benefit is sponsored by the West View Park management, the Sun-Telegraph co-operating. The park will be open at noon and a booth for the exchange of food for tickets will be established near the entrance. The benefit offers an opportunity for plenty of fun at very little cost. The strip of tickets to be distributed, if purchased at the park, would cost 80 cents. Consequently those who avail themselves of the opportunity offered, will not only contribute to a worthy charity, but will get their day's outing at about one-third the cost if paid for in cash.

The fact that Father Cox is away is not interrupting his drive for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings a liberal cash commission to his relief fund. Father Cox expects that the receipts from this subscription drive will buy all the food required for the breadline of Old St. Patricks while he is away.

WARNING GIVEN PRISON CAMPS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 29.—(AP.)—A warning to prison camp officials to "be very careful in their manner of dealing with convicts" was issued today by Nathan Mayo, Florida prison division head, with an explanation that a new state law places guards in the position of civilians with no more right to use guns than ordinary citizens.

Mayo said anyone striking, beating or mistreating convicts would be "prosecuted by the courts."

Zelienople Home Holds Visiting Day

Annual visiting and donation day is being held at the Orphans' Home and Farm School in Zelienople today.

Talks by State Senator Peter Graff, III, president of the board of directors, and the Rev. Dr. Paul H. Roth, professor of historical theology at North Western Lutheran Theological Seminary, Minneapolis, Minn., and an operetta by the students feature the program.

Postmasters Named At Verona, Farrell

Joseph P. Caufield has been appointed postmaster at Verona, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. James Nevant was named for the post at Farrell, Pa.

AT LAST! An absolutely ODORLESS depilatory!

ALBASTAN

The unpleasant odor coming from most hair removers is sulphide . . Albastan is guaranteed to contain no sulphide derivative . . nor any other "smelly" chemical. It is dainty, acts in five minutes, leaving your skin alabaster-smooth, with no "shaved look." Once use it . . you'll say goodby to razors, mixing powders, and pastes that offend your nose!

WHAT stirs a young man's fancy in the summer-time? Offhand, a good guess would be a long, tall cooling drink. (That goes for the ladies too.) • Think of a frosted glass with a gay sprig of mint, and the verve of a dash of lime, well-laced with the flavor of juniper or apple, and all sparkling and zippy with the tang of The Champagne of Ginger Ales. There's something that goes straight to the thirst center! • That's the purpose of Canada Dry in life . . . to make a good long, tall drink taste better. For it doesn't merely mix . . . it blends! All by itself, too, it has a piquancy and delicious flavor that have never yet been matched.

THE BIG BOTTLE
(Plus 5c Returnable Bottle Deposit)

Not just a large bottle but a BIG 28-ounce bottle making from 5 to 8 tall drinks. Canada Dry is also made-to-order by the glass at soda fountains.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS
don't start without
KLEENEX!

For wiping perspiration from faces
For cleaning windshields
For wiping grease and dirt from hands
For wiping steering wheel
For picnic napkins
For handkerchiefs

Better keep a package always handy in the car!

HOW many times have you wished you had Kleenex with you while driving?

Windshield covered with dust, and the only cloths in the car so greasy, they'd only make matters worse! Face wet with perspiration, and your only handkerchief grimy from previous wipings.

With plenty of Kleenex along, you always have something clean with which to wipe dirt and grease off your hands, to clean windshields, steering wheels. Always a clean handkerchief for face and eyeglasses.

A picnic napkin

Stop for a roadside bite, and you have a dainty napkin in a fresh, clean Kleenex tissue. Stop at a pump to cool off and refresh your face, and you have an emergency towel.

Let the children have that ice cream cone. Kleenex will keep the drippings from soiling their clothes or the car's upholstery.

Illustrations and text copr., 1933, Kleenex Co.

Useful in so many ways—Kleenex should be the motorist's constant companion on every trip, long or short. Simply keep a package always in the car. Put it in a side pocket—or, better still, on the seat right beside you where it is handy to use.

For that holiday trip, stock up on Kleenex before you start. Buy Kleenex at any drug or department store.

JACK MAY HAVE ENOUGH LEFT TO WIN

THE DOPE APPEARS still to hold out a slight edge for Jack Sharkey as the titleholder and Primo Carnera prepare to enter the ring in Long Island City tonight to settle the world heavyweight championship argument for the present and determine which of the two shall fight it out later with Max Baer. It isn't a safe edge by any means. In fact, it's only a conjectural one, for you never can feel sure about Sharkey even when you know he's at his physical best, and in this instance there's more doubt about him than usual, as he has fought only once in 20 months, and probably has paid the toll of inactivity as well as of advancing years.

Max Baer

That appears to be the main question about the fight—whether Sharkey has come down far enough to be passed by Carnera on the way up. The bout can't be doped on the lacing that Sharkey gave the voluminous Venetian in the fall of 1931. Jack has lost something since that time through age and idleness, whereas Primo has gained in experience, skill and knowledge of ringcraft. Mental attitude also favors the Italian. Sharkey has plenty and is ready to retire. Carnera is bankrupt and facing an opportunity that means Easy street. Clearly the man mountain has the greater incentive to fight with the spirit that wins, besides having a tremendous physical advantage in weight, height, reach and youth.

If Primo could hit he would look like a certain winner, and even as it is he must be conceded a chance to take the crown. But that lack of a punch may prove the Italians' undoing. He is hardly a good enough or fast enough boxer to win without it. Whether Sharkey has gone back so far as to wipe out the wide margin he previously held over Carnera in speed, cleverness, hitting power and general class can only be conjectured, but he is entitled to the benefit of a doubt. The champion ought to have enough of it left, with his greater experience, to carry him through to the decision.

YESTERDAY WAS AN unlucky day for major league players who had unusually long streaks of sequential hitting to their credit. No fewer than five of them were stopped in Wednesday's games, so that the season's record of 26 straight contests set recently by Heinie Manush, of the Senators, is safe from that many challengers, at least for the time being, and they'll have to start all over again if they hope to equal it.

Johnny Frederick, of the Dodgers, was the owner of the longest streak interrupted yesterday. He had batted safely in 20 consecutive games. Danny Taylor, of the same club, was flagged at 15. Wally Berger, of the Braves, went hitless after connecting in 13 straight, while Don Hurst, of the Phillies, and Ossie Bluege, of the Senators, were halted at 11 each.

WHILE SOME OF the other managers in the majors are complaining that they do not have a sufficient number of pitchers, Walter Johnson offers the opinion that the big league clubs, with a few exceptions, are carrying too many hurlers. Johnson thinks that four good pitchers, used in rotation, form the ideal staff.

Walter remarks that he has four good pitchers at Cleveland in Ferrell, Hildebrand, Harder and Hudlin and sees no reason why they cannot be rotated without being overworked. The Indian boss figures that a big staff reacts to the disadvantage of a club, as some of the flingers cannot get enough work, and lack of practice resulting from inactivity for sometimes as long as a week causes poor control and ineffectiveness.

BACK IN THE Pirate days of 25 years ago, when Fred Clarke took Tommy Leach off third base and converted him into a fly chaser Tommy said he found the work so much easier that he thought the outfielders ought to pay to get in. If Leach were around now he would find himself supported in that opinion by another third-sacker in the person of Sparky Adams, former Pirate with the Reds. "The outfield is the real easy job on a ball

LITTLE ADVANCES

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 29.—(AP.)—Lawson Little, of San Francisco, and other Gus Moreland, of Dallas, Tex., of John Dawson, of Chicago, doubled as finalists for the trans-Mississippi golf championship after two rounds of match play which reduced the field of contenders to eight for the quarter finals today.

M'AFEE FINED

CLEVELAND, June 29.—(AP.)—Bill McAfee, relief pitcher for the Washington Senators, was fined $250 by President Will Harridge, of the American League, for striking a spectator at the close of Tuesday's game between the Indians and the Senators.

TERRYMEN WIN RESPECT OF PIRATES

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—That the Giants are a real contender for the National League flag and not a mere flash in the pan in the collective opinion of Manager George Gibson and his Pirates whose battlefield has been switched here from New York, where yesterday the Pittsburghers split even in a torrid doubleheader.

Bill Terry's club, on paper, is not a standout, but the Giants are a team that functions smoothly, and they are blessed with a degree of aggressiveness not excelled by any club in the league; indeed, many experts are willing to state that the Giants are the best fighters in the circuit.

GIANTS SCRAPPERS

To the fighting spirit of the Giants may be attributed much of the credit for the lead of four and one-half games the New Yorkers held over the runner-up Cardinals before today's battles got under way. The spirit of hustle was reflected yesterday as the Giants came from behind in the ninth inning of their second fight with the Pirates to prevent what might have been a crushing double defeat. Hughey Critz nicked Larry French for a two-run homer in the ninth to force a deadlock, and Gus Mancuso bumped Bill Swift for a three-run four-sacker in the tenth to give the Giants a 7-4 triumph.

STEVE IMPRESSIVE

Steve Swetonic pitched a masterful game in the early scrap as the Pirates sank Carl Hubbell. Paul Waner's triple with two on in the eighth decided this contest. The score was 5-2. Swetonic allowed only six hits as he outpitched the great southpaw.

Roy Parmelee opened against French in the nightcap. Larry moved along in fine shape until Critz nicked him for the homer. Gus Suhr made a home run in each battle.

By Ripley

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: JACK SHARKEY—Sharkey's true name, Zukauskas, is a Lithuanian transliteration of the Polish name Zukowski, the radical of which is Zuk, a big black bug. "Talk" is the only word in English derived from the Lithuanian language. Its ancestor is "Tulkas" (speaker) and it was naturalized in our speech by way of the old Swedish "tolka;" Danish "tolki" and Icelandic "talka."

CHAMP SLIGHT CHOICE TO WIN OVER PRIMO

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Tonight tells the tale. The tale of whether or not Primo Carnera, Mussolini's pride and joy, will bring Italy its first world heavyweight boxing championship.

It also establishes, or will not establish, Jack Sharkey, of Boston, as one of the really great heavyweight champions.

The Man Mountain of Italy tries again where he failed two years ago to defeat the former Battling Ski, of Uncle Sam's Navy. When they fought before, Sharkey was not yet the champion and was beginning to think he never would be, for he had just been held to a draw in 15 rounds by little Mickey Walker. However, that Walker fight put him on edge for the Carnera meeting, and he never looked better than he did against the huge Primo.

IDLE FOR YEAR

This time, as the defender of the title, Sharkey enters the ring with no fight under his belt since he won the bauble from Max Schmeling on a disputed decision last June. He is 30 years old, a bit fat and perhaps a mite slower, but fired with an ambition to make his critics sit up and finally accept him as a worthy champion. Also, he has not forgotten that in his most recent bout Carnera was the innocent accomplice of Death in erasing from the scene his protege, Ernie Schaaf. After that battle, Sharkey is said to have vowed vengeance, saying:

"I'll take care of that big guy when I get him in the ring again."

It was that knockout victory of the sick Schaaf that brought Carnera back into the limelight as a contender, after even his most ardent admirers had begun to give up hope for him. Indeed, a hue and cry was raised that he was too big for any ordinary-sized heavyweight foes, and a rule was made in New York state that thereafter he would be permitted to box only men of or near his own generous proportions. He is 6 feet 6½ inches tall.

Neither Sharkey nor Carnera is a knockout puncher. Sharkey is the sharper hitter, Carnera being more or less muscle-bound and a push-puncher. Sharkey also is the better boxer; in fact, one of the best the heavyweight class has produced. One of Carnera's best chances for victory lies in the hope that he will be able to tire and wear down Sharkey in the clinches with his 265 pounds or thereabouts of avoirdupois against Sharkey's mere 205.

JACK CLAIMED K.

When they met before, long-armed Carnera gave a good account of himself while Sharkey stood up and jabbed with him. Then the champion-to-be changed his tactis and began to bob and weave and attack with hooks. One of his blows floored Primo and he got up and then went down again without being hit to complete the count of nine, and Sharkey went into one of his tantrums and implored the referee to declare the Italian the loser for his breach of the rules. When the arbiter, Gunboat Smith, refused, Sharkey tried to climb out

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

DETROIT, June 29.—Charley Grimm has no more worries than a gal that's cured herself of halitosis, B. O., and sluggish liver and looks good in a rubber bathsuit. His Cubs are not exactly within whistling distince of first place, but Chaz is figuring on 1933 history being a carbon copy of last year.

The Cubs were going nowhere and had a round trip ticket for it last August when Manager Hornsby was given another gate to add to his collection of exits and entrances. Grimm then stepped in, made a few well chosen remarks to the Cubs and they were away in a cloud of spearmint. The flavor lasted till they met the Yanks.

So this year Chaz figures about the last two weeks in August, when most folks are taking their vacation, the Cubs will go to work, scuttle the Pirates, deflate the Giants and scatter the Cards, using the same old blueprints of last year.

Joe Zivic, Boxing Referee, to Wed

Joe Zivic, local boxing referee, and Miss Katherine Joyce, of Carnegie street, Lawrenceville, are to be married at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning of next week in St. Kieran's Church.

Following the ceremony, Zivic and his bride will leave for Chicago, where they will witness the All-Star major league baseball game on July 6, and attend the World's Fair.

CARSON GAINS SEMI-FINALS

GREENWICH, Conn., June 29.—(AP.)—Prince Fumitaka Konoye, a member of the Japanese imperial family and a student at Lawrenceville School, reached the semi-finals in the twenty-second annual Eastern interscholastic golf tournament at the Greenwich Country Club.

He will play Jack J. Munger, of Hill School, today, while Maurice Nee, of Georgetown Prep, medalist, will meet Sydney Carson, of Kiski School, Saltsburg, Pa.

Carson won in his match with Detweiler, of Georgetown Prep, 3 and 1, and Nee defeated James Marks, of Kiski, 3 and 1. In the other match, Munger eliminated Jack Shaw, of Hun School, 3 and 1.

Fussell, Former Pirate, Pitches No-Hit Win

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 29.—(AP.)—Fred Fussell, slim left hander recently traded to Albany by Buffalo, entered baseball's hall of fame here yesterday when he shut out the Skeeters without a hit or a run for nine innings, Albany winning, 4 to 0.

COUNTY NET PLAY OPENS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Another O'Loughlin-O'Loughlin final looms as distinct possibility for Independence Day feature as 52 determined netmet square off this afternoon in first and second-round men's singles combat of the P. T. A. revival of Allegheny County tennis championship hostilities on the dozen clay courts of the Westinghouse Club, three miles beyond Wilkinsburg on the old Greensburg pike.

Both Dr. John, the victor, and Dr. Dave, the vanquished in last Sunday's classic West Penn racquet wind-up, are entered to uphold P. A. A. prestige in the county titular affair.

Bill Haseltine, Philadelphia ace and Western Pennsylvania winner in 1930 and 1931, surprised Chairman Bill Clardy of the Westinghouse event by filing last-minute entry for Allegheny honors. Haseltine, remaining here for another crack at Steel City warriors, is seeded third in the draw, John O'Loughlin rating number one and brother Dave two.

Names of entrants in women's singles and men's doubles will be accepted until 7 o'clock this evening. Chairman Clardy may be reached by special telephone at Brandywine 3010, until that hour.

The pairings:

CUBS PURCHASE JIM MOSOLF

NEW YORK, June 29.—(INS.)—Jim Mosolf, one of the leading hitters of the American Association, today was purchased by the Chicago Cubs in a deal that sent Taylor Douthit, veteran outfielder, to the Kansas City Club.

Mosolf, who has been playing centerfield for Kansas City, has been hitting well over .350 all season. He was with the Pittsburgh Pirates several years ago. Douthit, at one time with the St. Louis Cardinals, was recently traded to the Cubs by Cincinnati.

"No BLOWOUTS on MY 4th of July Trip!

I'm getting new Goodyears NOW"

YOU don't need to be told that a thin, risky tire can take all the joy out of driving — but perhaps you have never figured that it costs you money to ride on old tires, with prices on the way up — if you pay more for new tires later on.

So buy now—enjoy your big July 4th week-end — and save yourself some money.

And while you're buying — get the SAFETY of blowout protection in every ply — get the SAFETY of grip in the center of the tread. Only Goodyear can give you the double safety of Supertwist Cord in every ply — and every ply from bead to bead — combined with the safety of the world-famous All-Weather Tread.

You can buy Goodyears — the world's first-choice tires — for not a cent more than tires which give far less value and protection.

PRICES HAVE STARTED UP!
Don't wait to buy your tires!

You can see for yourself these prices are still low. Don't miss them by trying to squeeze a few more miles out of old worn-out rubber.

BLISS LEADS MARKS, 5-UP

FORMER KISKI ACE TRAILS IN COLLEGE PLAY

WILLIAMSVILLE, N. Y., June 29.—(AP.)—Walter Emery, of Oklahoma, and Bob Cochrane, of St. Louis, came together in an all Mid-West match of the 36-hole quarter-final round of the intercollegiate golf tournament today with Emery 2 up at the end of nine holes.

Rodney Bliss, of Cornell, Nebraska state champion, was making a runaway of his match with Wilson Marks, former Kiski star, now of Princeton, being 5 up at the turn. Bliss also was one under par. The out cards:

Bliss out . . . 5 4 3 4 4 4 3 4—35
Marks out . . . 5 5 5 5 4 5 3 6—42

Charles Yates, Georgia state champion, playing from Georgia Tech, was 1 up on Vincent Fehling, of Notre Dame, dark horse entry of the tourney, at the end of nine holes, taking the sixth and seventh to wipe out an early margin of Fehlig.

In the other quarter-final encounter, Hank Koway, of Colgate, tournament medalist, and C. E. Birch, of Dartmouth, were all even at the turn, each with a medal card of 35.

SHARKEY, PRIMO AWAIT BELL

of the ring, claiming victory, but was dissuaded by his manager, Johnny Buckley. From then on he won easily.

Sharkey has had many such brainstorms during his checkered career. He is a man of high-strung sensibilities. It is believed he got a lot of emotion out of his system last Saturday, when he quit his traning camp and drove 200 miles to Boston in a wild dash to protect his family after the receipt of threatening letters. Then he calmed down and drove right back to his camp and showed fine form in his Sunday and Monday workouts, which marked the end of his hard training. Perhaps he has rid his system of pent-up fury, and will be the same cool ring general he was against Schmeling the night he won the title.

The short odds on tonight's fight are easily understood. They are just a little better than even money in Sharkey's favor. He has been such an in-and-outer that this is not surprising, even in view of the fact that Carnera has not accomplished anything really worthwhile during the time he has been before the public. The betting is based not so much upon Carnera's worthiness as a challenger as it is upon the unreliability of Sharkey. There is plenty of Carnera money in sight, and there is talk of "wise money" plunging on him.

60,000 MAY ATTEND

The weather is clear and warm, typical "Tex Richard weather," and interest is so keen and the crowds have been arriving from the hinterlands in such large numbers that it would not be surprising to see a turnout of from 60,000 to 80,000 in the Madison Square Bowl when the big fellows square off along about 10 o'clock.

Bob Moody, Negro heavyweight, formerly of Freeport, Pa., boxes Harold Mays, of New Jersey, in one of the five-round preliminaries. Other preliminaries are: Tony Shucco, Boston, vs. Al Stillman, St. Louis, six rounds; Innocente Baiguerra, Italy, vs. Chester Matan, and Arthur Huttick, New York, vs. Vic Bernard, Boston, five rounds each, and Leonard Del Genio, New York, vs. Phil Bruno, New York, four rounds. The show gets under way at 8 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Saving time.

Sharkey has been in New York since Tuesday night, attending shows and in other ways relaxing. Carnera was not due to leave his training camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., until time to come into New York for the weighing ceremony at 2 o'clock.

A number of familiar faces will be missing from the ringside tonight. Jim Corbett, Bill Muldoon and Charley Mathison, the judge, have passed on since the last heavyweight championship fight was fought, and Joe Humphries, the veteran announcer, still is convalescing in New Jersey from his recent stroke of apoplexy. His place will be taken by one Harry Balough, who has been officiating at the smaller clubs. The officials for the bout will not be known until they take their places just before the fight begins. Mathison undoubtedly would have been one of them had he lived. Gunboat Smith may be the referee again.

It is announced that there will be no radio broadcast of the fight, although it is intimated an eleventh-hour change in these plans may be expected. Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's worthy Milk Fund is sponsoring the show and will participate in the receipts. The winner will defend the title against Max Baer, recent knockout conqueror of Schmeling, either in the fall or next summer.

A Tale of Sullivan, Or $5 for a Tooth

By JESS CARVER

Did you ever know that back in the good old days of college football when the game still was very much in its infancy and when most anything went, the great John L. Sullivan, then heavyweight champion of the world, was called upon to help Princeton get ready for a championship game with Penn by giving one of the Nassau stars a boxing lesson?

Well, it's a fact, and we have the word of none other than Parke H. Davis, one of the pioneers of the game and its present ranking statistician, to prove it.

Mr. Davis, a business visitor in Pittsburgh, was in a story-telling mood yesterday and recounted his experience with the great John L.

Back in 1890 (Davis played at Princeton in '88, '89, '90, '91 and '92) the Tigers and Penn played games. The first was an exhibition affair at Princeton and the second, the championship battle, one of the most famous gridiron tussles of all time, was staged in Philadelphia.

BOXED WITH KILRAIN

In those days, the linemen stood almost toe to toe, and instead of charging and blocking, simply slugged away at one another all during the game. Davis, who rated high as a boxer and who had spent most of the previous summer boxing with the famous Jake Kilrain, took quite a pasting in the exhibition game from an opponent known to him only as Roy Watkins.

After the game, Davis went into a huddle with the Princeton officials and after due deliberation, it was decided that if the Tigers were to win the big game in Philadelphia, that Davis would have to improve his boxing. So he was given $50 and sent to New York to take a lesson from the great John L.

Davis found the champion seated in the back room of his Broadway saloon. The great John L., after much harr-umping and growling, agreed to give the collegian some pointers. Gloves were produced and a space cleared and the men prepared for action.

Said Davis:

"Those gloves looked powerful small on Sullivan's huge fists. We started off slowly, but it wasn't very long before I realized that Parke H. Davis was going to take a trimming. Sullivan only outweighed me by 10 pounds or so, but when he'd jab or cross, no matter how cleverly I blocked, his blows went crashing on through. I was afraid I was going to be knocked out by having Sullivan drive my own gloves against my chain.

"Finally the champion bashed me on the mouth and out came a tooth. Sullivan stopped fighting right away, threw an arm about my shoulder and, almost in tears, apologized for the occurrence.

"Why, I wouldn't have had that happen for $1,000. No sir, not for $10,000. My boy, go back to Princeton and tell them that John L. Sullivan is a gentleman. Come on and have a drink."

$5 FOR A TOOTH

Davis pulled the $50 from his pocket and asked Sullivan how much he owed him for the lesson. The fighter roared:

"My boy, I was going to charge you $5, but seeing as how I knocked out your tooth, I'll give you ten. Come on and have another drink."

Almost 40 years later Davis and Watkins met again and Davis told of having taken a lesson from Sullivan. Imagine Parke's surprise when Watkins replied:

"Well, Mr. Davis, since you are being so honest with me, let me be honest with you. My name isn't Watkins and I never went to Penn. My name is Kammer and I was a professional fighter imported from Troy to play against you."

BELMONT FACES TEST IN GO WITH HOLT

By JAMES MILLER

Jimmy Belmont, Frank Klaus' first-string welterweight, dons the gloves tonight for the first time since his knockout defeat at the hands of the Alabama Kid in Dover, O., last winter, when he meets Billy Holt, Homewood Negro puncher, in the feature contest of a four, 10-round bout card at the North Braddock Bowl.

This battle means much to Belmont. It will determine whether or not he will continue on as main bout timber or drop back into the preliminaries. Jimmy will have to be in A-1 condition to stave off Holt, who, in his last time out, fought a stirring tussle with Lew Raymond, of Baltimore, at Hickey Park.

In the supporting 10-rounders, Lloyd Clements, of Jeannette, who knocked Jack Pallat, Cleveland heavyweight, cold a few weeks ago at the Bowl, will endeavor to continue the string against Frank Novak, tough North Side heavy. Novak holds a victory over and has dropped a verdict to Pallat.

Joe Doktor, of Buffalo, comes back to town to try and put the damper on Sunny Jim McVey, the belting Negro, of the Hill district, in the second bout. McVey also scored a knockout at the Bowl's last show, taking Buddy McArthur, of Fairmont, W. Va., to the cleaners.

In opening shindig, the fans will be treated to two local bantamweights who really can fight. It brings together Jimmy Thomas, Negro, of the Hill, and Nat Litfin, Jewish warrior. The show will get under way at 8:45, daylight saving time.

Jules Beck, matchmaker, announced today that he would have the result of the Sharkey-Carnera bout announced from the ring tonight.

SPORT COMENT

club," Adams assured Harold Burr. "The outfielder runs on soft grass instead of the hard dirt of the infield. In the infield you have to be on your toes on every play. You never know when a ball's going to be thrown to you. There's no play from one outfielder to another. The outfielder has a lot of spare time on his hands. Of course, when the pitchers are being slugged, it's hard on his legs—but it's just as hard on an infielder's fingers."

Sparky Adams

AT THAT, ADAMS admits that he likes to play third base better than any other infield position. He played second and shortstop for the Pirates after coming here in the Cuyler deal. Sparky says he has found that every player likes the job he is doing.

"He may squawk about it, but down in his heart he likes it," Adams added. "I'm happy with the Reds, happy to be playing third for Donie Bush. One thing I like about that bag is that at third you can knock down a ball without fielding it cleanly, and still get your man. A shortstop has to come up cleanly with the ball."

THEY'RE STILL PICKING a new manager to supplant Marty McManus at the head of the Red Sox. Roger Peckinpaugh was running strongly for a time, but now Jack Barry, Holy Cross coach, is being mentioned persistently in Boston gossip.

Eddie Collins, business manager of the Bosox, played beside Barry in Connie Mack's famous old infield, and the two always have been close friends. Barry has been highly successful as a college coach, and has made Holy Cross the outstanding college team of the country.

ONE OF THE sprint stars of recent years who will be missing from the competing field in the national A. A. U. track and field championships at Chicago Soldier Field tomorrow is Frank Wykoff, world record holder and former Southern California flyer. His explanation is that he has not had the proper time to train for the hard going. Wykoff says he realizes that he would have to be at his best to stand a chance against Ralph Metcalfe, Emmett Toppino and others, and that as he has not been training he would only be wasting his time going to Chicago. The former champion of the cinder path is planning to enter summer school at U. S. C. and devote all his time to scholastic efforts.

THE FALLING THROUGH of the proposed football game next fall between Notre Dame and California was due only to the inability of the schools to find a date that would be mutually satisfactory, Hunk Anderson explains. The Irish wanted to play on December 16, but that's examination week for the Bears.

Then California offered two other dates, but they couldn't be made to fit in with the remainder of Notre Dame's schedule, so the game was dropped for this year. So Notre Dame's only coast opponent will be Southern California, as usual. Anderson says he expects plenty of trouble again in that engagement, as he thinks Howard Jones will have another fine team, though predicting that the Trojans will miss Gus Shaver. "Personally, I'm glad Shaver is through," says Hunk, "He was my idea of a great player, almost a backfield in himself."

THE FACT THAT that the Canzoneri-Ross lightweight championship fight, pronounced by critics the finest match in the class since Benny Leonard met Lew Tendler, drew only 11,204 paid admissions, is added evidence that sport attractions in connection with Chicago's World Fair are not going over.

Boxing men now admit that Jack Dempsey knew what he was doing when he declined to take the Schmeling-Baer show to the Windy City. The attendance at all sport events held so far as side features of the pageant of progress has been disappointing.

Dick Hanley

ONE DRAWBACK AT the earlier events, promoters now admit, was the little trick of adding to the price of tickets a 50-cent admission to the Fair. The extra assessment kept many fans away, it is believed. That has been taken off, but even now the outlook is viewed as none too bright. When seasonable sports didn't draw, many doubt that it will be possible to stir up any great interest in such an off-season attraction as the East-West football game to be played at Soldier Field in August. In advertising that game, incidentally, they are featuring "the great clash of the tackles." Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, who is directing the Eastern team, will have Marvil and Riley, Northwestern stars of a few years ago, to oppose Smith and Brown, of more recent Southern California fame. Tackles usually center their operations against guards and ends instead of playing wholly against each other, but the chance to see how two such famous pairs will work is expected to be one of the most attractive features of the summer contest. Incidentally, Hanley is said to be spending another uncomfortable off-season wondering if he's going to have a team at Northwestern in the fall. It is reported that three freshman stars of 1932 on whom he was counting will have to do some tall studying this summer to stay in college.

Business

Failure of Economic Meet at London Expected

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE FAILURE of the London economic conference to achieve any results of importance is generally expected. The difficulties in the way of arriving at any general understanding between the leading commercial nations have been thoroughly demonstrated.

Within the last few days a new factor has been brought into the situation. That the French franc may go off the gold standard has become a widely discussed possibility. Such a development would mean that three of the leading commercial nations would be engaged in a race to secure advantages in international trade by debasing their currency.

The President and his aides have made it clear that they do not intend to tie the dollar to any fixed relationship to gold until they are certain that business has a sufficiently clear road ahead of it so that new doses of artificial stimulants will not be needed.

National Policy Will Be One of Isolation

UNLESS SOME unexpected development takes place to revive the dying London conference, it is quite certain that this country will follow a policy of isolation in working out its planned business recovery.

The United States will be viewed as a self sufficient economic unit. The idea of working out a planned recovery on a world-wide basis will be abandoned. Other countries will be taken into consideration only as far as essential imports and exports are concerned.

Recovery Machinery Gets Into Operation

IN THE MEANTIME the administration's vast organizations for stimulating recovery are getting into operation. Gen. Johnson has the key industries working on codes of business practices and is facing the difficult task of getting labor and industry into working agreements. The work of getting other recovery facilities such as the Home Owners' Loan Corporation into operation is being pushed.

None of the new organizations to control business has had time to produce any actual results. The sharp recovery which has taken place in business appears to have been a natural and not an artificial one.

KROGER SALES EXPANDING

CINCINNATI, June 29.—Dollar sales of Kroger Grocery and Baking Company have been advancing steadily since 1932 and indications are that the sales for a nearby four-week period, quite possibly the present one, will equal or exceed a year ago. Last year sales began a sharp decline following the May period and continued through until fall.

Current earnings are well ahead of last year, when the company reported net of $1,365,045 for the 24 weeks ended June 18, equal after preferred dividends, to 75 cents a share on the outstanding 1,811,091 shares of common stock.

THE STANDARD OIL CO. OF PENNSYLVANIA

NEVER

allows its products to take Second Place

THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA, with its thousands of Esso Stations and Dealers, never sells a product over its name unless that product, by every test, has proved its superiority over the field • Essolene—developed in the world's greatest Petroleum Research Laboratories — sets a new goal for all gasolines to attain. It was developed not only with present motor problems in mind but future motor trends as well. Essolene guarantees smoother performance. This company stands firmly back of that guarantee • Essolene will not be ballyhooed as a "super" this or a "super" that. We will not insult your common sense with extravagant, fantastic claims of the sort that are making most gasoline advertising so hard to believe • We simply say this: Try Essolene. Be the judge yourself—in your own car. Make any comparison—or test—you choose, and convince yourself that in Essolene the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania leads the way.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP.)—International currency uncertainties and nervousness of grains clouded stock market enthusiasm today and prices generally backed and filled in an unimportant area.

The American dollar rallied sharply in foreign exchange markets as the gold bloc movement for stabilization, coupled with French intimations of franc devalorization, caused continental speculators to hurriedly cover short commitments. Wheat and corn dropped about 2 cents a bushel at one time, while oats, rye and barley were easier. Cotton developed a rather heavy tone and silver futures drifted moderately lower. Bonds were fairly steady.

Although the alcohol shares failed to emulate their spurting action of the last few sessions, there was a heavy run on Standard Brands in the first hour or so on the basis of the company's yeast and gin-making potentialities. Trading in this issue was in blocks of several thousand shares and it got up around 4½ points at one time before relaxing. Deere & Co., transferred from the Curb today, also drew a following for an advance of about 3 points. Other stocks up 1 to around 2 included Celanese, Case, American Ice, Lackawanna, Warner Bros., Cudahy, Armour A and Commercial Investment Trust. The rails and oils did little. American Tobacco B and Liggett and Myers B were off a point or more.

News from London indicated that the gold standard was in the balance at the economic parley and that efforts of leading European delegations were converging on a last-minute move to get the United States to agree to some form of currency regulation. Bankers here felt that America was facing a serious dilemma at the conference in the matter of its domestic policies and a foreign situation that is at a white heat which is threatening the economic deliberations of the nations.

Market-wise, the apparent impasse at London was being viewed with apprehension in some quarters which visualized further unsettlement in stocks and commodities if the United States finally agrees to a temporary stabilization scheme. At the same time, fears were expressed that the shelving of the gold standard by France and other European nations might bring an inflationary wave which could disturb the industrial recovery plans of the administration.

WHEAT HIGHER AT CLOSE

CHICAGO, June 29.—Influenced by authoritative reports that prolonged heat had taken heavy toll of crops in the Northwest, wheat advanced late today, and more than wiped out early losses.

In nearly all sections of the Northwest, stools of spring wheat plants were reported destroyed, and as a result production will be limited to the main stem. At the day's high point, May wheat reached $1.01¼.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼ to ⅞c above yesterday's finish; corn ⅞ to ¾c down; oats ½ to 1⅝c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Youngstown Mill Rate Nears Normal

YOUNGSTOWN, June 29.—(AP.)—Steel production in the Youngstown district has made a mid-week increase of about 2 per cent, bringing it to about 58 per cent of capacity.

Forty-eight of the district's 83 open-hearth furnaces were active yesterday as against 46 last Saturday. The increase was in corporation plants.

An operatiny percentage of 60 to 65 per cent is regarded as "normal" in the steel industry.

American Thread Boosting Wages

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., June 29.—(INS.)—The American Thread Company today announced a 12½ per cent wage increase, effective July 11, for all day and piece workers at the local factories. The increase will affect more than 1,500 persons.

DOLLAR WHEAT BACK IN PIT

CHICAGO, June 29.—Grain prices turned briskly upward after a hesitant start, and wheat soon advanced to $1 a bushel. Rains reported in Canada and American Northwest were totally insufficient to check crop damage. Opening ¼ off to ¼ up, wheat later rose all around. Corn started at ¾ decline to ⅛ gain, and subsequently scored a material general advance.

Domestic industrial reports continued highly encouraging. Freight loadings of the first 17 roads to report for the week ended June 24 totaled 459,468 cars, an increase of 3.2 per cent over the traffic handled by the same roads in the preceding week, and 21 per cent more than the corresponding week of 1932.

Bank clearings for the week of June 28 were 26.9 per cent ahead of the corresponding week a year ago, the largest percentage of increase over the comparative period of a preceding year since the beginning of the depression. Treasury records revealed that about $34,000,000,000 of the $44,000,000,000 of bank deposits have been released on an unrestricted basis. The bulk of the deposits still tied up are in mutual savings banks, it was reported, which are still operating on a restricted basis.

The dollar was again depressed in foreign exchange markets. Sterling opened at $4.41¼, an overnight gain of 2¼ cents, while French francs stood at 5.12 cents, an advance of 3 points.

Shakeout in Market Appears Inevitable

By LEWIS HANEY

NEW YORK, June 29.—The market has been very mixed and nervous during the last two days, and the real leading stocks have not done as well as the averages. A cautious observer is bound to feel that underneath things are not so strong as one would gather from the averages and the superficial news.

No matter where stocks may be headed eventually, I can see no reason in the recent performance for reversing the opinion that a good sized shakeout is called for. Only the wildest sort of speculation and strong-arm work can keep it going up much longer without a period of correction.

I THINK that we are just entering a period of adjustment to the actualities of the "new deal." The problems and difficulties of agricultural, industrial, railway and financial control are becoming apparent.

So a period of appraisal and hesitation should be expected. This would be only natural.

THEREFORE, I continue to advise that only speculative trading commitments be entered into. In fact, the skilled and active trader may be able to make some good turns on the short side, if sales are made on bulges.

Many stocks may see still higher levels. But recent action suggests better buying levels in a little while. Then I will like best the stocks in the building materials, equipment, oil, and chemical groups.

ON TUESDAY the volume was larger, yet the market made relatively little gain, thus suggesting good selling and profit-taking.

More than that, there was a sizeable reaction at the end, which left the closing average price considerably nearer the low than the higher for the day.

And throughout the day, the old-time leaders such as Steel, Can and Telephone, did nothing, while the liquor stocks, rayons and motors were whirled up.

THEN YESTERDAY, the market backed and filled, and again the real leaders sold off. It looked much as if the peak of the triangle has about been reached. New highs were made, but not in a convincing way.

THEN CAME the crack in wheat. It must be apparent to any sane man that the speculation in wheat has been extremely wild, and has been largely based in factors which make the market subject to violent reactions.

For example, there has been much buying of wheat to anticipate taxes, etc. The inflationary depreciation of the dollar is another factor.

Possibilities of world curtailment by agreement among the leading wheat-producing nations has played a part. Speculators have also been figuring on the uncertainty as to reducing our acreage next year under the domestic allotment scheme, financed by a "processing tax."

ALL THESE things are highly speculative. There is a big carryover of wheat and no prospect of exports. High prices will curtail consumption.

So such a big wheat move as has been seen is bound to be overdone. And any severe setback in wheat would affect the stock market at present.

Another thing to bear in mind is the continued 'flight from the dollar." Ever since it has been apparent that our "brain trust" had become set against currency stabilization, and headed toward further inflation, people have been hedging by transferring funds abroad.

They have bought securities, both American and foreign, in the London stock market, so that the proceeds could be realized in pounds rather than in depreciating dollars.

This is not a healthy thing. It reminds us of the monetary uncertainties of our position, and that eventually there is going to be a day of profit-taking.

IT IS NOTABLE that despite a record slump in the dollar in terms of pounds, stocks made no response yesterday.

SAVAGE PARADISE

Audacious Girl Reveals Secrets Of the Southern Seas

By MARGARET MATCHES

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

We were nearing Madang once more. I was sorry. I had been on the Nuloa for about four weeks. We had achieved the Sepik River, I had seen much that was wonderful, and I had been very happy and hated the thought of letting her go out again leaving me behind. For, after discharging her cargo at Madang, Capt. Alys would be taking the schooner once more back toward the equator.

Day after tomorrow we should be in Madang once more. It was along in the afternoon, a terribly hot afternoon, when all our passengers were turned in for siesta.

I had dragged a wicker chaise lounge (belonging to the Dennises) to a corner of the poop-deck where there would have been a breeze if there had been any. Pretty soon the mate picked his way past the kanaka helmsman, stepped over a basket of fruit, ducked a couple of bunches of bananas swinging from the awning prop, and sat down on an upturned wooden box near me. He rolled us each a cigaret.

He came to the point: "You know, Miss America, it's a pity you don't go on this next trip with us. It will be good."

"Where you going, mate?"

"Back to Manus, then through the Admiraltys, and on out to the Purdys and Hermtis, Ninnigo, Pelleluhun, Maty, Aua, Witu. We might even go as far as the Anchorites."

"But are you sure you want me along, mate?"

"Well," said he, "the Old Man and Jake and I were talking about it last night, and we all agreed you weren't much trouble aboard a ship. If you'd like to come, Miss America, we'd like to have you. This next trip is going to be an interesting one—none of us has made it before."

SAILS AGAIN

These three shellbacks were willing to carry me along with them on another uncertain adventure. It was a compliment, and I appreciated it.

It was November when the Nuloa put forth once more against the Admiraltys. This time she was crowded with passengers, including four women, the little Dennis boy, and two babies in arms, one of them young Terry, who was the best baby I have ever seen. A day out of Madang, we encountered the first stormy heralding of the monsoon season. But the squall didn't last long, and by midnight the waxing moon shone bravely behind ragged clouds.

Our passengers were soon dropped along the coast, except the Dennises and Lowforth.

We had picked up Lowforth as a passenger at Madang, within the last half-hour before sailing time. He had come down to the schooner, trailed by a police-boy carrying his worn leather grip. He had inquired of the skipper if he could get a passage. Where to? He didn't know—or care. Any place. The skipper said there wasn't a berth. Maskee! He'd be glad to bunk on a hatch. So he joined us.

I think I have never seen such a hopeless, aimless drifter as Lowforth. The turning over to a new owner of an Expro plantation had thrown him out of a manager's job weeks before. So naturally he had wandered down to Rabaul to see if anything offered itself. It did. The police master at Madang had resigned to join the gold rush. And Lowforth, being at loose ends at the moment, had gone into the little station on the New Guinea coast as police master.

REFUSED TO HANG MAN

But he and the D. O. didn't hit it up very well together. And now, all in a minute, he had resigned, because he had refused to hang a native. The kanaka deserved to be hanged, being a murderer, and heaven knows Lowforth needed his job as policemaster. But when he had taken the job in the first place he hadn't been clear as to his duties; certainly he hadn't known that he was expected to be Lord High Executioner. The hanging was scheduled for the day of the Nuloa's departure. The D. O. insisted that Lowforth do his duty. Within 30 minutes Lowforth was on the Nuloa, bound anywhere.

I liked talking to Lowforth. He was entertaining and pleasant, making an art of indolence, perhaps a little too ready to please. He was a university man who, when the war broke out, was completing his third year of medicine. He never finished his course, possibly because he sensed failure, and after the war he drifted out to Melanesia, picking up odd jobs as plantation manager, turning liklik doctor in native hospitals, acquiring little but experience, always on the move. Now at 46, he was again adrift.

But everybody liked Lowforth.

The Purdys are easy to miss. They are a low-lying string of coral islands, six of them including two that are just tiny coral rocks plumed with a few cocoanut palms. The four main islands rejoice in the names of Rat, Bat, Mouse, and Mole. Unimportant as they are, as islands go, and hazardous as the chances were in the reef-fanged waters, we had orders to lift copra there. So find them the skipper did; incidentally, one lone island shown on the chart in the vicinity no longer existed. As we approached Bat Island one morning, it seemed entirely uninhabited. The glasses showed, however, one grass-roofed shack and a thin line of smoke. There being no anchorage, we tacked while the mate took off across the reef in a dinghy with a crew. He returned in half an hour, empty-handed, with the information that all the natives had hidden themselves. He had talked at them, sweetly and then sternly, but not a savage had so much as stuck his head around a cocoanut tree.

GETS COPRA

Eleven miles on toward the horizon lay the largest island of the group. This time the skipper, donning his epauleted white coat and helmet, set out in the dinghy. About this atoll a wide reef made an angry surf, and we watched the progress of the small boat with a thrill. Up it went on the back of a comber, then down over its crest and lost to our sight for a moment in spume of surf. He was gone longer than the mate had been, but he came back with more to tell. Here, too, the kanakas had taken to hiding, all except the boss-boy, who came forth to greet his visitor. He volunteered the news that the little schooner Ida had passed that way a week before to collect copra, but the sea had been too rough to load and the Ida had at length turned back defeated. No other craft had been that way in many months.

So while the Nuloa tacked slowly within safe distance of the nile-green reef, perilously 50 bags of copra were launched into deep water and hauled up from the dinghy upon the poop-deck. The skipper returned again with the last load, bringing a prize—a huge green turtle. On the beach three of them were turned up on their backs. The island boys asked in payment a few sticks of tobacco, some matches, and a little kerosene to fill their lamp-walkabout (hurricane lamp). Their supplies had long since been exhausted.

Tinned food was becoming a trifle unappetizing, and the engineer asked how we should like pigeon pie for dinner. We told him Mouse Island looked verdant and promising for plover and parrots. Also, there might be more copra to lift. This time I went ashore with the engineer, the skipper, and a shoot-boy, to hunt game. It was a little island, and the plantation natives evidently had none of the fear of us that those of the other two had shown.

NATIVES HAPPY

There were apparently no women on any of the Purdy Islands. Here on Mouse Island was a circle of sacsac houses on stilts, approached from the beach by a path bordered with red-leaved crotons; the center plaza looked as if it had recently been swept. The boys were clean, self-respecting, and friendly.

And such islands! Here the sea shelves abruptly from cream and nile reef to great and transparent depth, where it is impossible to make soundings. The islands are trades-swept oases in the wide expanse of the Pacific. Happy the people who dwell here—and know no other life. For fresh water they have but to dig in the sand. Cocoanuts, birds, turtle and fish are to be had with as litte effort.

For a couple of days after we had left Dungamore Plantation Mrs. Dennis was ill, and I was concerned for her. She insisted that it was only malaria and that she was used to it. But she looked very bad. When she finally appeared on deck again, she lay white and wan in her wicker chaise longue, seeming more like a candidate for a hospital than for pioneering in the Admiraltys. Lowforth proved a great comfort, more by his sympathy and company than by any tangible assistance. There is little to do for fever save to administer quinine and aspirin at set intervals. But sympathy is sweet, and there is not too much of it when one is a fever victim in the islands. Every one presumably gets malaria there; it is not unusual enough to excite comment.

PICTURES NEW PLANTATION

When Mrs. Dennis was feeling better she made an effort to be pleasant, and I liked talking with her. Usually Lowforth was a third. She was thin but her figure was girlish, and after fever had passed her eyes were often without their dull expression of defeat.

The description of the new plantation, as given in the Tender Book, which she showed me, certainly sounded attractive. It spoke of a large plantation, yielding a satisfactory amount of copra, with numerous outhouses, a plantation house furnished, fresh water (artesian wells), and a sizable number of native laborers. We conjured up the vision of a white beach running back to a lawn, which perhaps would need careful attention to make it green. The bungalow would doubtless look out across the water. It had been a German plantation, and probably much of the original furniture would be there; a bit worn perhaps, but very comfortable. Originally it had been one of the flourishing plantations of the territory. By contrast with Walis it would, in any case, seem very splendid.

Mrs. Dennis had been gently bred. She was too good material to be wasted on a God-forsaken outpost of Melanesia. I don't know what her plans were for her two little sons. Except by schooner or canoe, there would be no contact for them with other white settlers. In case of serious sickness it would be a race with death to the nearest medical center, which at present is Madang. But one doesn't dwell on such things in Melanesia.

Anyway, with the help of the Tender Book, we built up a pleasant picture of the new plantation—and in our hearts hoped that it would come true. Lowforth listened to us and played with the baby. The skipper took a great fancy to the older boy, and the youngster shadowed his heels all day long.

MAKE THESE DOLLS

DOLLS' PATTERN NO. 476

The Katzenjammer Kids are appearing here in a new role—as dolls. And what little friend of theirs will not be delighted to own them? In this pattern their clothes are faithfully reproduced to the last detail. Since the faces are given in a "Just Press-'em-On" pattern (the transfer that needs no embroidery—just a hot iron), the expression of the Kids can be accurately transferred on the dolls.

No. 476 includes a pattern for making two dolls, the heads in a "Just Press-'em-On" pattern, a pattern for both costumes, together with detailed directions for making the dolls and the clothes. Price of pattern complete, 20c.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Date of Birth..... Address.....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

More good news for Junior Patrol members!

The circus is coming to town! The huge elephants, the daring horseback riders, the red and gold wagons—the whole big show will soon be here under the big tent.

Many Junior Patrol members tell us that they're going to see the curcus, and you bet we hope they have the swellest time ever. Maybe Snuggins will believe in g'raffes when he sees them for himself.

Junior, Mr. Hall tells us, may not get to see the big show. In "The Junior Patrol" strip today, he is ill, and Spike and Snuggins are afraid he is going to miss the show. That's tough, fellows—darn tough, and we're hoping that Junior will get well soon.

It's tough for anyone to be sick, but when they are, every member of the Junior Patrol has a whiz of a chance to be a 100 per cent Junior Patrol member. Every member of the Junior Patrol has just gotta help others. Don't you feel kind of happy all over when you do somebody else a big favor? You would be a funny kind of a kid if you didn't. We'll bet that Snuggins and Spike will find some nice things to do for Junior while he's sick, and help him to get well soon.

Maybe you other members can help somebody who is sick in your neighborhood, especially if they aren't as fortunate as you are. Or maybe someone has a birthday and is too poor to get any present. Boy, we'll bet they would smile all over if you asked them to eat ice cream and cake with you!

We have a letter today from Celina McBride, captain of the Lincoln Place Girls Junior Patrol. There are 11 girls in her patrol and Celina expects more to join soon. That's fine, Celina, and we hope your membership reaches 25. Maybe if your patrol gets big enough, you will need more than one lieutenant. We're glad to hear that you meet regularly once a week. Please let us know what you do to help others.

In her letter, Celina asked us for a book of Patrol rules. We don't have such a book, Mr. Hall says, because he wants each patrol to do what its captains and members think best, just so long as they keep their pledge promises faithfully.

But we have written a sample constitution that each patrol can follow in writing a constitution of their own. Here it is:

1—The name of this patrol shall be the Junior Patrol of .....

2—Any boy or girl may belong to this patrol who has signed the Junior Patrol pledge.

3—At the first meeting each year of the Patrol, the members shall elect a Captain and a First Lieutenant (and a Lieutenant of the Treasury if desired).

4—Any member may suggest the name of a candidate for Captain or First Lieutenant. The member suggested for Captain with the most votes shall be the Captain, and the member suggested for First Lieutenant with the most votes shall be the First Lieutenant.

5—Any number of boys and girls may belong to the Patrol.

6—Each member of the Junior Patrol of ..... must be a member of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Patrol and must wear the official badge at all meetings.

9—The Captain can appoint other lieutenants.

Capt. Robert Elkin, of 548 Lobinger avenue, North Braddock, has a new patrol organized. He sends seven pledge slips all in one envelope and asks us to send the buttons and membership cards to his Junior Patrol shack. You bet we will, Capt. Elkin, and we are especially glad to hear that your patrol has a meeting place of its own. It's always more fun that way.

ROMANCES OF THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Only a few short months ago the copper interests faced a grave, immediate crisis. Price of copper had gone down, down, down, while surplus raw material piled up, up, up. Directors, summoned to meet and discuss the situation, sat silent, glum. Suddenly the door opened, and in rushed Hyvis G. Doakes, research engineer, and gave a triumphant whoop. "I've got it," he said. Then Doakes explained how restaurants use potato chips for a garnish, but that the valspar varnish used to toughen the potato chips is expensive and tedious to apply. "Make potato chips out of rustless copper!" said Doakes. And that, dear friends, marked the turning point back to prosperity.

About time that the Chinese wall lost its standing among the wonders of the world.

It was knitted to keep the invader out and the local boy in.

In the last couple of decades it has failed to make good. Every time we picked up a paper we read about the invader hopping over the wall on his way to do some vegetable marketing.

None of the established wonders of the world has any historical rating these days. Not when you figure how modern science has 'em backed off the news wharf. Out in Chicago they started their fair with a light beam from Arcturus. The beam took half-a-century to get there.

Way back in 1893 an astronomer figured a flash from Arcturus would strike Chicago on a certain day in May, 1933. So they built a tremendous fair to garage it.

Niagara Falls will also flop as a wonder after the public figures why electric power is so expensive when water is so cheap. The Grand Canyon will continue to bend many a future tourist's neck. But only as a fine example of how big you can dig a hole without striking oil.

The leaning tower doesn't mean a thing since modernistic architects started designing office buildings and homes. Now, we have towers that can not only do setting-up exercises in the breezes. You can get from one floor to another by sliding down hill.

So, pull those seven old wonders out of the book and fill in the dotted space with a thousand newer and bigger astonishments. Even the Brooklyn Bridge is mid-Victorian. They're building bridges these days so long that a new motor car hasn't got much trade-in value on the other end.

We admit it is tough on the old boys who broke their wisdom teeth on McGuffey's Third Reader. We used to swear by the seven wonders, the Colossus of Rhodes and the Palisades.

But, after spending a trail-blazing evening in the aisles of Radio Music Hall or hanging over the top shelf of the Empire State building, you realize that the petrified forest and the Russian steppes are merely sentimental palookas. Even history eventually can become a cancelled order.

Flood Control Support

West Virginia Communities Indorse Plans Proposed By Pittsburgh Commission.

Representatives of a group of West Virginia communities have given their support to the projects recommended in the Pittsburgh Flood Commission's $60,000,000 Monongahela-Allegheny River improvement program.

While the development of an adequate flood control system is vital to Pittsburgh, it is of equal importance to all the communities in the Ohio River Valley. This is evidenced by the ready indorsement of the Pittsburgh commission's proposals by those farther down the river.

The construction and operation of storage reservoirs to control floods above Pittsburgh will be beneficial at other points in the valley.

The logical places to start flood prevention in the Ohio Valley are at the points proposed by the Flood Commission because they are at the beginning of the entire system.

If the river regulation works proposed are successful, there will be every reason to believe that similar works will be constructed on other tributaries of the Ohio River below Pittsburgh until the entire basin is protected from floods.

The prevention of damage by storing water in reservoirs during flood periods is only one of the benefits to be derived from the improvements. The release of large volumes of water at times when river stages are low will be helpful to navigation and it is to be remembered that the use of the rivers has been a major factor in protecting Pittsburgh's supremacy in the steel industry.

The fact that the Flood Commission's plans are in such a state of development that work can be started within a short time is a further point in favor of their adoption. The intention of the federal public works program is to provide immediate employment. The approval of the $60,000,000 project would mean a prompt spurt in employment since 60 per cent of the funds would be spent directly on wages.

City Has Good Credit

Bankers Compete To Pay High Premium For Bonds Bearing Low Interest Rate.

Pittsburgh's credit is good. In these days when many cities are facing financial difficulties and defaults on municipal bond issues are becoming common, our city has found no difficulty in securing a high premium for its bonds in spite of the fact that the latest issues bear a low interest rate.

Twelve investment bankers submitted bids for issues of relief and water bonds totaling $900,000. Eight of the bidders were out-of-town firms and four were local concerns. While these 20-year bonds bear interest of only 4½ per cent, the successful bidder paid a premium of $47,030 in excess of the face value.

Mayor John S. Herron points out that this premium was the largest ever obtained by the city even though previous issues, in some cases, paid higher interest rates.

Further evidence of the regard in which Pittsburgh's bonds are held in investment circles appears in the fact that Moody's Investors Service, one of the recognized authorities on bonds, rates the city's securities at AA. This is second to the highest possible rating.

The high standing of our city's credit is important to everyone of its citizens. The fact that this standard has been maintained during more than three years of business calamity indicates that Pittsburgh will have no difficulty in keeping its public works in good condition.

Probing Costs

The Legislative Inquiry Promises a Thorough and Fair Inquiry Into Allegheny County Expenses.

The legislative committee created to investigate the costs of government in Allegheny County has organized and adopted a tentative program for its inquiry.

It plans to delve into the operation of the fee offices of the county, particularly that of the collector of delinquent taxes. The purpose of the latter investigation, according to Representative William A. Walker, sponsor of the motion, is to determine the costs of the office, its net earnings, and whether all of this net is retained by the collector or distributed among politicians.

That is a good question to settle. It has caused much discussion, the common opinion being that the office has been a collecting agency for campaign funds. If it is not, justice to the collector demands clarification of the rumors.

The committee says it will investigate all governmental costs, without political bias, and report remedies to the Legislature if any are demanded or suggest themselves. Carrying forward on that basis, the committee has the opportunity for real public service. Its work will be closely watched.

Indictment of Coyne

The indictment of political leaders, including State Senator James J. Coyne by the Federal Grand Jury on charges affecting a federal election, necessarily must be a shock to persons in political life who have accepted Senator Coyne as their leader. Indictment, of course, does not mean conviction, but it has its effect, nevertheless, on the political fortunes of any leader.

For years election thefts have been boldly carried on in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. Where it has not been possible to do so through politically subservient election boards making falsified returns, as has been frequently proven in investigations, other means have been found to thwart the will of the voters. Ballot boxes that might incriminate boards have been stolen from storage places by "night riders."

So desperate have been election thieves it seems astounding that some public officials, long entrenched, and in cahoots with the machine, have ever been defeated.

If the Federal inquiry has produced evidence of what the public has long been convinced concerning election cheating, Pittsburgh will be on its way to really honest elections.

'Hatch Your Own Eggs First'

By Nelson Harding

The farmer thinks it would be best,
To sit on the domestic nest
And hatch the eggs laid right at home
And not mid foreign nests to roam.

He can't see why the bird has flown,
To hatch a setting not its own,
And on those foreign birds' eggs sit,
That they may have the benefit.

Ultra-Modern Philosophy

This is the daffy season, when a man and girl drive out into the country to enjoy the beauty of the scenery—and then forget to look at it; or go out "to look at the moon"—and never rest until they find a dark corner where they can't see it.

Usually, the reason why a man's alibi to a woman is so unconvincing, is because he didn't have time to think up a more awkward and fantastic one.

A girl's idea of making herself attractive, these days, seems to consist in lying out in the sun and turning a velvety back and a nice, white, kissable neck into something about as tempting as a lobster-shell or a tan leather shoe.

There will never be any real "equality" between the sexes, until a woman can go home from the office, dust off her shoes and slick down her hair, and be "all dressed up" for a party.

* * *

A man never has so many failings that his wife can't find some other woman's husband, who is so much worse that she can enjoy thinking of her as "that poor thing."

Somehow, love always defeats its own ends by making a woman shy when she wants to be responsive, weak when she ought to be firm, and wistful when she ought to be amusing.

One reason why the modern man seems cold and unemotional is because it's so hard for him to make love to a girl effectively, when he's serious—and so dangerous, when he's not.

Somehow, a girl likes to think of a man as big and dominating and masterful, even if she has to hand him a club and beg him to strike her with it.

* * *

What a modern girl really puts into her hope-chest, in place of the good old cook-book, is not a can-opener, as the masculine wits would have you believe—it's a check-book and a cocktail-shaker.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 29.—Few express the mid-west notion of the hurrying New Yorker so neatly as Herbert Bayard Swope. Flushed, red-haired and twitchy, he seems eternally meeting life on the gallop. St. Louis born, he won fame as an international reporter and then as executive editor.

His career might be epitomized in an alliterative headline "Swope Swirls." Or conjugated: "Swope, sweep, swack." When he goes down a theater aisle it is like a last minute dash to a train. Yet with all this yeastiness no person can look more successfully brittle than Swope. So tense.

The springy gait is not only of body but mind. As city editor his decisions had the steely click of a roulette ball and as a citizen has the bluster of Edmund Kean. He is a lover of crowds, a dowser of doctrine and like all robust, a passionate devourer of red sirloin.

There's a legend he is the most prolific user of the telephone in town. Wherever he breezes, he first glances for the telephone and if none is about is unhappy. So unhappy, indeed he will not stay. Only while fishing does he relax this feverish pitch and they have to drag him away to it at times.

Likely the most temperamental dog extant is a Scotch terrier owned by the artist Howard Chandler Christy. A fierce battler if the canine exigencies demand, he is soft-hearted when it comes to a personal snub. If his master makes a face at him, he slinks to some darkened corner and it takes an hour of coaxing to restore his joy in living. A whipping causes him to snarl defiance, but making a face sends him cowering.

Booth Tarkington once owned a French poodle that was the acme of gentleness. One day the novelist in removing a venerable banjo from a trunk, twanged it. I have a distant relative who has always grabbed the tail-end of every fad. Just when she masters some new art to teach others there's a sudden shift in national consciousness. It was true in pyrography, then in this and that until she opened a Tom Thumb golf course. About six months ago she wrote she was delving deeply into technocracy and I knew technocracy was ephemeral. Meredith Nicholson also had a kinsman who spent five years fashioning the perfect pants-guard and just when it was patented and ready for marketing bicycles went out.

Tales continue that Jimmy Durante has become impossibly high-hat, difficult to handle and brusque with peasant pals of his saloon-singing days. As the stage's chief vulgarian, he had a swell break. Though most of his public would like to have seen him carry along his speakeasy partners, Clayton and Jackson, to the heights. In contrast is Mae West, another jovial commoner, who lands all her old friends of the tough-going days jobs in Hollywood. There's a gal!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Every year in June I Get Mad. So mad I yearn to go out and land a whale of a kick on the Status Quo's stupid, complacent shin. For this is graduation month. Thousands of splendid, eager youngsters leaving our High Schools and Colleges—

AND WHERE DO THEY GO FROM HERE?

What place have we made ready for all these would-be workers—these potential lawyers, doctors, school teachers, journalists, engineers?

For years their parents have struggled to keep them in school; have scimped and sacrificed, in many cases incurring debts which they will never be able to discharge, that their children might have a better chance.

Nor were the parents the only ones who did double duty to see those youngsters through school. Every taxpayer also anted up. The whole American nation digs down into its pocket for education. Our graduates are our most expensive crop.

We should get brighter years ahead, more ease for weary Mother and Dad, more pride and joy and wider interests in each hard-worked home.

We should get a busier and better nation. More progress in each community. More help for the sick and the weak and oppressed.

And the youngsters themselves should get their chance. A chance to work as soon as they leave the campus, before their eagerness goes stale. A chance to marry when love's at flood tide. A chance to fight in those noble crusades which, they have been told, await them on the human battle line. A chance to win their spurs and prove their mettle in every fine adventure.

And we COULD get all this—if we set ourselves to it. We COULD make a system which would serve our children and, through them, all the race, just as surely as we have made a system which serves the big Railroad, Steel, Automobile, Banking and Oil Interests.

WE COULD MAKE A SYSTEM WHICH WOULD GIVE EVERY ONE A CHANCE INSTEAD OF A FAVORED FEW A CHANCE—

A SYSTEM WHICH WOULD PAY DIVIDENDS TO ALL OF US INSTEAD OF THOSE FAVORED FEW.

It wouldn't be hard. Not nearly as hard as the shell game we're running now. Just a matter of everybody getting together and refusing to be skinned any longer. Deciding to use our brains and backbones. Cleaning out the rats. Regulating working hours. Controlling production. Using the same sense and shrewdness to protect our own interests and make a profit for ourselves which we've used to protect and enrich the Big Fellows.

Yes, it could be done. There's no good reason on earth, save our own laziness and stupidity, why it hasn't been done.

Nothing's holding us back. Here we are, with all the makings, staging the show we want and running it to suit ourselves. And how do we run it?

LOOK OVER THE GRADUATING CLASSES OF 1930, '31, '32, AND '33, AND YOU'LL SEE HOW WE RUN IT.

MOST OF THEM STILL UNEMPLOYED.

AND WHERE DO THEY GO FROM HERE?

NOWHERE!

EXACTLY NOWHERE.

THEY DON'T EVEN START.

FOR WE HAVEN'T PREPARED ANY PLACE WHERE THEY CAN GO.

WHAT A BUNCH OF STUPES WE TURNED OUT TO BE!

IF WASHINGTON COULD SEE US NOW!

Zion City Reported in Bankruptcy Court—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, Dowie's Successor—Killarney Lakes Bought by American

By EDWIN C. HILL

NO RESPECTER of persons, the depression smites saints and sinners, the righteous as well as the wicked. We hear that Zion City, out by Chicago, and its latter-day prophet, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, have gone to the bankruptcy court, and that a once thriving and prosperous community of the anointed is on the financial rocks. Quite calmly, however, Wilbur Glenn Voliva announces that he will live to be 106 and that Zion will flourish once more despite the machinations of the ungodly.

Voliva is the grand overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of some five thousand souls, segregated in a mill town 75 miles from Chicago, and which bears the name of Zion City. There in Shiloh Temple, on Elijah avenue, Wilbur Glenn Voliva proclaims his doctrines of faith and morals, and runs the ten-million-dollar manufacturing business of the Disciples of Zion.

This plump, severe, thin-haired gentleman got the call to religion while he was fighting potato bugs on an Indiana farm. He preached the old-fashioned religion of hell-fire for sinners before joining up more than 30 years ago with a white-bearded little Scotch prophet from Australia, the one and only John Alexander Dowie.

The Most Picturesque Of the Prophets

DOWIE, calling himself "the first Apostle of the Lord" and the reincarnation of the Prophet Elijah, founded Zion City and ruled it with a heavy hand. Smoking, swearing, dancing, short skirts and the use of face powder or cosmetics were a sin, to be severely punished. He was the most picturesque of all the prophets that have come storming along in the last three-quarters of a century, this under-sized, pompous exhorter with a full snow-white beard that fell to his waist, brilliant blue eyes, rosy cheeks and great head crowned by snow-white hair, which drifted to his shoulders. He was a picture worth looking at as he stood up in the pulpit to denounce the Devil and all his works and thunder against the wickedness of cities.

In 1906, Elijah the Second took a vacation and left Voliva in charge of Zion—and with the usual result. Dowie's vacation became permanent. Voliva succeeded to the post and the profits of First Apostle. Not long ago he took a trip around the world to prove his contention that the world is not round but is really as flat as a pancake. To his own satisfaction he proved it, calmly brushing aside all the science of the last five centuries.

The Zionists are extreme in Fundamentalism and Puritanism, though report has it that cigarets, one-piece bathing suits and lipsticks are not unknown in the holy city. If not, it must be on the sly, for there is no record of Wilbur Glenn Voliva recanting his belief that all sinners are doomed to swim eternally in a pool of mixed drinks, like a fly caught in the blue flames of good French brandy rising from a coffee cup.

Killarney Lakes An American's Gift

WITH one of those magnificent gestures of which we sentimental Americans alone seem capable, Mr. William Bowers Bourn, of San Mateo, Cal., hitherto unknown to fame, has purchased from the Earl of Kenmare 100,000 Irish acres and presented them, as a free gift, to the Irish Free State. Those acres contain a jewel of the world, the Lakes of Killarney, immortalized in song and story, dear to every Irish heart and one of the beauty spots of the earth.

The property, with the three Lakes of Killarney, near Killarney Town, has belonged to Lord Kenmare's family ever since the days of Queen Elizabeth. Hard times and crushing taxes forced Kenmare, as it has driven other great land holders, to go to the auction block. Mr. Bourn, of California, of Irish descent, seized the opportunity to present to the Irish people one of their dearest bits of land and water. There was a famous castle on the land until about 20 years ago, when a fire destroyed it, with its priceless collection of art treasures and historical relics.

Ancient legends hover like ghosts about the lovely sapphire lakes in their emerald hills. St. Patrick, the story goes, climbed to the top of the tallest mountain overlooking Killarney water, stretched his hand forth and blessed it. Of the three lakes, Lough Torc, the middle, is famous for the rock of Colleen Bawn. From that grim rock, the Irish believe, the wicked Danny Man flung the fair Lily of Killarney to her doom in the waters below. On the lower lake is the castle of Ross, the old stronghold of the O'Donoghues. Of one of the islands, Innisfallen, Thomas Moore sang a pretty song. There, too, is Muckross Abbey, founded by the Franciscan Fathers 500 years ago.

They are not joyous lakes, the Lakes of Killarney, but the isles they hold are the lovelier for their tears and, as the poet wrote, "'Tis heaven's own glance when the sun appears."

A TRAGIC CASE

By Winifred Black

A little 10-year-old girl was brought into court in San Francisco the other day to testify against her own father.

Her mother was not allowed to testify—she was the man's wife and knew all about the whole cruel, hideous affair—so of course she was not permitted by law to open her mouth in court.

And the poor child herself said very little.

She just sobbed piteously and showed her bruised and beaten body to the woman in charge of such heart-breaking situations.

The little girl had a bad mark in school, and when she went home and showed her report card to her father he flew into a rage, snatched up a wooden chair and beat the child almost into utter collapse.

The policeman who made the arrest could hardly keep his hands off the man who did this terrible thing.

The judge on the bench sickened and turned pale when he looked at the poor, shaking, terrified child.

The man was sentenced to one year in jail—and two days after he went to jail to serve that sentence the little girl's mother went to the judge and begged him to set her husband free.

"I can't bear to think of the father of my children in prison, judge," said the woman.

Tears ran down her cheeks and she showed a letter the poor little victim had written to the man who so cruelly abused her.

The letter said:

"I forgive you, Daddy, I love you, and I want you to come back home."

Just about 10 years ago half the people who read that story in the morning papers would have cast their eyes heavenward, and said something pious and edifying about the "depths of a woman's love."

And most of the neighbors would have hurried in with a pie or a cake, or a pot of fresh coffee to meet and greet the prodigal father and tell him they all knew he'd be good for ever after.

Not so today.

The anger and outraged indignation of the community is turned now not to the man who did this hideous thing, but to the woman who wants to forgive him for doing it, and take him back so he can do it again.

They are not talking about the "depths of this woman's devotion," not at all.

They are not calling her a marvelous example of woman's love and patience.

They are calling her a poor mother, and some are even so cruel as to hint that the poor child ought to be taken away not only from the father who could do such a thing, but from the mother who could forgive him for doing it.

Things are certainly changing—aren't they?

What would you do if you were the judge in that particular case?

Would you let this man out before his sentence was served, and if you were a neighbor to that family how would you feel about that mother?
